Softball Tourney Set Here Sunday

Thief River Falls will host the third annual Far North Softball tournament Sunday with 16 teams expected to take part in the single elimination event. The defending champion, East Side Merchants from East Grand Forks will be one of the tournament entries, as will the runner-up Ketter's Meats team from Frazee.

Three diamonds at the fairgrounds will be used for the tournament and the east side diamond will also be in use. First round games will begin at 9 a. m. and it is expected that the championship game will be held at 6:30 p. m. at the fairgrounds diamond. Pairings for the tournament will be announced Thursday at 6:15 p. m. on radio station KTRF.

Teams entered in addition to the East Side Merchants and Ketter's Meats include Audubon, Fosston, Fisher, McIntosh, Evans Supermarket of Detroit Lakes, Art Mart of Grand Forks, Crookston Eagles and Hartz, Bridgeman's, Bea's Food Market, Schmidt's and VFW of Thief River Falls. Two additional entries are expected to complete the slate of 16 teams for the tournament.

Water Conditions For Canada Ducks Called Excellent

Water conditions are excellent in western Canada's prairie provinces and waterfowl broods are late... Early nesting success has been sub-par, due to such things as cold weather and snow of late May and, later, flooding of nesting areas. Waterfowl now are busy with a strong renesting effort and late brood success could be good. These are some of the facts contained in the July issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological", prepared by General Manager Angus Gavin.

The report stresses heavy June rains in the duck-producing areas of the prairie provinces. It reveals that in some localities long-term records were broken. As a result, water levels in most districts are above those recorded last spring. It is brought out that "habitat conditions are excellent and there will be considerable carry-over for 1966."

Gavin tells of abundant evidence of a strong renesting attempt. "Mallards are still present as pairs through the breeding habitat," he said. Single drakes, indicating nesting activity by the hen, are common. Pre-moulting aggregations of mallard and pintail drakes have been slow to develop and those observed contain few hens, a further indication of continuing nesting activity."

As a concluding summary, Gavin notes, "The season is expected to be successful, but two to three weeks late."

NOVELTY of a swimming pool in one's front yard is bound to be fascinating to youngsters, and these children of residents of the 400 block on Crocker av. S. were quick to take advantage of the situation presented them by Monday morning's sod-soaker. Street construction had blocked the area's roadside drainage ditches, causing the water to raise to a depth of about two feet in this block. The young set found the area a delightful playground, proving that the popularity of the "old swimming hole" has not diminished with the passing of generations. The spirits of the three youngsters in the wooden box were not dampened when they found that their makeshift canoe would not float.

IRS Answers Several Income Tax Questions

These questions and answers on federal tax matters are provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue service and published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—My return was audited last year and I had to pay additional tax on my income. What are the chances that my return will be audited this year?

A—Most returns are selected for audit either because they have certain income or expense characteristics or on a random basis. However, if you are in a high income bracket or if you claimed unusual expenses or deductions, then your chances of being audited are good.

At some time or other, all taxpayers may expect to have their returns audited.

All returns are mathematically verified. Periodic checks on other aspects of a return contribute to sound tax administration.

Q—When is the next installment of my estimated tax due?

A—Individuals who report on a calendar-year basis must pay their third installment by September 15. The deadline is the same for calendar-year corporations.

Q—I am thinking of joining an investment club. If I do, how do I report the dividends or capital gains I might receive?

A—The way you report this income depends on how the investment club is organized. Many of these clubs are considered partnerships so that income and expenses would be reported under the provisions covering partnership income. Some clubs are incorporated or operate as an association with the characteristics of a corporation. Should this be the case, then the provisions governing corporations apply. These provisions are explained in Internal Revenue Document No. 5448, "Investment Income and Expenses," which is available free at your local Internal Revenue office.

Q—I just realized I paid taxes on the social security benefits I received last year. Is it too late to do anything about it?

A—No. You may claim a refund on Form 843, or you may file an amended return to obtain a refund for the amount you overpaid. If you want to file an amended return, take a form 1040 (note that a 1040A form cannot be used for this purpose)and write "amended" across the top. Then fill in all the information required, and recompute your tax liability.

Q—I came to this country several weeks ago for a temporary job. What are my federal tax obligations?

A—Internal Revenue has published the booklet, "U. S. Tax Guide for Aliens," Document No. 5589. It explains your tax obligations and will enable you to determine whether you are a resident or nonresident alien for tax purposes. Your employer will need to know your status for withholding purposes.

A copy of Document No. 5589 is available at no charge from any local Internal Revenue office.

Q—Last week at a party I heard a fellow bragging about how he cheated on his income tax. Should I report him?

A—Evidence more substantial than that should usually be the basis of a report to Internal Revenue on suspected tax violations.

The Internal Revnue service does not actively solicit information from the public about anyone else's income tax violations, but we do give appropriate consideration to the information given to us.

Q—Does a counselor at a camp have to list the room and board he receives as part of his wages?

A — Generally speaking, meals and lodging furnished to counselors are considered to be provided for the employer's convenience and do not have to be included with taxable income.

Q—Is there any guide to the federal taxes I would be responsible for if I went into business for myself? I am thinking of opening up a cleaning establishment.

A—Internal Revenue Publication No. 334, "Tax Guide for Small Business," should answer most of your questions. It costs 50 cents and can be obtained from your district director's office or from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Continuous Crop And Crop Rotation Studied at Morris

Which is better—crop rotation or continuous cropping? In terms of production, crop rotation seemed to have only a slight advantage over continuous cropping in a five-year study at the University of Minnesota's west central school and experiment station at Morris. The study was reported recently during the station's annual field day.

Agronomist Roy L. Thompson, soil specialist Samuel D. Evans and extension soils specialist Lowell Hanson said cumulative effects of certain management factors were measured on continuous crops of corn, soybeans and alfalfa, and on rotations of oats, hay, soybeans and corn.

Results showed only a minimal advantage of growing these crops in rotation, especially when the production is considered from an economic standpoint over the time needed to complete the rotation cycle. The researchers pointed out, however, that under certain conditions rotation cropping will no doubt have a considerable advantage.

For example, with the northward movement of corn rootworms and with some root rots of soybeans, the use of rotations or alternating crops may be necessary. And where soil erosion is a problem, crop rotation with limited cultivated crops is definitely an effective means of erosion control.

They added that it may be advisable, whenever possible, to leave the areas most subject to erosion in continuous sod crops while utilizing level land for continuous corn. And where continuous cropping of cultivated crops is followed careful management is needed to insure that crop residues are returned to the soil and that soil tilth is maintained.

Minnesota Nears Top of Ladder as Taxpaying State

Minnesota is nearing the top of the tax load ladder among all 50 states, according to Charles P. Stone, executive director of the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"Statistics released recently by the U.S. Department of Commerce show that state and local taxes in the 12 months ending June 30, 1964, averaged $281.84 for each of the state's 3,521,000 men, women and children, and took nearly one-eighth of all personal income in the state,' Stone said.

"Only five states (Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Nevada, California and New York) had a higher per capita burden of state and local taxes, and in only one state (Wisconsin) was the tax load higher per $1,000 of personal income.'

Stone said that the commerce department publication, 'Government Finanaces in 1963-64," listed personal income per capita in Minnesota in calendar 1963 at 2,329—down in 23rd place in the ranking of the 50 states.

"The commerce department report also showed that in Minnesota income and property taxpayers shouldered the bulk of state and local government tax costs.

"The new individual income tax rate increases, combined with failure to act on tax reform, indicate that the next annual 'Government Finances' report by the department of commerce will show 'more of the same' so far as Minnesotans are concerned," Stone said.

The walleye accounts for a large share of the fish harvested annually by fishermen in Minnesota. The official Preuss painting now hangs in the State Capitol.

Announce Provisions Of Highway Turnback

Highway Commissioner John R. Jamieson has announced the department's policy for carrying out provisions of the so-called "Turnback Bill" which was adopted as Chapter 672, Laws of 1965. This legislation was enacted to protect the counties and municipalities from having to assume burdensome obligations for the maintenance and improvement of those existing trunk highways that will be reverted to local jurisdiction upon construction of the Interstate system.

The general policy concerning turnbacks is as follows

1. It shall be the district engineer's responsibility to schedule all trunk highway reversions within the limitations of the following provisions, to be effective on the date the new facility is opened to traffic.

2. It shall be the policy of the highway department to submit a preliminary notice to the local jurisdiction of the department's intent to revert certain sections of trunk highways at a future date.

3. A county or municipality shall be given not less than 60 days notice in advance of the effective date of the commissioner's order releasing a relocated trunk highway to their jurisdiction.

4. The highway department will not revert any portion of a trunk highway to local jurisdictions between the dates of November 1 and April 1 unless agreement for same can be obtained from the affected jurisdiction.

5. Before a trunk highway release order is requested by the district engineer, he shall have established the eligibility for such route to be designated as either a County State-Aid highway or a Municipal State-Aid street.

6. A trunk highway reversion that meets the criteria for state aid designation can be released in accordance with the above procedure without obligation for repairs or reconditioning by the highway department. Such highways will be eligible for reconstruction under the provisions of Chapter 672, Laws of 1965 (Turnback Law).

7. Any proposed trunk highway reversion not eligible for State Aid designation must be restored by the department to a good serviceable condition prior to the district engineer's request for a release order.

Confusion Already

This Civil Rights act which became law July 1 is already causing a bit of confusion. We have heard that courts in the nation are over-burdened with cases at the present time. The ambiguous statements of the Civil Rights law are certain to cause some long and involved cases and the courts will be pressed to establish precedents which must be carefully weighed.

In a letter to all affiliates, the Minnesota Federation of Labor (AFL-CIO) stated "... it seems to us as laymen, and we are so informed by our legal counsel, that this language...now makes illegal the practice of a few employers who discharge a female employee simply because she gets married. They do not discharge a male employee who gets married, and to discharge only a particular sex appears to us as discrimination."

This certainly does seem to be discriminatory. Assuming the due course of events following marriage, we may also assume that the female employee will in the future request a leave of absence for maternal reasons. Would it not also be discriminatory for a company to fail to grant a similar leave of absence to the father of an expected child, since he is a legal partner in the marriage? Would the failure to grant such leave of absence not be made purely on the basis of sex of the individual concerned?

Section 703(a) of the Civil Rights act provides: "It shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer....to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions or privileges of employment, because of such individual's race, color, religion, sex or national origin."

Should a Lutheran congregation, on this basis, issue a call for a pastor and receive an application from a Roman Catholic priest, would not this congregation be obliged to engage the services of the applicant? Religion is not to be a factor for employment consideration under the act

Life certainly is getting complicated in our free nation, isn't it?

The Anonymous Letter

We have commented before in these columns about unsigned or anonymous letters. These cross our desk—enroute to the waste basket—not infrequently and cause a certain amount of irritation. Anyone with just cause for complaint or criticism should feel no embarrassment over speaking his piece of mind in a public forum and be recognized for doing it.

There are those, however, who are not concerned with just complaint or criticism, but are simply axe-grinding, fence-mending or trouble-making individuals. It is from these people that most of the unsolicited, unsigned and usually unheeded letters emanate.

This week we received such a letter with a Detroit Lakes postmark. Writen in news release form, it had no identifying letterhead and no signature. There was no return address on the envelope and the letter itself was apparently mimeographed typewritten copy. Contents of the letter extolled the virtues of Medicare and chided Congressman Odin Langen for voting against the bill.

The letter showed too much absence of thought to ignore. It commented on "...federal medical aid for the aged—needy people, especially those over 65, are looking for a happier life in their later years. They should rejoice when the U.S. Senate will vote overwhelmingly for the bill...."

As we understand the Medicare bill, it does not single out the needy people but uses age as a criteria—a gross injustice to some who are in need of medical care but do not have the money and are under 65 years of age, and an unnecessary expenditure for those over 65 who are financially capable of paying their own medical bills. What rejoicing will be done upon Senate passage must be tempered by the lamenting which will follow when employers and employees alike see another large federal bite taken out of their income.

The letter also stated that "nearly a dozen" countries have had medicare for their people. "Our own country has been more wealthy by far than any of these countries, but had not found itself willing to extend to our poorer people as these nations have," the letter continues. We suggest the writer study the costs of welfare in our nation and find out how unwilling the country is to care for "our poorer people".

Medicare is purely and simply a giant step toward socialized medicine. Other countries have had and still have socialized medicine. A great many of the people in these countries are unhappy with medical service, the cost is high to the taxpayers, standard of medical practice is low and few significant medical discoveries have been made in nations with socialized programs.

A substitute "eldercare" program submitted by the American Medical association would have provided medical aid to those who needed financial assistance on a basis of need. Costs would have been much less and the stigma of socialized medicine would have been curtailed. The administration turned a deaf ear on the plan and the controlling political party in Congress followed the directives of the administration.

To the writer of the anonymous letter: Do a little reading outside your party periodicals; think about how many people you know in your community who will be able to pay for their own medical bills after age 65; reflect on how this huge program is to be financed through additions to the social security tax; consider the bad image which socialized medicine has created in the countries you mentioned; and write your next letter to Congressman Langen with your thanks for doing what he could to help the Congress avoid making one of the most stupid mistakes of the session. Then sign it.

Sound Familiar?

The Imperial Chancellor, Kung-sun Hung, petitioned the Emperor, saying "The people should not be allowed to possess bows or crossbows. When 10 bandits bend their crossbows to the full, a hundred officials dare not advance....If the people are not permitted to possess bows or crossbows, then thieves and robbers will carry only short weapons, and when 2 groups carrying short weapons meet, the larger number will be victorious ....In your subject's humble opinion, it will be advantageous to forbid the people to carry bows or crossbows."

When the Emperor sent down this suggestion to his council for discussion an elder, Shou-wang, replied, saying:

"Your subject has heard that when the nxiwnra m sw rhe 5 kinds of weapons, it was not for the purpose of killing each other, but to prevent tyranny and to punish evil. When people lived in peace, these weapons were used to control the fierce animals and to be prepared against emergencies. If there were military affairs, then these weapons were used to set up defense and to form battle arrays...

"Your subject has heard that the Sage Rulers brought the people together and practiced shooting to demonstrate instructions, and he was never heard any prohibition on bows or arrows.

"Furthermore, the case for prohibition is that the bandits use them to attack and rob. The crime of attacking and robbing is subject to death; yet that they have not been stopped is because the great lawbreakers do not care, indeed, to avoid severe punishment. Should the suggested prohibition be enforced, your subject fears that wicked persons will still carry weapons and the officials will not be able to stop them from carrying them, and that the good people who keep their weapons for self-defense will encounter the prohibition of the law. This will make the power of robbers exclusive and take away the means of defense from the people.."

When the petition was presented, the Son of Heaven questioned the Imprial Chancellor, Hung, who promptly withdrew his suggestion.

Another Frontier

In the spirit of adventure which has become traditional in the American way of life, Americans have always looked beyond the present to something which has not yet been discovered or explored. So it was when those in the East moved westward, and so it is today in the complex era of space exploration.

While the nation's population was moving west, the far western settlements were known as the frontier. The bold, the adventurous, the restless, the discontented—gave in to the urge to go west and begin new lives. Those who were more timid, more fearful and more complacent remained behind but eagerly followed accounts of the persons who had gone on ahead.

The space conquest has been referred to as the challenge of a new frontier. Reaching into space requires considerably more knowledge and capital than was required to secure stagecoach or railroad passage to the West or to obtain a covered wagon, pack up the family property and join the trek to the new frontier.

Moving to the new frontier in the United States was not as controversial as the space race of today, for individuals moving to the frontier were on their own. The government vrovided some military troops and a few offices to transact government business but the expense was entirely necessary and comparatively small.

We recently read of another frontier which we believe is more intriguing and more important for exploration than the space program. This frontier begins at both coastlines of our nation and from there extends out and down into the depths of the oceans. We believe the time will come when the world must look to the sea for a considerable amount of its living necessities.

Four men recently spent three weeks in a 10 x 40 "SeaLab" 200 feet below the surface of the Atlantic ocean near Bermuda. George F. Bond, M.D., a navy captain, was one of these men and states that this second frontier "holds ultimate promise of greater scientific and economic gains than is the case with the national space effort.

The continental shelves are this frontier, and these, he points out, comprise 14 per cent of the submerged world's surface—a land mass equivalent to the Africian continent. "Here are an estimated 85 per cent of the edible protein, petroleum and mineral requirements of future generations," he said.

"Twenty per cent of the world's fresh water sources can be recovered here. It also seems likely that future generations of antibiotic materials will be derived from this environment."

We believe our government could chisel a little more on the space program and devote a little more thought, assistance and financing to this ocean study.

Lightning Danger Is Reduced With Caution

Hundreds of people are killed and thousands are injured each year as a result of lightning strikes in one way or another, reports the Minnesota safety council. Recent major lightning strikes caused an to more than 5,000 homes, the average damage of over $4,000 greatest majority of which were farm residences.

Lightning-caused fires destroy countless head of livestock and American farm property in excess of $50 million annually. The greatest majority of the fatalities, injuries and property destruction occurs in rural areas.

Over nine million lightning strikes are reported each year in the United States. There is good protection from these strikes through lightning protection systems. A classic example is that of a farmer in Illinois who lost his barn and livestock as a result of a lightning strike. Within 10 days following, his hayshed was struck and destroyed by fire. Later in the same summer a lightning strike hit a fence and injured the farmer. A few years later this farmer was killed as a result of lighnining strike while in his neighbor's unprotected barn.

Protective systems can be of immeasurable value in the protection of farm residents, livestock and buildings which would normally be destroyed by fire as a result of a lightning strike. Farms equipped with these protective systems are 99 per cent safe from a lightning strike, if the system is in good working order.

Claude C. Stubbe, chairman of the farm electrical and fire prevention committee of the Minnesota Safety council, says, "Many of these farm fires and farm losses can be prevented by having the lightning protection system in working order. The committee recommends that protection systems be checked to see that they are properly installed, connected and grounded."

Stubbe recommends the following rules be kept in mind during summer electrical storms

1. Stay inside of a building, away from the walls, open windows, doors, chimneys, water pipes, sinks and other metal as they are likely to have a continuing connection throughout the building.

2. Stay away from television or radio aerials leading to the television or radio sets. Do not use the telephone except for an emergency.

Stubbe further advises that the most dangerous places during a storm are in an open field, on the top of a hill, under a single tree, in an open boat, in swimming, on a golf course near wire fencing or overhead wires and in a field under or near farm machinery.

Stubbe says if we are in the open in an automobile, the safest place to be is inside the vehicle during an electrical storm. "If we will practice these few rules of safety, our chances of survival during an electrical storm will be greatly in our favor."

Malting Barley Protein Content Causes Problems

High protein content, desirable in many crops, is causing barley growers some problems here in Minnesota's Red River Valley. The problem occurs when barley is used in the malting and brewing industry, persons at the crops and soils visitors day at the University of Minnesota's Northwest experiment station were told Tuesday.

Soil scientist Olaf C. Soine said protein content of barley has been increasing rapidly in this area during the past few years, and in some cases has been so high as to make barley unacceptable for malting and brewing. He suggested some ways to avoid the problem and reported related research.

Companies now have standards of protein content which they consider barley should have to be classified as malting barley. The preferred limit is 12.5 per cent, but they will accept a protein content of 13.5 per cent. Barley with higher protein is not acceptable for malting.

Soine said a number of factors can produce high protein in barley. These include too much available nitrogen; late seeding; high temperatures, moisture shortage, or presence of diseases giving the plant more nitrogen than it can use; past cropping system; and additional large amounts of nitrogen fertilizer.

Soine reported an experiment started a year ago to study effects of varying amounts of nitrogen fertilizer on protein content of barley.

Five rates of nitrogen fertilizer were applied, both as a broadcast treatment before seeding, and also with the seed at planting time. Parkland, Trophy and Larker varieties were used.

Results from 1964 experiments showed that protein content of all treatments were above the 12.5 per cent protein limit preferred by the malting industry. Only the check plots, and the plot which received the lowest rate of nitrogen, were below the acceptable limit.

Soine said one possible explanation for these high-protein levels is that the soil contained a rather large amount of nitrogen. Soil tests before the trial showed that the plots ranked from medium to high in available nitrogen.

Soine listed several recommendations for malting barley growers to keep protein content of barley within these levels.

These include: Plant early. Use adequate phosphate or other plant nutrients. Avoid excessive amounts of nitrogen fertilizer and check the previous crop history.

This means, Soine said, barley should not be planted on land that was summer fallowed or where a legume was plowed under the previous year. Soil tests should be taken where malting barley is to be seeded so that adequate recommendations for commercial fertilizer can be followed.

UNEXPECTED side benefit (from the youngsters' point of view) of the thunderstorms which dropped over three and a half inches of rain on Thief River Falls Monday morning, coupled with the blockage of drainage by the street improvement program now in an early stage of progress, was this temporary swimming pool which appeared in the 400 block of Crocker av. S. at no extra cost to the taxpayers. While their parents complained of flooded yards and gardens, the children made the best of the situation. They reported that the water was not unpleasantly cold, and the lack of cleanliness bothered them not in the least.

LOW and Roseau County Projects In Highway Bids

Approximately $741,900 in highway projects will be let for bids in St. Paul during the week of August 2, reports the Minnesota highway department. Sixteen projects will involve work in 10 counties, including Roseau and Lake of the Woods, on 41.4 miles of county state aid highways.

The project in Roseau county involves work on CSAH 3 including two bridges, precast concrete channel spans over lateral ditch S-19 located 8.5 and 10.5 miles respectively south of Badger. The bids will be opened August 4 by County Auditor Richard C. Bergan in the county court house at Roseau.

Work is also to be done on CSAH 2 in Lake of the Woods county, including grading, sand-gravel subbase and timber box culvert extension from TH 11 in Williams to 3½ miles south. The bids will be opened by County Auditor F. G. Haag August 2 in the county court house in Baudette.

Agricultural Extension Service

Don't let your trees and shrubs become misshapen or overgrown this season. Many trees and shrubs can be pruned during summer. Often there's more time then, and it's easier to see just which branch needs to be removed from the shade tree or shrub.

All shade trees, except for the oak, can be pruned during summer. Removal of branches, removal of the dead wood, or control of the height: these all are tasks that can be done. Any wounds over 2 inches in diameter should be covered over with a protective wound dressing.

Summer-flowering shrubs can be pruned after they have finished their blooming period. July and August would be too late to prune many of the spring-flowering shrubs such as lilac. However, it's possible to remove a branch to shape the shrub, without injury to the tree or shrub itself.

Summer-blooming spireas such as Froebel can be pruned by shearing off the old flower heads as soon as they have finished blooming. Usually they return into bloom shortly after the first of September.

Roses, like the hybrid teas, can be cut back after each bloom if this is desirable. This practice will allow plenty of time for the new wood to develop and become mature before the fall season.

Pruning maintenance of deciduous trees and shrubs is important to the landscape. To get your best dollar value out of plant materials, don't overlook pruning.

How's Your Health?

(Prepared in the public interest by the Minnesota Medical Ass'n)

When does a person become elderly? The term elderly is not based on chronological age, observes the Minnesota State Medical association. Almost everyone is looking for a way to stay young. The search for eternal youth is older than the search of Ponce de Leon for the fountain of youth.

Someone has observed that time wins every race; but the minutes, hours and days, can be on your side. Today many persons in their 70's and 80's are active and enjoying the added years which modern medicine has given them. Many are surprised to learn how simple it really is to keep young in spirit, body and mind, by following a few simple rules.

A regular visit to the doctor will make it possible to diagnose the treat many diseases in their early stages. A periodic physical checkup can sometimes even prevent a disease before it actually strikes.

Food intake requirements change as we get older. As physical activity declines, the amount of food required lessens. While advancing years may decrease the appetite, the need for a well-balanced daily diet remains. Do it yourself diets are out. Let your doctor tell you how much you should weigh and what you should eat to maintain maximum good health.

Many persons experience emotional tensions with advancing years. Some of these are well founded, others are unnecessary. A proper amount of rest can often help one to see things in their proper perspective. One of the best ways to avoid fatigue resulting from emotional tension is to take each task as it comes. Don't tackle everything at one time.

A mild amount of physical exercise never hurt anyone in good health. Besides it is one of the best methods known to keep the body parts in good working order. A well-planned program of physical exercise tailored to meet the abilities of the individual can be a most effective way to add to the enjoyment of life. Croquet, golf, walks or gardening are just a few possibilities.

Boredom is one of the quickest ways to grow old in a hurry. Avoid it. Fill your days with productive activity, become active in community affairs. Most persons in their golden years have a wealth of experience to share with others. Raising funds for charities, getting out to vote, leading programs for civic improvements and discussion

If you want to stay young, think young, concludes the association.

KRATKA . . .

The Charles Olson family of Renton, Wash. left for their home Sunday after spending two weeks visiting with Mrs. Olson's parents the Milan Austins in Thief River Falls and with other relatives and friends.

There are more than 2,000 Spanish-American war veterans still living who are 90 years of age or older, according to the Veterans administration.

What local 44 year old is marrying a distinguished gentleman 109 years young?

We spend our summers by the Inlet. Eddie and I love to walk the beach, watching with fascination the wild churning of the water where the ocean waves meet the strong river current.

"That's my name," he said, when I told him the churning water was called an "eddy."

It's more than his name. It's a picture of his life — and every child's.

Growing up is a succession of crosscurrents. The influences of the home meet those of the school — the playmates — the community — the times. Strange, new experiences must be fitted into the child's ever-widening world.

Religious training is the surest stabilizing force in this turbulent period of growth. Strengthened by parental faith and example, a child discovers in his Church that there are values greater than whim or adventure. He realizes that his own and his family's standards are rooted in the truths of God. And he learns with the firm rudder of faith to steer a bold course — out of the Inlet's swirling eddies — across the sea of life.

ASC Elections in Marshall County Scheduled Aug. 2

Marshall county ASC community elections have been set for Monday, August 2, according to Marcel Dahl, county chairman.

Community committeemen to be elected on August 2 are elected by direct farmer vote in open meeting elections by secret ballot. Each position from chairman to second alternate will be voted on individually.

One change in community committee elections this year is that all three members will be voting delegates to the county conventions which will be held August 9. In previous years only the community committee chairman was the delegate to the county convention.

At these conventions the county committee members are elected. The most significant change in the election of county committeemen is that they will be elected for three-year terms on an annually staggered basis with a limit of 3 consecutive terms.

Since 1965 is the first year for this change, it will require the election of one committee member for one year, another member for two years and a third member for three years. The two alternate members will be elected for one year terms. After county committee members have been elected, the delegates will determine which member will be the chairman, vice-chairman and regular member.

"The changes this year will improve the farmer-elected committee system by providing continuity in administration of federal farm programs through the staggered terms of the committeemen," Dahl said. "Two experienced members will remain on the committee after election. The county committee urges every qualified voter to exercise his responsibility to promote, nominate and elect the best qualified farmers to serve as committeemen."

Hypnotist Will Present Program At County Fair

Edwin L. Baron

Hypnotism, a proven aid to medicine, can also be hilarious fun. Plugging the former and demonstrating the latter, Edwin L. Baron of Chicago, one of the world's leading exponents of hypnotism as a science, will appear on Sunday evening at the Pennington County fair in Thief River Falls.

A graduate physchologist, Baron is director of the Hypnotism Institute of Chicago which offers classes in self-hypnosis—the art of auto-suggestion and general hypnotism.

He has appeared before audiences large and small throughout the country, amusing them by deftly putting willing subjects through a series of mirth-making antics after first placing them in hypnotic trance.

Baron, recently made front pages across the country by putting a East Gary, Indiana mother into a five-day hypnotic "hibernation" to rid her of such things as nervousness, insomnia, lack of appetite and a rash on her hands.

Cooperating with doctors, Baron has used hypnosis to make childbirth painless. He pioneered the use of hypnotism in dentistry and many dentists and physicians have been trained by him in the use of the science.

Not long ago he gave a convincing demonstration of hypnosis as an effective substitute for anesthetics before a group of doctors and nurses at the University of Illinois medical school.

Subject of numerous national magazine articles, Baron has put hypnosis to a variety of successful applications. He has helped amnesia victims recover memory, aided overweight persons to reduce safely and has helped heavy smokers to cut down or stop completely.

If insomnia's your trouble, Baron can now put you to sleep without even being present. He recently cut a long-playing record called "Relaxation", a kind of psychological lullby. People who've tried it find it works, to judge by Baron's mail.

Shells Stolen From Trap Club

Theft of about three-fourths case of 12 gauge trap shells from the Thief River Falls trap club last week is being investigated by the Pennington county sheriff's department. Entry was made to the clubhouse by prying a hasp on the west door and the shells were taken from a shelf in the main clubhouse area. Other items of value at the clubhouse were not taken.

Booth Display Featured at County Fair

Several booths will be sponsored by local organizations at the Pennington county fair which opens Thursday in Thief River Falls for a four-day run, according to Mrs. Adam Lendobeja, superintendent of the women's building at the fair.

Historical articles will again be on display at the booth sponsored by the Pennington County Historical society and the public is invited to view the display. Mrs. Christine Lund, who has sent to Sweden for hemp to use in her demonstration, will demonstrate at the booth how flax is spun. This should be of interest to young and old alike.

A special "Pioneer Day" at the booth will be arranged on Saturday when persons 65 years of age and older are invited to stop at the booth for a free cup of coffee.

Local garden clubs will sponsor a booth displaying flower arrangements under the general theme, "The Twentieth Century Look". Demonstrations will be given at 4 and 7 p. m. Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Richard Radniecki and Mrs. Orlando Chervestad of the Deer Park garden club will demonstrate Friday on "Making the Most of a Few Flowers" and Mrs. Alvin Burstad of the Mocasin garden club in Thief River Falls will demonstrate Saturday on "Conditioning Flowers for Exhibition."

Mrs. John Kolaska, president of the TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) Dieters, invited all weight-watchers to visit the club's booth on the second floor of the women's building.

Pennington county homemakers club members, under the direction of Mrs. Chester Aubol, will also arrange a booth showing projects which members have completed during the past year. The Mocasin garden club will have a display of articles in a booth on the main floor.

"I would like to express my most sincere thanks to all the people who have given so freely of their time to help get the building ready for the fair," Mrs. Lendobeja said. "We hope that a large number of people will visit the booths and other exhibits in the women's building during the fair."

Officers of the corporation met last week to consider applicants for staff and to stimulate activities and projects related to the increase of economic opportunity. Officers from Marshall county are Oscar Rokke, Newfolden; Robert Prickett, Middle River; and Peter Aune, Gatzke.

Visitors at the Pete Sorter home last week were Mrs. Cora Davidson, Warroad, Herb Johnson, Minneapolis and a former resident of the Ringbo community, and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Refsnes of the Highlanding area.

County Fair To Open For 4 Days Thursday

Final arrangements are being made in preparation for the 64th annual Pennington county fair to be held Thursday through Sunday at the county fairgrounds at Thief River Falls. Entries in 4-H and open class competition are being received in large numbers and all indications are that a successful event will be staged again this year, according to Jon Metusalem, secretary of the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc.

Auditions for the Venita Rich talent revue are being held today at the Franklin junior high school in Thief River Falls, with approximately 20 acts to be selected for presentation Saturday evening in front of the grandstand. Acts of any type and by persons of any age are being sought for the auditions and the revue.

Winner of the contest at the Pennington county fair will receive a trip to New York City to audition for appearance on the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour television program.

Opening the entertainment program at the fair this year will be the Joie Chitwood auto daredevils thrill show to be presented Thursday evening. Thursday will also be entry day at the fair, but the Jack Thompson carnival will be on the midway all four days of the fair including Thursday.

The Chitwood thrill show will include 27 exciting acts including precision driving maneuvers, wheel-to-wheel roll-overs, dive-bomb crash, T-bone crash and a number of other acts with use of both automobiles and motorcycles.

On Friday evening the first tractor-pulling contest at the fair will be held with competition in the three light weight divisions. Tractors entered by area farmers will compete for cash prizes and to prove that their tractors can outpull those of their neighbors. At the Marshall county fair in Warren Saturday afternoon, the second tractor pulling contest drew more than 2,200 people—one of the largest grandstand crowds in the history of the fair.

On Saturday afternoon the three heavier weight divisions will be held. Tractors competing will pull a weighted sled with additional weight being added as the tractor and sled travels a course laid out in front of the grandstand. The tractor to pull the sled the greatest distance will be the winner in each class. Entries are still being received and entry blanks may be obtained from the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce office, from Vernon Nelson at the State Farm Insurance office or Marvin Lundin at the Times office.

Saturday evening will feature the Venita Rich talent revue. On Sunday at 1:30 p. m. the Thief River Falls saddle club will present a horse show and at 8 p. m. Edwin L. Baron will present his unique hypnotism act. Serving as master of ceremonies for the Sunday evening program will be Wes Harrison, known throughout the United States as "Mister Sound Effects".

There will be no admission at the fair gate, but a 25 cent charge will be made for auto parking on the grounds. Grandstand admission will be 50 cents for children and one dollar for adults.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the Kitchen of

MRS. IVER AASEBY

Today's recipe is one that many homemakers have tried with little success or would like to try but are afraid of the outcome. This recipe for Lefse won second place at the Minnesota State fair a number of years ago when demonstrated by Lois Erickson of Badger.

Mrs. Aaseby says this recipe is easy to make and is a real hit with her family. The key to making lefse is a good recipe and rolling the dough thin enough without adding too much flour. (The addition of too much flour will make the dough tough.)

POTATO LEFSE

1 package of instant mashed potatoes mixed with 2 cups boiling water or 3 cups of plain mashed potatoes;
1 cup flour
2 tablespoons soft butter
½ cup thick cream
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar

Mix all ingredients together. Take a small amount of dough and roll as thin as possible on a floured board or pastry cloth. Brown lightly on both sides, using a large skillet or lefse grill.

Mr. and Mrs. Iver Aaseby live on a small farm about 1½ miles south of Thief River Falls on Highway 59. Mr. Aaseby manages a barber shop at Inga's Cafe.

Mrs. Aaseby enjoys cooking, baking, sewing, gardening and especially likes to listen to the baseball games. She also enjoys knitting and has knit several Norwegian sweaters for her family.

The Aaseby's two children Douglas, 11, and Connie eight attend Knox school where they will be in the sixth and third grades respectively. Douglas is a member of a 4-H club and last year he and connie were one of the two winners in the 4-H share-the-fun contest in Pennington County. Douglas belongs to the band and Connie is taking piano lessons.

Members of the Aaseby family belong to Zion Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls.

Marlys Mossestad Seeks Queen Title

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Competing for the title of Miss Thief River Falls and a $100 scholarship from Kiewel Products company at the Jaycee Aquacade pageant July 31 will be Marlys Mossestad, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Mossestad of Thief River Falls. Winner of the pageant will advance to the Miss Minnesota pageant in Austin next spring.

Marlys is a 1965 graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls where she was a member of the National Honor society. She is five feet three inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has blonde hair, brown eyes and a 35-24-35 figure. Her talent number will be a baton twirling exhibition.

Keeping trim hasn't been a problem for this energetic candidate. She has marched her way through life for the past 10 years as a member of the local Bridgeman Halfpints marching unit, the last three years as leader of the group. She has appeared at a number of area celebrations and made several trips to Canada with the Halfpints to perform in large parades.

Outdoor activities seem to be her forte. She enjoys swimming and skating, going hunting and target shooting with her father, rock collecting, sewing and dancing. Living proof it's true that blondes have more fun, she also received the senior class trophy at the school last year for being the biggest flirt.

For three years Marlys was a cheerleader at the school, leading cheers for the wrestling and basketball teams. She was a member of the Girls Athletic association for three years, a member of the Latin club and is currently serving as president of the local VFW Junior auxiliary.

This fall she will enroll in the Hibbing area technical school to study medical technology, and in the future may enroll in airline stewardess training.

Highways To Undergo Changes for Safety

Minnesota trunk highway system is to undergo changes for the better, reports the Minnesota highway department. Additional safety features will be added to the roads beginning with the most heavily traveled routes. Improvement in design features will be priority items slated for correction, since faulty road design accounts for numerous accidents and their resulting deaths and injuries.

A certain amount of human error cannot be eliminated from driving, and since we must live with this fact, road design must be as safe as possible within the financial capacity of the road builder.

Some of the priority items to be corrected are as follows: all signs will have a minimum height of 60 inches to the bottom of the sign. Tests and studies have shown that signs at this height are less dangerous to the driver because, when hit, they will fly over the car rather than into the windshield as in the case with shorter posts.

All guard rail ends are to be flored and pulled down and anchored. This will not only eliminate the hazard of the rail being driven into the car, but will add strength to the rail so that cars will be deflected rather than tear the rail loose. Rail posts will be spaced six feet apart in place of the present 12-foot spacing and large washers will be used under bolt heads. Again, both of these imporvements will strengthen the rail and help to prevent crashing through.

A survey will be made to determine locations where rail is needed as well as locations where existing rail can be removed. Rails were installed years ago in areas which, according to more recent experience, would not justify their need.

In other words, automobiles will sustain less damage in some areas by running through a shallow ditch than by crashing into an unnecessary guard rail.

These recommendations are being made as a result of several studies conducted by various sources which revealed the need for elimination of built-in road hazards and how they are best corrected.

One problem with present roads is that they have been designed far in advance of actual construction; and many safety features recommended during the design period could not be incorporated because they were not yet determined valid for that particular section of highway.

In addition, in the past the accent on safety has been placed almost exclusively on the driver, rather than partly on the roads. This indicates not only a need for greater safety features in road design, but coordinated effort on the part of builders, designers, and lawmakers to speed up this effort and to rework these roads presently in use.

Ed Sisler Elected To State Vo Ag Instructor Board

Ed Sisler of Thief River Falls was elected to the board of directors of the Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructors' association at the 47th annual vocational agriculture conference held in Duluth recently.

As a member of the board, Sisler will be the liaison between the vocational agriculture instructors of District 1 and the executive board of the Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructors' Association, Inc. A "grass roots" approach to professional problems characterizes the director-member relationships.

Directors are elected for two-year terms, with one-half of the 10 directors being elected each year. The Minnesota Vocational Agriculture Instructors' Association, Inc., is affiliated with the National Vocational Agriculture Teachers' association, the Minnesota Vocational association and the American Vocational association.

Officers of the association include Emery A. Krech, St. James, president; Maynard Harms, Belle plaine, president-elect; George Norness, Climax, vice president; Marvin Thiese, Winnebago, secretary; John Zuribal, Owatonna, treasurer; and Dwain Vangsness, Adams, membership secretary. Harry Pierce Jr., Winona, is past president.

Farm Safety Week Kickoff Luncheon Will Open Event

Farm Safety Week activities in Minnesota will begin Wednesday noon with a special "kick-off" luncheon at the University of Minnesota's St. Paul campus student center. National Farm Safety Week this year is July 25-31.

Purpose of the luncheon, held each year for the past 10 years, is to bring together persons and representatives of organizations interested in promoting safety and in preventing farm and home accidents, according to Raymond S. Wolf, extension information specialist and program chairman.

Wolf explained that while the national theme for Farm Safety Week is "Safe and Alive in '65," emphasis in Minnesota will be on safety with agricultural chemicals.

The luncheon program will consist of a demonstration of safe spraying equipment, displays of chemicals, reports from 4-H, FFA and farm organizations and industry on their safety activities and plans for the week.

Farm Safety Week is sponsored in Minnesota by the agricultural extension service and the farm section of the Minnesota Safety council.

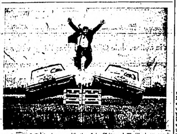
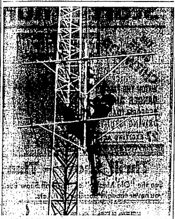
ANOTHER exciting event that will take place with the Jole Chitwood Thrill Show is the T-Bone Crash — driving a car up an elevated ramp and crashing into two old cars parked at the end of the ramp, the driver staying behind the wheel of the car that he crashes. All of the Jole Chitwood drivers use the protection of seat belts at all times. See this troupe of auto stunt men at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls Thursday evening.



DARING clowns with the Jole Chitwood Thrill show, working between the 20 big thrill events help relieve tension with their antics. The show features stars from the movie lots, television and the nations' speedways. The auto stunt show will appear at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls Thursday evening.



DANGLING from a cable on their way to the top of the new 480-foot Sjoberg television tower with a section of antenna are these two employees of the TCA Tower Co., Inc. of Mapleton, Ga., which supplied the materials and manpower for erection of the tower. The tower, together with antennae and lights, was completed Friday night, 17 days after its predecessor was destroyed by a tornado. The new antennae and amplifiers will result in improved reception, and the new tower is more heavily constructed to withstand higher winds than the old tower. The wind load rating of the former tower was 35 pounds per square inch, as compared with 50 p.s.i. for the new tower.

Area 4-H Girls Are Delegates to Co-Op Institute

Joanne Fallon of Plummer, Cynthia Karlsson of Roseau and Joyce Thompson of Warroad are among 13 4-H'ers and Young Adult Citizen (YAC) delegates who will represent Minnesota at the American Institute of Cooperation, a national educational organization for farmers' cooperatives, in Columbia, Mo., August 8-11.

The camp provides a unique opportunity for youth to learn more about farm business organizations and the latest developments and trends offered by cooperatives in marketing, production, credit and services, according to Sue Fisher, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota. It also gives them an opportunity to understand how all types of business organizations serve the total economy.

Keynote speakers at the general youth sessions will be Harold Hamil, assistant general manager, Consumers Cooperative association, Kansas City, Mo.; and John D. Davenport Jr., general manager, Missouri State Rural Electrification association, Jefferson City, Mo. Returning for his fourth year is Henry H. Schriver, farmer from Grafton, Ohio, speaking on "Cows, Kids and Co-ops."

Joyce Thompson, past president of the Minnesota State 4-H association, will give the eye opener on the first morning of the session. At last year's meeting of the institute, she was selected as official delegate for 1965 by 4-H'ers from 38 states.

Delegates will also take part in leadership training, discussion sessions, tours and a barbecue.

Jehovah Witness Assembly Is Set In Met Stadium

R. H. Wetenkamp, presiding minister of the Thief River Falls congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced today that Minneapolis has been selected by the Watchtower Bible and Tract society of New York to host one of 16 district assemblies scheduled for the United States this summer.

Entitled "Word of Truth" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses of 1965, the August 12-15 convention will be held in the baseball home of the Minnesota Twins, Metropolitan stadium, located in Bloomington.

Wetenkamp said the local congregation will join more than 25,000 delegates coming principally from 11 western and midwestern states-preconvention headquarters has already received rooming requests from persons in 25 states, Canada and Chile, South America.

Principal speaker will be N. H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower society. A missionary organization, the society has 94 branch offices throughout the world.

Over 1,000 Witnesses—all volunteers working without pay—are busy with the many tasks required to accomodate the thousands of ministerial delegates going to Bloomington. By convention time, volunteers will have transformed the sporting arena into a giant Kingdom Hall for the four-day meeting, including sound system, stage and floral decorations, and every appointment necessary for the assembly.

Middle River HS Grad Gets Grant

The scholarships range from $100 to $330, and recipients are selected on the basis of high academic ability, high qualities of character, a capacity for leadership and financial need.

Cathy Wysoski Is Delegate to U.S. FHA Convention

Cathy Wysoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Wysoski and president of the Thief River Falls senior chapter of Future Homemakers of America, joined 37 other Minnesota delegates to attend the national FHA meeting in Philadelphia, Pa., July 10-16. Miss Wysoski serves as District I president for the Minnesota Association of Future Homemakers. A total of 1,500 from all states, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico were present at the meeting held at the Bellevue Stratford hotel.

Of special interest to Minnesotans is the program which featured Miss Phyllis Christiansen of Aitkin, national president of the 500,000-member organization. Miss Christiansen presided at the open session at which Mrs. Orville Freeman gave the keynote address. Her topic, "Building for the Future," coincided with the theme of the convention, "Building Blocks for the Future."

Following the trip to Philadelphia, Miss Wysoski will attend the Future Homemakers camp at Virginia, Minn., to assist other officers in formulating program plans for the coming year for the state association.

Wardens Arrest 373 During June

Minnesota game wardens arrested 373 persons during the month of June for violations of state game laws, the state game and fish divisions reported this week. All but a few of the arrests were for infractions of various fishing laws. Total fishing law violations accounted for 335 arrests during the month.

Most numerous violations noted by game wardens were fishing without a license and fishing with more than one line. There were 93 residents and 23 non-residents apprehended for fishing without a license. Fishing with more than one line brought the arrest of 89 residents and 21 non-residents.

There were 40 arrests made for over-the-limit catches and 21 for possession of illegally taken fish. Three persons were arrested for littering public waters, an offense subject to a fine of from $10 to $100.

One fish packer's license was revoked for failure to properly identify fish packed for shipment and for a shipment containing over the legal limit. Fishing in closed areas or in posted spawning beds accounted for 12 arrests. Violations of laws relating to big game, small game, waterfowl and trapping brought 10 arrests while transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle resulted in eight arrests. Miscellaneous violations accounted for the balance of arrests during the month.

FISHING in the Red Lake River within the city limits of Thief River Falls may not be as glamorous as fishing in a wilderness lake, but the river sometimes yields some good-sized fish. David Amlt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Amlt of Thief River Falls, caught this 29-inch, 8½-pound northern pike Wednesday night while fishing off the dock behind the Orion Belch home. He also caught one of the smaller pike; the other was caught by Linda Jo Welk. The fish were hooked on small, red and white Daredevils.

IN THE VIKING HUDDLE

By Coach Norm Van Brocklin

The Vikings' annual Purple-White intra-squad game at Bemidji on July 31 has been spiced up somewhat for the fan and for us coaches and players, too this year.

We're having the president of the Pro Football Writers, Jim Klobuchar of the St. Paul Pioneer Press & Dispatch, coach one team, and Frank Buetel, the sports announcers' president, handle the other.

As for the coaching staff, they'll be split between the two squads, excepting for myself. I'm going to sit up on the press box and see if I can't second-guess the two coaches. (Seriously, it's a much better view than the sidelines.)

Each "coach" is being allowed to concoct one special play, and sometime during the evening, the P. A. announcer will let us know that it's coming up next.

I have a hunch we'll see some deep reverses, triple laterals and a new formation from Klobuchar's team. As for Buetel, he has been spending the last month looking at a 1916 Minnesota-U. of Chicago film which he uncovered someplace, so I don't look for anything fancy.

As much fun as this might be, we're not forgetting that it's football and not monkey business that we're interested in on that night.

The game will end two weeks of training for the new men, and we'll be anxious to see how they go against our vets. From the standpoint of the older heads, we'll be watching their execution of plays.

It's always hard to predict how many of the rookies will make an NFL team, but we've been averaging 10-15 each year and it's important to us to have some of our newer ones prove that they can make the big jump. A fellow like Archie Sutton, for instance, can help us a lot if he's as good a lineman as we think he might be. Our staff thinks he was the best Big Ten lineman last season. We'll want a long look, too, at Lance Rentzel and Jim Grisham, those Oklahoma backs. With a 14-game league schedule, we still need much more depth at many places, and the halfback and fullback spots are among them.

In our particular offense, we emphasize versatility at these two jobs, and both have to be receivers and blockers as well as runners. That's why Bill Brown and Tommy Mason caught 74 passes between them last fall. It's naturally important that their back-up men are equally handy; otherwise, it takes a great deal away from our offense when we are forced to substitute.

The Purple-White game is the one time at Bemidji when the practice isn't open to the public. We charge a $2 admission, with the proceeds going to the college. Tickets can be ordered by mail from the Athletic Department, Bemidji State College, and in the Twin Cities, they can be picked up from the Viking office. If you're planning to attend, I'd suggest you get them right away.

Wildlife Crews Mapping Lakes, Streams, Marshes

State wildlife research crews are now in the field surveying and mapping the lakes, streams, and marshes of five major watersheds and in eight other major fish and wildlife areas it was reported today.

John B. Moyle, game and fish research supervisor for the Minnesota conservation department field work will continue through September. The watersheds being worked on are the Chippewa reiver river near Alexandria, the Buffalo river near Detroit Lakes, the Long Prairie subwatershed of the Crow Wing river watershed, the Kawishiwa river watershed near Ely and the Cloquet river watershed near Duluth.

Fish lakes in these watersheds will be sounded with recording electronic fathometers and fish populations sampled by test nets and electrofishing gear. Waters are analyzed to determine their ability to produce fish and the kinds of fish to which they are best suited.

Information gathered, including maps made of each body of water, will be used as a basis for fish management, game habitat improvement and for overall land and water resource planning by the state and other agencies.

Fisheries surveys will also be made on the Minnesota river from the Lac qui Parle reservoir to Mankato, the upper Mississippi river from Grand Rapids to Brainerd and the lower Mississippi from Hastings to the Iowa border.

Aquatic game production habitat will be surveyed, mapped and evaluated in the Carlos Avery Wildlife Management area in Anoka county, Hubbel pond in Becker county, the Whitewater Game Management area in the southeast, Twin Lakes in Kittson county and in the Mille Lacs Wildlife Management area.

North Central Breaks Company's June Mark

North Central Airlines continued to break company records for passenger boardings and cargo during June, according to Frank N. Buttomer, vice president-traffic and sales. The increased pace resulted from improved services and the nation's economic prosperity, he said.

The airline carried 148,783 passengers, an increase of 18 per cent compared with last June's record level. The 25,167,774 passenger miles flown was 16 per cent over 1964. An all-time single day passenger boarding mark was also set on July 2 when 6,330 passengers were enplaned.

In June, North Central flew 176,972 freight ton miles, Buttomer pointed out that this was 36 per cent over 1964. Air express was 50 per cent ahead of last June with 95,024 ton miles flown.

"North Central maintained an exceptional operating performance during June while these traffic records were being established", Buttomer said. Of North Central's 1,372,529 scheduled miles, 99.6 per cent were completed and more than 85 per cent of the 15,450 flight arrivals were on time.

During the first six months of 1965, the airline carried 733,057 passengers, an increase of 18 per cent over the same period in 1964. Freight volume also rose sharply as 892,911 freight ton miles were flown, up 38 per cent over the first six months of 1964.

Since inaugurating service in 1948, North Central has carried 10,795,000 passengers and flown 1,766,000,000 passenger miles without a single injury or fatality to passengers or crew members.

North Central serves 90 cities in 10 Midwestern states and Canada over a 7,000-mile route system.

Average Highway User Paid $130 In Special Taxes

Average Minnesota highway user paid $130 in special state and federal road taxes in 1963, the Minnesota Petroleum council reported today.

J. S. Leonard, the newly elected chairman of the petroleum organization, said that the 1963 per vehicle tax burden for the state showed an increase of $20 over the comparable figure of five years earlier.

He pointed out that the highway user taxes include such items as state motor vehicle registration fees, the federal levies on automobiles, tires, tubes, tread rubber and lubricating oil, and—most importantly—the state and federal taxes on motor fuel.

The present state levy on gasoline is six cents a gallon, he added, while the federal rate is four cents a gallon.

State and federal taxes paid by Minnesota highway users in 1963 totaled $221,319,000 of which $118,960,000 represented state levies, Leonard said. Motor fuel tax receipts alone accounted for 58 per cent of the state total.

Every state in the nation registered increases in the level of highway-user taxes between 1958 and 1963, Leonard noted. He said 1963 is the latest year for which statistics are available.

30 Brown Swiss Will Compete in Canton Show Here

Thirty registered Brown Swiss cattle, owned by six breeders, will compete for canton bell-ringer honors at the Minnesota Canton 7 show to be held in conjunction with the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls July 22-25, according to Neil Kruger, Warren, canton secretary.

First and second place animals at the canton show are eligible to compete for state bell-ringer honors through pictures taken at the canton show. If animals pictured are judged first or second in the state they are eligible for national competition. Shows have been held regularly in canton 7 since 1938 Kruger said.

Breeders who have indicated they will exhibit at the show are Roy C. Johnson, Erskine; Laura Yonke, St. Hilaire; Ronald Tollefson and family, Red Lake Falls; Betty Rantanen and family, Middle River; James Vasek and Orin Kruger and Sons, Warren.

Ronald C. Howard Completes Course

Pvt. Ronald C. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Howard, of Goodridge, completed a course under the Reserve Enlistment program at Ft. Polk, La., July 9. During the course Howard received training in leadership responsiblities, weaponty, small unit tactics and general military subjects.

The 24-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of Goodridge high school and attended Bemidji State college.

Mr. and Mrs. Darel Josephson and family left Sunday for their home in Simi Valley, Calif., while here they visited at Darel's mother Mrs. A. B. Josephson's also at the Charles Josephson home in Thief River Falls. It was eight years since they were in Minnesota so enjoyed seeing several former friends and schoolmates. On Saturday all of the families enjoyed an outing at the Arthur Rambeck cabin on Union Lake.

Mrs. Orin Rambeck and Mrs. Robert Rambeck entertained at a barbecued steak dinner Thursday evening in honor of Orrin's birthday. Two large tables were set on the spacious lawn. Charles Josephson was "Chef". The guests were Mrs. Sund, her son Orville and family, daughter Lillie and granddaughter Lynda. The latter from Akron, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Josephson and Neil of Thief River Falls and Mrs. A. B. Josephson of Goodridge.

The Library Corner

There's that old "variety is the spice of live" saying that crops up...come rain or shine...It certainly would hold true if you said it, thusly: "variety is the spice of reading"! Try it, and see for yourself!

Just for a change of pace, read "Lincoln's Scapegoat General", the life of Benjamin F. Butler by Richard S. West, Jr. This fascinating Yankee figure of 19th century America, has been pictured by a Southerner as a man most unlike that which his enemies, and his friendly-enemies, generally saw.... or thought they saw! Read it and see!

Lore Segal, an Austrian girl of 10 forced to leave her home land and depart for Holland, thence to England, tells her enthralling, unbelievable tale in "Other People's Houses". She knows her subject well, for she spent seven years of her life gathering "background" material. Her verbal account of her life, and her family's, in homes other than their own, makes you ashamed. Yet the story-telling is done in a light, easy manner, with wit and courage. Read it and see!

Just for variety's sake take home "A Life in My Hands" by J. W. Ehrlich...one of America's most famous criminal lawyers. (The Sam Benedict TV show is based on this man's career!) The attorney-author has written other books, too...so he's not a novice at saving people from the gallows...or from boredom! Read and see!

Just for your family's sake...take home "Family Campers' Cookbook by Bill Riviere before you pack your gear and head for the great outdoors. You needn't tell anybody you've read it, or copied the suggestions or the receipes! Let them be amazed at the meals you whip up under the trees!

If the racial question, as it is referred to much of the time, is of great interest to you, then be sure "3 Lives for Mississippi" by William Bradford Hue is on your library shopping list!

Here's one for summer pleasure: "Saddle Your Dreams" by Cil Ricketts Sumner. She recalls her trip through France...the same one once taken by Robert Louis Stevenson.

How about "A Guide to Decoration in the Early American Manner" by Nadine Cox Wilson, if you're artistically inclined. Or "The New Science of Skin and Scuba Diving" by 11 experts from the 25 organizations of the Conference for National Cooperation in Aquatics...try this one and see what is underwater!

"We Are Not Alone" by Walter Sullivan tells you of the search for intelligent life on other worlds. It'll make you wonder, if nothing else!

However, if you're still trying to get along with those here on earth and can't seem to make yourself understood...take home "The A B C of Style". This guide concentrates on word diets for the verbally overweight! Read it and heed!

Pearl S. Buck comes forth with a new one! "The Gifts They Bring". Different, so different from anything else in her writing career is this one! It is about our debt to the mentally retarded. Have you thought about paying yours? Read about one man who does! "The School" by Henry Viscardi Jr., who has made a career of helping physically disabled children start on a life for themselves by keeping them from being "home bound".

Variety...has no beginning and no end...when you reach your public library! You can browse, try the book on "for size" and if you feel you wouldn't care to take it home, just move on to the next one. Bear in mind, however, "variety is the spice of reading!"

Try it and see!

Dairy steers have been gaining in popularity in recent years, reports Dr. Edward C. Frederick of the University of Minnesota. In some trials the dairy steers have outgained some beef breeds, but dairy steer carcasses graded lower.

According to New Holland's Grassland News, livestock needs a dozen or more minerals for proper growth and body function. The most important are salt, calcium, phosphorus, iodine and some trace minerals.

"The world of the living contains enough marvels and mysteries as it is; marvels and mysteries acting upon our emotions and intelligence in ways so inexplicable that it would almost justify the conception of life as an enchanted state."

—Joseph Conrad

Adieu, Adlai

A man who was twice unsuccessful in bids for the Presidency of the United States found his niche in life when appointed chief delegate to the United Nations in January of 1961 by President John F. Kennedy. He was in London following U.N. talks in Geneva, Switzerland, when he died suddenly on Wednesday at the age of 65.

While seeking the Presidency in 1956, he spoke in Thief River Falls and several other communities in Minnesota including Warren, Plummer, Fosston and East Grand Forks.

While Stevenson was a professional politician, he may be considered in the relatively small group of politicians including statesmen. His verbal clashes with the Russian delegation at the United Nations were tactful but explicit, and his voice was considered by other nations in the free world to be that of their own.

During his four and one-half years of service as chief delegate, Stevenson had an unenviable task. Explaining and defending American foreign policy was extremely difficult, for when it existed at all it was often contradictory. He was respected throughout the world, even by communist nations who knew him as a fierce competitor.

President Johnson stated well when he said, "The world of freedom and human dignity has lost its most articulate champion."

A Poor Bargain

Dr. Clare E. Griffin, Professor Emeritus of the school of business administration at the University of Michigan, has published a book called "The Free Society". In a searching discussion of governmental regulation he says this

"The regulated first tolerate and then embrace the limitations of their own freedom. Who then is left to resist the trend? Not the consumers, for the only protection they know is the regulating commission. Not the companies for regulation does for them what the Sherman Act would prohibit if attempted by themselves."

In other words, people representing all the facets of our complex society accept regulation because it seems to serve a material self-interest. That this alleged benefit may be fleeting or illusory is not recognized. And, in the lust for material gain, freedom is sacrificed.

This is how regulation can become an accepted way of life in a nation, and this is the way liberty can be destroyed. Compromising freedom is a poor bargain.

Reading the Labels

Has there ever been a time in your household whe a young, energetic member of the family removed the labels from a shelf of canned goods It may have made for some interesting meals, but we doubt that the average housewife would be too happy with this situation for an extended period of time.

Right now the federal government, in an impish manner, is toying with the goods on the shelves. A "fair packaging and labeling act" is being considered in Congress—legislation which would put the government in the business of regulating packaging and labeling. If passed, it may be expected that it will be conducted like most federal programs—administered by people who don't understand the situation and more concerned with making changes than in giving constructive guidance.

A spokesman for the Variety Stores Association, Inc., testifying before the senate's commerce committee, stated the following: "Retail distribution of consumer goods is and must be dynamic and imaginative. It is not a passive or mechanical step in the economy. Retailing's contribution does a great deal, not only for consumers, but also to move the production of farms and factories so that they can keep employment high.

"Excessive uniformity of packaging can retard this, just as the textile industry would be ruined if everybody wore a blue serge suit. We get the idea that some of those who would protect the consumer don't really see or understand the distinction between merchandising and technical packaging problems on one hand and what they consider may be confusing to shoppers or outright deceptive on the other."

One of the benefits of a wide variety of sizes in containers for food products, for instance, has been the opportunity for families of varying sizes to purchase the amounts that best suit their needs. Colors and designs in labeling help identify brands and products of certain manufacturers, helping the housewife to make rapid selection and buy the goods she prefers. We firmly believe that housewives eliminate would-be shysters a lot faster than any federal agency could and at no cost to the public coffers.

On those occasions when we accompany the better half on shopping expeditions, it is refreshing to see the array of color and sizes of containers on the shelves. Goods in the home cupboard that are instantly recognizable by color and size of the container are also convenient. Congress should have more important things to worry about than the number of pickles in a jar.

Poison Prevention

This writer's young son Mark, almost three, is energy personified. He might not get into any more mischief than the average boy of that age, but it seems like he does. Keeping watch on him constantly is like watching the pea in the old shell game—he's never where you expect him to be.

Last week he calmly drank about three ounces of bubble bath liquid (which he had been neat enough to pour from a full container into a glass) and, when the bubbly refreshment was discovered immediately thereafter, was taken to the hospital emergency room to have his stomach pumped. This was an added precaution since it took some time to determine the components of the liquid and its toxicity was not known.

No harm came from this incident except for a little lost work time and a fairly excited neighborhood. Mark's keyed-up behavior following the incident may be attributed to the attention he received and the fact that the bubble bath was found to contain 12 per cent alcohol.

The furor did have one effect, however, and that was for the better. It aroused our household to the dangers inherent in having possibly poisonous material within the reach of small children. Had the same situation mentioned above applied to a more potent material, the outcome could have been much more serious.

This experience is mentioned above in the hopes that it will arouse some other households and alert them to poison prevention. Several people with whom we talked about our number one son's escapade commented that youngsters in their families or in the families of relatives and friends had similar experiences. It was certainly not an unique occurrence. Young children are not responsible for their acts, but their parents are. How about checking your house today?

Pride on Display

Visitors to the Pennington county fair Thursday through Sunday will view pride on display for public viewing. Entries in many divisions will be made by youngsters and adults alike who believe their particular items worthy of competition with those of other competitors. We believe that such competition is both healthy and stimulating to the area.

Life in these United States is based on competition. Children compete with each other for parental attention, with classmates for academic grades and positions in extra-curricular activities, with others for wooing and winning mates, with applicants for employment opportunities and with others selling the same type of goods in business or marketing the same kind of farm produce.

Much of this competition is based on necessity, but much of it is also based on pride. Those who fear competition because they might lose will never lose—but neither will they win. In fact, they are losers of a sort because they lack the initiative to try. This type of person is worthy only of pity.

We like the 4-H club program and its basis on competition and pride—pride in a sense of accomplishment—something earned and deserved. The county fair is the proving grounds for these youngsters. It is their opportunity to find out how they compare—how a little more work and effort could have made them best instead of second or third—how they can profit from their mistakes and do a better job the next time they try.

And they try. Year after year, project after project, experiment after experiment they labor in the program, finding satisfaction in what they have done but always seeking improvement. They learn by their experience and they benefit from constructive criticism. At each county fair they put their pride on display. For those who work hard enough, and long enough and with determination enough, the championship rosettes awarded for their projects are real badges of courage.

Ribbons awarded in fair competition are not incentive for this much work by club members as such. Were they to be given haphazardly in an equal number of blue, red and white without regard to merit of the project, the 4 H club program would soon collapse. Ribbons are covted because they are symbols of what their winners have done and what they are. They indicate that a job has been done better by one person than another. There is more pride in blue than in red or in white ribbons.

While pride is a personal thing, it is something which must be shared. A large attendance at the fair this year will help the competitors share their pride in accomplishments. If a person desires, he can attend the fair all four days and thoroughly view the exhibits and demonstrations without spending a dime. It's well worth the time to visit the fair and find out what friends, neighbors and new acquaintances can do.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"There is no law in the United States against communism, says the President, and it is still a free country. We fail to understand why we have no law against communism in this country and still send our troops into foreign nations to give their lives fighting something that is allowed at home."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"And you found it?" asked the other.

"Well, rather," replied the first. "I'm in the hole now."

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

By Bill Dahlquist

According to Raymond Moley, Chief Justice Warren of the Supreme Court has reversed himself completely in the opinion he expressed recently on state legislative reapportionment compared with his opinion on that question when he was governor of California. As Governor of California in 1949 he stated:

"The agricultural communities of California are far more important to the life of our state than the relationship their populations bear to the entire population of the state. It is for this reason that I have never been in favor of restricting their representation in our state senate to a strictly population basis."

In a recent decision, Chief Justice Warren, speaking for that body, stated:

"An individual's constitutionally protected right to cast an equally weighted vote cannot be denied even by a vote of a majority of the state's electorate...A citizen's constitutional rights can hardly be infringed simply because a majority of the people choose to do so."

This reversal of opinion on the identical question, in so short a period of time, does not speak well for the integrity of our Chief Justice. In the first opinion, as a state politician, he was appealing for the rights of a minority group, the farmers of his home state of California. The second opinion was an appeal to the majority vote of the country that more and more is being centered in the large cities.

Obviously Chief Justice Warren's high office has gone to his head. He has proven himself to be more politician than statesman. The conflicting opinions he has expressed indicate clearly that he is not a man of high character and he should be asked to resign from the office he now holds.

In discussing various community problems with one of our county officials recently the litterbugging question somehow became an important subject of conversation. Among other things the county official was concerned about the high cost of removing the litter that accumulates in the ditches and grades along our rural roads. Empty beer cans came in for special criticism.

But empty beer cans are only a part of the litter that adds to the cost of keeping our roads and highways clean and sightly. We have a litterbug problem in the city, too, and I have come to the conclusion that no progress is being made in solving it. Maybe it is high time that we start recognizing this litterbugging problem as a common enemy and that the counties, the cities and the state join hands in an effort to control the evil.

That has been done with good results in several western states. In one state that I drove thru the penalty for litterbugging was a $50 fine, and some of the cities within that state had added additional local fines. The results were noticeable and automobiles were generally will-equipped with litter bags, donated freely by public spirited business firms who liked the idea of having their names indentified with a worthy cause.

The thing that interested me especially was the sincere and enthusiastic support the program received from citizens across the board. Offenders were public enemies and law enforcement officials had the whole-hearted support of the masses of the people. They were proud of their communities and the desire to maintain a high standard of cleanliness seemed to be general.

Such a high standard could not be established in a hurry. There would be scoffers to contend with and the program would have to have strong organization support—not just one organization but many organizations, reaching all age groups. I am satisfied that the idea has enough merit to justify serious consideration.

Congress voted last week to increase the national debt limit from $324 billion to an all-time high of $328 billion. The vote on this debt increase by the Senate followed by only one day the approval by the Senate of a $4.7 billion in tax cuts. Around and around we go. Taxes are unpopular so we cut them. Spending is popular so we increase the spending. Is there a doubt in anyone's mind as to where this continued procedure will lead?

Minnesota's exhibit at the New York World's Fair is being closed for lack of funds. Neither the state itself nor private exhibitors were able or willing to pay the cost. Under the circumstances the management had no choice in the matter. I am not certain as to whether this is either good or bad.

Writing in Newsweek, Raymond Moley tells us that "The essential theme of the New York World's Fair is to show in concrete forms what free societies have done, what they can do and what by the projection of imagination they can expect to do to enrich the lives of men who choose freedom."

All will agree that that was, and is, a noble objective, and it would be interesting to know how many of the exhibitors had this objective in mind in planning their exhibits. Minnesota has an interesting story to tell, as no doubt have all states, but it is reasonable to ask, I believe, how many millions of dollars should be spent in telling such stories to crowds of fair visitors.

Oh well, while our participation in New York Fair will not go down in the records as a great success, maybe we can justify the cost in terms of experience. The next time opportunity beckons we probably will be a little more cautious in our acceptance. Experience teaches a dear school but the cost is not too high for those who actually learn from experience how to avoid future errors.

Governor Rolvaag thinks the state should adopt an excise tax similar to the one the federal government discontinued. My reaction to the action by Congress and the proposal of our governor is that they are all crazy. For the federal government to cut taxes at a time when wasteful spending is being increased just doesn't add up as we will discover to our sorrow. And the governor's proposal to pick up a tax windfall in order to increase state spending qualifies him for membership in the Society of the Silly.

Was there ever a time when we had so many stupid people holding positions of responsibility in our government?

"Lost, yesterday, somewhere between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each set with sixty diamond minutes. No reward is offered, for they are gone forever."

Aquacade Reviewed by Jaycees Tuesday Night

Review of activities for the 11th Annual Jaycees Aquacade in Thief River Falls took place at a regular meeting of the chapter held Tuesday evening in the Elks club rooms. First event of the week-long Aquacade will be an open golf tournament Sunday at the Thief River Golf club.

Tuesday will be featured by the University of Minnesota baseball clinic at the fairgrounds baseball diamond. Boys under 12 years of age will take part in the clinic from 9 a. m. to noon and boys 12 and older will participate from 1 to 4 p. m. In case of rain the clinic will be moved to the city arena.

On Wednesday evening the Thief River Falls national guard unit will present a display and demonstration at Riverside park below the armory beginning at 730 p.m. A considerable amount of blank ammunition and explosives will be used in the display.

Thursday's main Aquacade event will be the street water fight which has grown in popularity each year. Teams from local organizations will compete for a trophy by attempting to move a suspended ball on a steel cable with the use of pressure from fire hoses. This event will be held at 9 p. m. on Second street between Main and Knight avenues.

A teenage dance with music by the Charms will be held Friday evening from 9 to 11:30 p. m. at the city auditorium.

Saturday events include the annual Aquacade parade at 1030 a. m. and the Miss America Preliminary pageant at 8 p. m. in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. Eight candidates from Thief River Falls, Roseau, Greenbush, Warren and Fosston will compete for the Miss Aquacade title and special entertainment will be headlined by Barbara Hasselberg, 1964 Miss Minnesota, and her Tahitian dances.

Sunday events will include a water sports show in the afternoon at Tindolph park, a Jaycee International Trap Shoot all day at the Thief River Trap club, and a free fireworks display at Tindolph park at about 10 p. m.

Beginning Sunday the Aquacade treasure hunt for a capsule containing a certificate entitling the holder to a $200 Bulova Accutron watch from Falls Jewelry will be held. Clues will be given daily at noon and 730 p. m. on KTRF radio and additional clues will be posted at Aquacade events. A summary of clues will be included in the Times on Monday and Wednesday of next week.

Other Business

Discussion was also held by the chapter on the summer regional held at Ada, plans for operation of the dunking stand at the Pennington county fair, and chapter visitation to Winnipeg to promote the Jaycee International trap shoot. Louis Pfann was presented with the first Jaycee of the Month award by Rick Contos, chapter president.

Distribution of local "Plan of Action" manuals was made and contents reviewed. Contos also conducted a breif program on procedure in filling out records and recognition forms on chapter projects.

Tetanus Clinic Will Be Held in City Wednesday

Area residents are invited to take part in the special tetanus toxoid clinic to be held Wednesday, July 28, from 9 a. m. in the lobby of the rehabilitation unit of Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls. Cost will be 25 cents per injection, according to Dr. H. P. Wendt, Thief River Falls health officer.

Use of a new hydro-jet gun which blows a fine spray of vaccine below the skin surface will be a feature of the clinic. This method of providing imunization is fast and is said to be painless. No needle is used for the injection, and there is no fever reaction to the vaccine, Dr. Wendt said.

All persons who have not had tetanus innunization in the past six months and who are subject to puncture-type wounds are encouraged to attend the clinic. The north entrance of the hospital will be used by those taking part in the clinic.

DANCING the Tahitian dances which won the talent division of the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., Barbara Hasselberg, 1964 Miss Minnesota, will appear Saturday, July 31, at the Miss America Preliminary pageant in Thief River Falls. The pageant, at which Miss Aquacade of 1965 will be crowned, will be held at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. One of the most popular Miss Minnesotas in recent years, Barbara has made more than 360 appearances since her coronation.

Highway 32 Work North of RLF Is Slated This Year

A state-wide campaign, aimed at improving some of Minnesota's most seriously traffic-worn highways, and costing an estimated $3,150,000, was announced today by John R. Jaimeson, state highway commissioner. Highway 32 between Red Lake Falls and Marcoux Corner is included in the campaign.

"Many of our older highways" he said, "have been subjected to such heavy use during their lifetime that their surfaces have deteriorated to the point where a 'crash' surfacing program must be undertaken immediately to restore them to a level at which they will again be of greatest service to motorists."

The commissioner pointed out that 14 such projects, on 98 miles at a total cost of $1,304,918, will be placed under contract by the middle of July. An additional 10 projects on 132 miles at an estimated cost of $1,845,000, are scheduled for letting on July 30. Every effort, he said, will be made to have all of this work completed this year.

The decision to undertake this extensive program, according to John H. Swanberg, chief engineer, will require not only the expenditure of all of the department's funds budgeted for "maintenance betterments" during fiscal year 1966, but will also necessitate the transfer of approximately $1,000,000 from the construction account.

"We feel that we simply cannot wait to reconstruct these segments of highways under our regular highway construction program," Swanberg said. "This program will restore these highways to make them more 'rideable' and they should remain in excellent condition for at least 10 years."

Herbert Carlson, San Francisco, Calif., arrived here July 2 for a visit at the homes of his brother, Henry Carlson, and two sisters, Mrs. Hilma Stromberg and Mrs. Hilda Sagmoen, and with other relatives and friends.

June Employment In City Declines From Mid-March

Employment in Thief River Falls as of mid-June dropped slightly to a total of 2,777, according to R. S. Eldevik, manager of the state employment service located in this city. The drop of 28 workers from 2,805 in mid-March was one percent of the total employed, Eldevik said.

Employment in construction increased substantially, but was offset by a drop in government employment—principally teachers not employed during the summer vacation period. A small increase was noted in local trade, but all other employment categories remained relatively constant.

Employment was expected to increase during the third quarter with turkey processing now underway at the Land O'Lakes eviscerating plant here.

Supply of workers at the present time is beginning to be a little tight, Eldevik said. Thus far the supply has been adequate in most categories and no shortages are anticipated until this fall.

Demand for workers, outside of office help, is light. Demand for office help has been fairly steady and the demand for construction workers has been mainly for short-term jobs. There is usually a demand for competent housekeepers and baby-sitters, the manager added.

Employment by industry at mid-June as compared with mid-March is as follows for the city of Thief River Falls

Industrial Group	March 1965	June 1965	Number Change

NFO Grain Board From Pennington Attends Meeting

Members of the Pennington county NFO grain board attended a meeting at the Gardiner hotel, Fargo, N.D., recently for the purpose of setting up a grain marketing area. Donald Bernardson, George Horachek, Oldrich Hoffman, Albert Kotrba and Daniel Johnson attended.

Herb Goodman, head of national grain commodity department, Corning, Iowa, and Hartley Ellingson, temporary zone chairman, conducted the meeting. Setting up the grain marketing area and related problems was the main topic of business. This marketing area will include counties from Minnesota and North Dakota.

Irvin Hagen, from the federal grain grading station at Fargo, explained grain grading, protein testing and costs thereof.

Fritz Ottum, president of the National Malting Barley Growers association, and Richard Crochet, former president of the National Durum Growers association, were guest speakers.

Consensus of the group was that if the problems of the grain producers are going to be solved, it can only be done by the combined efforts of the producers themselves.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

Why the increase in livestock prices?

Most farm economists have been predicting higher hog and cattle prices, but few expected this sudden and large livestock price increase. Why? There are probably several reasons but two that are frequently overlooked are

(1) During the National Farmers Organization holding action last fall, a lot of light-weight cattle went to market. There were enough finished cattle held off the market that buyers were forced to beg (and frequently bribe) producers to sell cattle that were very light. The light-weight cattle that were slaughtered last fall are gone, so the tonnage of beef is down now. (This explodes the theory that holding actions increase meat supplies).

(2) The "marketing arrangements" between NFO members and meat packers are being felt. It is no secret that meat supplies are being shifted from one packer to another, according to the cooperation the packer shows toward the NFO.

Those packers who have fought the NFO are, in many cases, having trouble getting enough cattle for their plant capacity. This forces them to pay more to get the livestock numbers they need.

Eligible Veterans May Get Coverage With GI Policy

For a few pennies a week, an eligible veteran can make sure his small children have a stake of their own when they reach maturity, according to John R. Murphy, manager of the Veterans Administration center, St. Paul.

Murphy pointed out that for as little as 44 cents a week, a 45-year-old World War II or Korean veteran with service-connected disabilities who can meet other requirements, can get a $1,000 GI modified life policy. For 72 cents a week, the same veteran can obtain a $1,000 20-payment life policy.

To add $1,000 worth of coverage in both cases given above would cost even less, Murphy said. In the case of the modified life policy, it would cost 33 cents a week more to raise the coverage to $2,000 and 61 cents a week more to get a $2,000 20-payment life policy.

Full information may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA center at Fort Snelling or by telephoning PArkway 1-2955, Extension 274.

Judge Rules That Lost River Ditch May Be Continued

In a recent decision handed down by District H. O. Chomie, of Thief River Falls proceedings designed to halt digging in the Ditch 61 system, commonly referred to as the "Lost River" ditch, were dismissed. Judge Chommie thus negated a temporary injunction he had issued June 25 at the request of Manfred Holm and others.

At a meeting the previous Wednesday of the Roseau county board, the commissioners passed a resolution stating, "Whereas, after viewing Branch 5 of Lateral 3 of Judicial Ditch No. 61, we find said lateral is already open and has been for years, we, the county board of Roseau county, Minnesota, feel that the work being done should be completed to the point now staked, which is approximately three-tenths of a mile east of the southwest corner of Section 24, in Township 163 North, Range 39 West."

The Thursday hearing before Judge Chommie was brief. He said that inasmuch as the board had only the day before approved the ditching, "that really ends the matter as far as the court is concerned." He said that the court couldn't question the right of the board to maintain ditches. He emphasized that a group of individuals cannot legally undertake repair on their own account. "It must be done by the county," he said.

He also emphasized that the court is interested in seeing that ditch work is done by those in authority. He said that the court agreed that the proceeding should be dismissed and those restrained by the previous order should be relieved from further restriction "providing they do not go beyond that work authorized by the county board."

Christmas Seal Ass'n. Support Is $374,373

The public contributed $374,373.10 or 19 cents per capita this past year to support the health work of the Minnesota Christmas Seal association. A total of 485,334 appeal letters was mailed out to the state association's 81-county area last Christmas season. Of this number, 216,179 were returned with contributions, according to figures in this year's annual report of the state Christmas Seal association. The report also shows $20,902.07 in other income.

Separate fund campaigns to finance health programs were conducted by the association's three affiliates in Hennepin and Ramsey counties and in the northeast (St. Louis, Cook, Carlton and Lake counties).

For the year ending March 31, the report shows that the state association spent $91,542.29 for public health education; $12,518.17 on professional education and training; $128,989.39 for community services; $166.13 for local research activities in addition to one per cent of its gross receipts for research at the national level; $21,391.81 on public information; $195.77 in field studies and reorganization; $57,852.27 for administrative and general expense; and $71,678.72 on the Christmas Seal campaign. This totaled $386,334.55, and left $8,940.62 reserved for future program.

In its year-around campaign against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, the state association helped pay for 381,025 tuberculin tests to check for tuberculosis. It financed operation of a mobile x-ray unit to give a total of 69,642 chest x-rays in Minnesota's rural counties. It also supplied free chest x-ray consultation to 117 physicians in 51 counties.

The association also prepared and distributed free educational materials, conducted health workshops for school teachers and administrators, seminars for physicians, press and radio projects for school pupils. It cosponsored seven area tobacco education seminars for teachers and contributed to an annual appropriation of $20,000 to finance a teaching position in pulmonary disease at the University of Minnesota.

The expense of conducting the Christmas Seal campaign this past year was 19.15 per cent of the money the association received. This is 1.95 per cent below the 1963 all-time low.

Breaking down receipts by regions, the report lists $41,420 for the Northwest; $36,384, West Central; $43,733, Central; $39,254, Southwest; $47,971, South Central; $77,223, Southeast, and $67,590 for the Metropolitan (outside of Hennepin and Ramsey counties).

Copies of the report may be obtained by writing to Minnesota tuberculosis and Health Association, 614 Portland Ave., St. Paul, 2, Minn.

Post High School Ag Training Desirable

Need for more non-degree courses in land-grant agricultural colleges was stressed recently by a University of Maryland professor and director of a study of American colleges of agriculture.

Speaking at the national conference on short courses being held at the University of Minnesota's southern school of agriculture, Charles E. Kellogg said that higher education can no longer be simplified to include only programs for bachelor's, master's and doctor's degress.

"In all sectors of agriculture, as in other fields, declining numbers of jobs are available for the untrained," Kellogg told the 70 educators from 35 educational institutions throughout the nation.

"Young men who lack the aptitude and motivation for a degree curiculum need technical training beyond high school to fit them for commercial farming or for service in one of the many other sectors of agriculture."

Kellogg said that his studies of have shown clearly that only a small percentage of the men now managing commercial farms have attended a college of agriculture.

"Our field studies in excellent farming areas have brought out that many young farmers do not even know the full range of opportunities in a good agricultural college. Some had been advised that high school vocational agricultural was enough. By the time these young men discovered their error they already had their farms and their families."

He added that although agricultural colleges have a most vital responsibility for helping to train young farmers, they also have a big responsibility for education in other sectors of agriculture; both to the young people of rural areas and to agriculturally-related businesses.

Kellogg made the distinction between training for young farmers and training for specialized jobs. In training programs for young farmers, he listed such possible courses as ranch management, poultry growing, dairying, landscape gardening, beekeeping and rural recreational management.

Operating technician courses could include such specialized services as agricultural engineering, dairy-plant mangement and the grading of farm products.

In addition to these two types of non-degree programs, Kellogg listed a group of short courses running from one to 12 days designed mainly as refresher courses in the many kinds of specialized farming and farm services.

"In some way, and mainly in the public institutions, the educational needs for which the non-degree courses are designed must and will be met. And if this is not done by the land-grant college of agriculture in the state, it will be done by some other institution."

Colleges of agriculture must measure their benefits, he added, not simply in terms of improvements in farm practices, but also in terms of improvements in the educational status of rural families as well.

Charges "Battle of Bureaucracy"

Langen Says Post Office Turns Deaf Ear to Public

"The latest battle of bureaucracy against rural America comes from the post office department," charged Congressman Odin Langen this week.

"Recent arbitrary decisions by the department prove conclusively that this so-called servant of the people has turned on rural America with a vengeance and now threatens the very foundation of our national strength."

Congressman Langen specifically hit decisions by the post office department to terminate mail hauling and handling contracts with railroads operating in Minnesota and transfer such service to trucks on star routes, effective the beginning of this month.

"The department claims this is being done to provide better service at lower cost. I say they've jammed an unworkable plan down the throats of the public and that actually it is a drastic reduction of service that threatens to cost rural communities their economic lives.

"The people of Minnesota have protested by the thousands, businessmen from small towns and metropolitan areas alike have expressed alarm, and the local and state governments are on record against this move, Langen said. "But the thinkers in Washington have turned a deaf ear on their pleas."

The Congressman noted that post office department officials conducted a public meting on the subject on June 21 at Thief River Falls. "This meeting was held just six days before the new play went into effect, and it was obvious that the post office department officials arrived with a closed mind, disregarding the wishes of the public."

Congressman Langen noted that under the new star route system, towns in northwestern Minnesota will receive their incoming mail later in the morning, will be forced to post outgoing mail as early as mid-afternoon and will lose Sunday and holiday service.

"A typical example is noted in one community near the Canadian border," Langen said. "This town used to have dependable seven-day-a-week service with mail in their post office boxes by 8:30 in the morning. Five years ago, they had their service 'upgraded' through the use of the star route so the arrival time of mail varied as much as five hours. Two years ago they lost the Sunday delivery, so their Sunday papers now come on Monday.

"Now, with the new July 1st over-all plan for Minnesota, their mail will arrive at 9:30 or later in the morning and they'll have to post outgoing mail by 3:15 in the afternoon, a period of less than six hours. I would hardly call this progress. "Now the department is extending this program of reduced service to the whole state."

The congressman noted that the regional postal director's report to Washington actually admitted there would be at least a slight impairment of service to post offices north of Thief River Falls. "That report gave us a big clue as to departmental thinking when it said, 'In general, these offices are in the 2,000 or less per annum class, so a relatively small number of patrons will be affected by the later receipt (of mail).' Apparently the post office department considers residents in sparsely populated areas as second-class citizens who don't merit the same services as their brothers in the cities."

Langen said his files are bulging with letters from businessmen as well as other private citizens who express concern for the economic future of their communities if bureaucratic meddlers are allowed to continue their relentless assault on rural America.

"These businessmen depend on reliable mail service such as they had," he said. "They must be able to drop their orders into the mail at the end of the day and be assured that their suppliers in the Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul will have their orders on the way back the next day. The new system will disrupt this workable relationship. The Chambers of Commerce of both Minneapolis and St. Paul have joined with rural communities in protesting the change, but their protests also have fallen on deaf ears.

"I even have letters from hospitals, that depend on the mail service for life-giving drugs and blood from the metropolitan centers. These people, dealing with human lives, are frightened by dictatorial orders from the post office department that fail to consider their needs."

Congressman Langen also noted that the loss of mail carrying revenues by the railroads will add fuel to their arguments to discontinue passenger service entirely to rural areas. "These railroads are already petitioning to remove these trains, which represent the only public transportation in and out of so much of rural America."

Rep. Langen has held a series of meeting with post office department officials in an effort to reverse the decision to remove the mail from the trains. "Their complete misunderstanding and misrepresentation of facts is truly astounding," Langen said. "I am completely dissatisfied with their explanations and am appalled by their lack of concern for the people in rural America. It is obvious that they do not want to consider anything that interferes with some idiotic master plan worked out in a plush Washington office.

"And as to their claim that the department cannot consider the problems faced by these communities, this is pure hog wash. I say that every government department or agency, regardless of its individual function, has a responsibility to consider all aspects and effects of their decisions. You can be sure that I will continue to communicate that message to the post office department in the days ahead. And I will demand a more satisfactory answer to the question of why mail service to rural America is being reduced.

"I feel sorry for the rank and file postal workers of America, who are forced to work under such questionable decisions. Many have expressed their concern to me and I can truly appreciate that the deteriorating conditions of America's postal system are caused by decay at the top and not by the dedication of the men and women across the nation who now, as always, conduct their activities with dedication and devotion."

A 1965 graduate of Warren high school, she sang lead roles in two operettas, was a band and chorus member four years and won the school's Doris Brown Music award. Music has been the hub around which most of her school activity spokes revolved. She was in the operetta cast for "South Pacific" and "Oklahoma" and sang lead roles in "The Mikado" and "Pirates of Penzance". During her junior and senior years she played French horn solos and sang vocal solos in district music contests and last year won the school's instrumental soloist award with a French horn solo. She was also named recipient of the school's Doris Brown Music award for the outstanding senior musician.

Last fall she was an attendant to the school's homecoming queen. Claudia has served as co-editor of the senior annual, was a member of the student council three years and secretary last year and also was secretary of the band in 1964-65. She has taken piano lessons for several years and also had professional voice instruction.

A member of the Angus 4-H club she has won three state fair trips on demonstrations at the Polk county fair. Last fall she participated in the Make-It-Yourself-with-Wool contest in Thief River Falls, sewing her own outfit for the event.

East Siders Win Softball Tourney

Behind the steady pitching of Jack Herlihy, the East Side Merchants won the third annual Far North softball tournament held Sunday in Thief River Falls. East Side shut out Bridgeman's of this city 6-0 for the championship and the local Hartz stores team stopped McIntosh 6-3 to win consolation honors.

Enroute to the championship, the East Side nine defeated Jim's Clip Joint 8 to 6, edged Audubon 2 to 1 and swamped Woodward 10 to 1. In the Audubon game, Herlihy's two-run homer in the first inning provided all the runs needed while a fourth inning homer by Chapman of Audubon was the only hit off the East Grand Forks hurler.

In the championship tilt with Bridgeman's, Herlihy twirled a no-hitter and only four Bridgeman batsmen reached first base—two on walks and two on errors. John Drury pitched all the games for Bridgeman's, having his major trouble in the fifth inning against East Side when the Mechants scored five runs on five hits, including a homer by Mike Sullivan.

In gaining the consolation championship, Hartz lost to Audubon 9-5 in the first game, beat Jim's Clip Joint 8 to 5 and Schmid's 4 to 3 to move into the finals. Dwight Tangquist hurled a four-hitter against McIntosh in the final game while his teammates collected eight hits of Ferden of McIn- singles and a double and Dennis Bakke a double an triple for the Hartz team.

Teams entered in the tournament were Ben's Food Market, Bridgeman's, VFW, Hartz and Schmidt's of Thief River Falls, McIntosh, Art Mart of Grand Forks, Evan's, Crookston, Fosston, Audubon, East Side Merchants, Jim's Clip Joint, Fisher and Woodward Motor Parts.

Dick Siebert's Baseball Clinic Here on Tuesday

Coach Dick Siebert winds up his University of Minnesota-sponsored series of baseball schools the week of July 26-30 with stops at Warroad, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Ada and Moorhead. The Thief River Falls clinic will be held Tuesday, July 27, at the fairgrounds diamond.

Siebert, who has coached five Big Ten and three NCAA championship teams at Minnesota, launched his six-week series of schools June 21. They are open to all boys, 9-18 years old, who would like to learn more about playing baseball.

Before joining the university Athletic department, Siebert was the regular first baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics for eight years. During his professional career, he compiled a lifetime batting average of .290.

Youngsters wishing to participate in the schools are asked to report at 9 a. m. to noon for boys 9-12 and 1-4 p. m. for those over 12. Boys residing in the general vicinity of Thief River Falls are invited to attend. Adults interested are invited to watch the instruction given.

Fundamentles and individual instruction will be stressed, along with offensive and defensive play situations for the older group. Boys are asked to bring their gloves with them. Balls and bats will be provided.

Employment in State Hits Record 1,076,100

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment in Minnesota in June hit an all-time record of 1,076,100 a whopping 14,000 above the previous record established last September.

Jobs in June increased over 15,000 from May and were almost 30,000 above last June's level, according to the monthly release on "Employment Trends" of the Minnesota department of employment security.

Commissioner Robert J. Brown reported that, while the gain was assisted in part by the special youth work projects, basic industry gains were substantial enough to have reached a new record on their own strength. Manufacturing employment in June for example, was almost 6,000 jobs above the figures for a year ago, and had gained over 5,000 of that number since May, he said.

In spite of a slow start by the canning industry this summer, nondurable goods manufacturing contributed 3,300 to the job gain between May and June. Principal manufacturing gains between June 1964 and last month occurred in durable goods manufacturing firms, primarily in nonelectric machinery.

Although jobs increased substantially, Brown said that the flood of new entrants into the labor force in June, especially students, caused an increase in estimated unemployment from 48,000 in May to 53,000 in June. Expressed as a percentage of the labor force this meant that unemployment in the state rose from 3.1 per cent in May to 3.3 per cent in June. A year ago the level was 64,500 or 4 per cent of the labor force.

The Iron Range employment situation continues to recover, on the new wave of taconite development. Unemployment in Northern St. Louis county in June was estimated to be 4 per cent compared to a rate of 5.6 per cent a year ago and 7 per cent in June, 1963.

For the eighth consecutive month, mining employment remained increased from 12,500 in May to 13,000 in June, compared to 12,800 a year ago. The continuing economic expansion, with a resulting need for more steel, has reversed the long-term employment downtrend in Minnesota's mining industry, Brown siad.

Construction firms employed 65,200 persons in June, up 6,900 from the 58,300 employed in May, and 3,700 above June 1964. About 2,100 of the May-to-June job gain in construction is directly attributable to taconite plant construction in Northern Minnesota.

Employment gains in transportation (600), communications and public utilities (300), and trade (2,500), were as expected. Employment in services declined seasonally by 1,000 jobs as employment gains of 1,400 in hotels, hospitals, movie theatres and other services were offset by a loss of 2,400 jobs in private schools and colleges when their school year ended.

Production workers in Minnesota manufacturing industries earned an average of $114.17 per week in June, by working an average of 41.9 hours per week for $2.73 per hour. The corresponding figures for May were $111.21 per week, 40.9 hours, and $2.72 per hour; a year ago, $109.15, 41.2 and $2.65.

CONCERT conductor Marvin Honore of Vancouver, B.C., will conduct the Christian Concerts orchestra in a concert to be presented in the Thief River Falls city auditorium Tuesday at 8 p.m. The appearance of the concert orchestra marks the first time in church music history that a full symphony orchestra has been formed to present sacred concerts. Assisting the orchestra will be an 18-voice vocal ensemble. The orchestra and choir, sponsored by Christian Concerts, Inc., performed at the New York World's Fair at both the United States Pavilion and the New York State Pavilion on July 23. Personnel of the group have been recruited from the high schools and colleges of the northwest. The program presented here will include festival-type sacred classics, the dramatic presentation of Carmen Dragon's "I Am an American" and instrumental and vocal arrangements of well-known gospel songs and hymns. Special props and colored lighting will accent the performance.

Remind Employers Of Taxes Due on Income, Security

Minnesota employers were reminded by George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue, that August 2 is the deadline for reporting and paying income tax withheld and Social Security taxes for the calendar quarter ending June 30, 1965.

Employers should use the preaddressed Form 941 furnished to them, Lethert indicated. It should be mailed with depositary receipts and full payment of the taxes due.

Taxpayers who have made full and timely deposit of their employment taxes for each month of the quarter in a Federal Reserve Bank or an authorized commercial bank have until August 10 to file their returns.

Striping Tape Is Found Successful By Highway Dep't.

Pavement striping tape produced by a Minnesota company and utilized by the Minnesota highway department has been effective in temporary road markings, reports the department's traffic engineering section.

The tape was first used in 1961 in a cooperative experiment with the company. The original product was not reflectorized and, after limited use, an aluminum foil base tape reflectorized with small glass beads was employed and found to be highly satisfactory.

Previously, paint was used to indicate temporary centerline and edge markings in construction zones, but the paint was quite difficult to remove and involved excessive man hours to apply and remove. The tape is easily applied by simply laying it on the road surface and bonding to the pavement by running a vehicle tire over the surface. It is easily removed by heating the surface to break the bond and then lifting it from the road manually.

Tenacity of the tape is illustrated by its application on I-694 between Brookdale and Columbia Heights where, under heavy traffic conditions, it lasted over one year beyond its expected life span of six months.

The tape is so thin and conforms so well with the road surface that snow plows cannot dislodge it and it is versatile in that it may be applied to both concrete and bituminous surfaces with equal success.

The product was placed on the market in 1963 and is presently used by several highway departments, cities and some air fields.

Garrison Diversion

Approval of the Garrison diversion bill for North Dakota in the Senate committee on interior and insular affairs Monday virtually assures passage of the measure this session. The House of Representatives passed an identical bill previously. The bill calls for $207 million to use Missouri river water for agricultural, municipal, industrial and recreational purposes.

The time may come when such a project may be proved wise. If the burgeoning population of the United States continues and food production becomes a problem to feed the people, agricultural land will have extreme value. Agricultural productivity is, of course, dependent on water. Crops do not grow and livestock can not be produced without it.

Right now the whole idea looks very much like another of the unnecessary federal programs to which this nation is becoming too accustomed. If municipal or industrial operations wish to use water from the Missouri river, it does not seem unreasonable that they should obtain it themselves. They will be the ones to benefit from it.

Recreation is also questionable. All too often the best-laid plans of men for large-scale recreational projects result in the loss of other recreation. We do not know if other impoundments than the Garrison reservoir are planned—if there is a plan—but it seems necessary that impoundments be made if any wide-spread irrigation is attempted. This could well result in flooding of low-lying areas which have wildlife populations.

Proponents of the measure have argued that the Garrison bill reimburses North Dakota for the 550,000 acres of farm and ranch land lost to Garrison and Oahe reservoirs which have flooded low-lying areas along the Missouri river. These proponents may well be the same people who favored construction of the Garrison dam in the first place because of its anticipated economic value to the state.

Agriculturally speaking, it does seem rather incongruous that the government is fighting a running battle with surpluses on one hand, taking land out of production with incentive payments on the other, and financing the establishment of additional cropland at the same time.

It seems that Garrison diversion, like so many other federal projects, is being considered by Congress on a pressure campaign this session. It was first heard in 1956 and last year was brought up again but failed to be passed. We would like to see Congress divert it, at least until such time as a definite need for additional agricultural land is proved. In the meantime, let the cities and industries which want Missouri river water use it—in a manner consistent with sound conservation policies.

This Town!

Every now and then someone drops a comment about "this town" that raises the blood temperature. These remarks are generally aimed at something which "this town" does not have that other towns have or something which "this town" does not provide which the person speaking believes should be provided.

Most of the "this town" comments are derogatory—and they reflect shallow and self-centered thinking. They are frequently made by young people, which is unfortunate, but all too often are made by adults, which is even more unfortunate. Dissatisfaction is anexpected reaction from youth, and they are not expected to entirely understand whereof they speak. Adults should be a little more mature in their thinking.

How many of us have not heard comments like the following: "What this town needs is a big manufacturing plant." "What this town should do is get all its streets surfaced in one year." "There's nothing to do in this town." "The sooner I get out of this town the better." "There can't be any place more backward than this town." "Why can't this town have the things that other towns have?"

People making these irresponsible comments get under the hide of those who have chosen to make this town their home, who have worked to make it better and more active and more beautiful, who have invested in businesses and homes and recreation and schools, who have seen their efforts succeed as well as fail, who have lived in other towns where the same type of statements were made—bigger towns, more aggressive towns, metropolitan jungles.

The proper perspective is not attained until "this town" is changed to "my town". While the dissatisfied are complaining about what the community lacks or expounding what it needs, they might pause for breath during the verbal barrage. During this respite they just might ask themselves what they have done to attract manufacturing, petition for street surfacing or serve on the city council, create recreational or cultural activity, contribute to a more aggressive populace and obtain the things that other towns have. In most cases this self-analysis shouldn't take long before the lipflapper arrives at a sum total of nothing.

Personally, we like "this town"—our town. We don't like to hear people berate it, particularly when they have not taken enough interest in it themselves to know what they are talking about. Criticism is welcome when it is given constructively, and possible solutions to problems should also be brought forth. Our town should be made better and it does lack things which it could well have. Knocking "this town" will accomplish nothing to bring about improvement.

We are proud to call Thief River Falls our home town. We are proud of its schools, its parks, its business district, its residential areas, its manufacturing, its agricultural heritage and its warm-hearted, friendly people. We think people in other communities should be proud of their towns, too. A town mirrors the image of its people, and those who knock it are only knocking themselves. After all, "this town" is "my town" no matter who you are or where you live.

How About Age?

It seems that the civil rights act which went into effect July 1 was a very discriminatory one. In granting equal employment opportunity to persons of all races, creeds, colors, sexes, religions and national origins, it excluded provision to protect those discriminated against because of age.

Mandatory retirement at 60, 62, 65, 70 or some other arbitrary age is seemingly in violation of an individual's civil rights. Should a person in good health and with practical experience be excluded from employment simply because he or she is older than this arbitrary age?

Government itself is probably more guilty of forcing inequity on the aged than any other organization. It subsidizes retirement when workers have projective years of their life remaining; it constantly tells people of retirement age how bad they are being mistreated; and it exacts social security payments from them during their working lives, then restricts their working income if they hope to recover some of the payments they have made.

If forced retirement because of age is not a violation of civil rights, we would like to have a good definition of the term.

Time for the Fair

Pennington county's 64th annual fair will begin its four-day run on Thursday and directors of the sponsoring Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., are hoping for a break in the weather. Good weather should bring good crowds, and the overall idea of the fair is to display to as many people as possible the craftmanship, originality, perseverance and fortitude of the residents of the county.

We look upon the fair as one of the strongest town and country cooperative events each year. It is a chance for the businessman to admire the crops, livestock and handiwork of his customers. It is an opportunity for rural and city homemakers to demonstrate their culinary and artistic abilities together. It is a chance for rural and city people alike to promote their area of the state.

There is a certain allure to the drifting cigar smoke, the smell of fresh popcorn, the screams from thrill rides on the midway, the bellowing of cattle from the barns and the bits of entertainment from the grandstand public address system that makes a county fair almost irresistable.

We would like to issue one word of warning. Avoid the get-rich-quick schemes which may be offered by the fast-talking "flatties" on the midway. Every carnival has at least several of these "flat joints", which in carnival lingo means something less than on the level. Operators of these concessions do not make a living by making people rich. The quickest, easist and surest way to be mony ahead is to ignore their invitation of "Hey, buddy, come over here; I want to show you something."

Grandstand performances this year should be especially entertaining. Those people who like the smash-em-up routines of auto thrill shows should get their money's worth on Thursday night. The tractor pulling contest Friday evening and Saturday afternoon should also be interesting because of local people matching their tractors against those of their neighbors. Area talent will perform Saturday evening, a horse show will be held Sunday afternoon and hypnotist Ed Baron will perform Sunday evening. Hi, ho, come to the fair.

"Just one," said daughter.

"Who wrote it?" demanded Mama.

"I shouldn't tell you," said Martha.

harmful contaminants
(so they can't block your gas line!)
What does the American FINAL/FILTER* really do? Automotive engineers know—they asked for it and American Oil Research developed it to stand between you and trouble. You see, all gasolines pick up tiny impurities in transit and in storage. These impurities, should they get in your gasoline tank, could clog up the fuel line filter and stop you cold. The American FINAL/FILTER blocks out contaminants right at the pump nozzle. If you use your car on the job (and even if you don't) you stay out of trouble when you "fill 'er up filtered" with American Regular or American Super-Premium.

Forged steel radius rods lock in wheel alignment! Two axles share the load, and because each axle works independently a bump at one wheel won't move the other. From there they went to Mrs. Hans Lokstad where the many colored Pansies stole the show. At Mrs. Henning Olsons we found a very well arranged yard with several Scotch-Pine trees and many flowers. Then to Mrs. Melvin Ihle who has more than fifty different varieties of flowers, besides a large vegetable garden and indoors an array of African Violets. The next stop was at the George Gunderson home where huge red poppies were an outstanding feature. We also saw an abundant crop of strawberries here of which we each were treated to a sample. PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

Q. Why can't I buy certain drugs without a prescription? Isn't this some kind of conspiracy between the druggist and the doctor?

A. Yes, you might call it a conspiracy — a conspiracy to protect your health! Certain drugs are labeled: "Federal Law Prohibits Dispensing Without Prescription." This "prescription legend" signifies that the drug is potent enough to require the judgment of a licensed medical practitioner to authorize its use by the patient and to determine the dosage to be taken, the frequency of administration, the length of time it is to be used, and the advisability of repeated administration. The pharmacist is the legal custodian of such drugs and it is the pharmacist who is responsible for compliance with the law. Patients sometimes embarrass their pharmacist by insisting that they be allowed to purchase a "prescription legend" drug without a prescription or that he refill their prescription for such a drug without the doctor's approval. In refusing your pharmacist is complying with the law, and he does so to protect you.

Remember — the diagnosis and treatment of disease is the function of the patient's personal physician.

At this Pharmacy, the dispensing of prescribed medicine is a personal service rendered with true professional interest in the health problem of the individual.

Questions Answered By Internal Revenue

Q—I just changed jobs and my new boss is taking out Social Security tax from my paycheck. On my old job they took out enough to pay me up for the year. Is there any way to stop this withholding?

A—No. The law requires that each employer withhold on the first $4,800 of wages he pays each employee. However, the extra amounts that are withheld can be claimed as a credit against your income tax when you file your return next year.

Q—I have been out of my office on sick leave for a month now and it looks as if it will be two months more before I can return. I am sure I will qualify for the sick pay exclusion when I file next year's return. Can I ask my boss to stop withholding income tax on the pay I receive while I am out?

A—If you receive your sick pay under an employer-financed plan, then you may ask your employer not to withhold income tax on the excludable portion. To do this, your employer has to have evidence that you do qualify for the sick pay exclusion. Therefore, the best thing for you to do is get in touch with the payroll department at your place of employment and give them the information they need for their records.

Q—I am taking a course this summer in business administration. Will I be able to deduct my tuition costs and books?

A—The costs you mention will be deductible if you either are taking the course to maintain the skills required for your present job or if you must take the course to keep your job.

Education costs are not deductible when the primary purpose is to obtain a promotion or a new position.

Q—Last summer a teacher I know deducted her travel costs to Europe as an educational expense. Why was she able to do that? I thought travel costs were personal expenses.

A—In the instance you cite, the teacher must have been able to establish that her travel had a direct relationship to the skills required in her teaching position and would improve these skills.

However, if a teacher takes a trip just for personal pleasure or for its cultural value, then the travel expenses will not be deductible.

Q—I just received a reimbursement from my health plan on some medical bills I paid last year. I claimed these bills as a deduction on my 1964 return. What should I do about this reimbursement check?

A—The reimbursement should be added to your 1965 income to the extent that the medical expense deduction would have been reduced if you had been reimbursed in the prior year.

Q—Is the pay you get for two weeks on active duty with Reserves taxable?

A—Yes, military pay is generally taxable, except for certain combat pay.

Q—I just sold my house. Since I have a year to buy another one to offset whatever profit I made, does this mean that I do not have to report the income from the sale on this year's return?

A—Yes, you have a year to buy another house and offset the gain from the sale of your first home by what you paid for the second. If you have not purchased another home by the time you file your tax return and if you still have time before a year has passed from the sale of your home, then you should report the sale on Schedule D of Form 1040, but show your gain in Column "G" as "None." Attach a statement of explanation to your return. Contact your Internal Revenue Service office for further information or to obtain Form 219 which may be used to report the sale.

Q—I am thinking of buying a cooperative apartment. Is it true that I will be able to deduct a portion of my monthly payments as interest charges, and real estate taxes?

A—Yes, generally that is right. The exact amount you may deduct should be obtained from the managers of the cooperative. They will be able to tell you what portion of your payments went for interest charges and real estate tax.

Q—I operate a variety store and lose a good deal of money each year to shoplifters. How can I keep records of the losses so that I can deduct them on my return?

A—Thefts automatically show up in reduced year-end inventory reports. This results in lower gross profits, and reduction of your taxable income.

Q—I am president of a small corporation. If we liquidate, will the money our stockholders receive be considered ordinary income or capital gains?

A—Amounts distributed in a complete liquidation of a corporation are usually considered capital gain to the stockholders to the extent of the difference between the adjusted basis of the shares turned in and the amount received on the distribution. If you decide to liquidate, ask your District Director for copies of the required information return and further information.

Lions Club Has Talk on Vision

Thief River Falls Lions club met Wednesday at the Elks club rooms for the noon luncheon meeting with president Phil Kays presiding. Following the introduction of guests, president Kays called on Bill Thompson who spoke to the club on the need for volunteer help to work at the fair. In past years the Lions have helped with the taking of tickets.

The president then turned the meeting over to program chairman Dr. E. L. Gilbert. Dr. Gilbert had as his guest Don Peterson of the Benson Optical Company, who spoke on the need for good vision and of the increased demand that is being placed on our vision. Slides were shown to help emphasize his talk.

Tech. Institute At Crookston To Begin in 1966

University of Minnesota's new statewide, college-level technical institute at Crookston will be developed under the administration of the college of agriculture, forestry and home economics of the Institute of Agriculture. The new institute is scheduled to admit students in the fall of 1966.

The technical institute was authorized by the 1965 Minnesota State Legislature and will be located at the university's Northwest school and experiment station. The legislature appropriated $60,000 for program development in 1965-66 and $150,000 for 1966-67. It also provided $375,000 for remodeling and rehabilitating present buildings to fit their new needs.

Speaking at the school and experiment station's annual field day, Dr. B. E. Youngquist, superintendent, reported on this and other recent developments at the Crookston location.

The new two-year program will place principal emphasis on technical agriculture and agri-business at the present. Nature of the offerings may be supplemented later and other or new programs may be offered. When the new institute is in operation, two different types of university activities will be carried on at Crookston.

The technical institute will have a separate director or head responsible for developing the college-level programs in technical agriculture and agribusiness and other educational fields.

The agricultural experiment station will remain a responsibility of the superintendent who will also be responsible for "phasing out" the Northwest school of agriculture, a secondary, not collegiate, level program.

Kokanee Salmon Fishing Offered In State Lakes

Fishermen have a chance to take some good sized kokanee salmon in six Minnesota lakes this summer, reports Robert Schumacher, fisheries biologist with the state division of game and fish.

Grindstone lake in Pine county, and Chase, Larson and Caribou lakes near Grand Rapids in Itasca county all have small populations of kokanee that are now four years old. These fish should be 15 to 16 inches long by fall.

Leo lake, near Hungry Jack, and Greenwood lake in Cook county have smaller 3-year old fish. These lakes have all been stocked with kokanee each year since 1962.

The kokanee is a freshwater sockeye salmon that does not migrate to the sea and which spawns on gravel shoals in lakes and streams. It spawns in December in its fourth year of life, and then dies.

The kokanee is a plankton feeder, eating mostly free-swimming water animals other than fishes and has feeding habits similar to those of fresh-water herring or tullibee. It is hoped that in several of the lakes stocked the kokanee will live on foods now used by tullibee and thus supply additional hook-and-line fishing.

Only a small number of these fish have been stocked to date since eggs have been imported from more western states and have been hard to obtain. Plans are to use the Minnesota lakes now stocked as a future source of egg supply, with an ultimate goal of obtaining four to five million eggs a year.

Studies of the kokanee show that they drop to the bottom of the lake as darkness falls and rise to the surface with flies. In the evening and night hours they should be fished deeper using small wobblers or spoons baited with worms or grubs.

after the Parade

The parade is over, and Tim is hot, dusty, and his feet hurt. This was his first parade, and somehow it didn't come off as he thought. He didn't expect to be the whole show, but he did think he and his tuba would stand out a little. As it happened, he was just "one of the band."

Later, he will realize that if each player weren't just "one of the band" there wouldn't be any band at all. He'll start thinking from there, and the parade will seem a lot better in memory than it does right now. For Tim has a good sense of value, for a boy his age—thanks in part, to the teachings of his church and church school.

Tim will weather his disappointments and march successfully through life, instead of giving up. Will your youngsters be as lucky?

Give your children the chance to go to church school.

Downtown Crash Kills 9-Year-Old Boy Thurs.

Jerome Ramstad Dies Instantly; Others Injured

Thief River Falls recorded its first traffic fatality in more than four years and first victim of a multi-vehicle crash in at least 20 years when a collision claimed the life of a nine-year-old boy in the downtown area about 5:30 p. m. Thursday. All cars were considered total losses as a result of the accident and police estimated vehicle damage between $4,000 and $5,000.

Killed in the crash was Jerome Ramstad, 9, who had been making his home with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moe of rt. 2, Thief River Falls, for the past several months. He was a passenger in a car driven by Miss Alverna Tigges, 23, a child welfare worker for the Marshall county welfare department.

Miss Tigges and Terry Ramstad, 5, also a passenger in the car, are hospitalized at Northwestern hospital with severe injuries. Miss Tigges continues in critical condition this morning. She suffered fractures of both legs, fractured jaw, multiple contusions and abrasions and other injuries.

Terry Ramstad, who had suffered a fractured leg, lacerations and internal injuries, is reported as improved this morning. Robert Sullivan, driver of one of the three cars involved in the accident, was released from the hospital on Saturday.

Thief River Falls police department, which is conducting the investigation of the fatal mishap, gave the following account of the accident:

A car driven by Alverna Tigges of Warren was traveling North on Main avenue (highway 32) and had stopped for a red light at the intersection with First street. While the car was waiting at the light, it was struck head-on by a station wagon owned by Pete Sullivan and driven by Robert Sullivan 17, Thief River Falls, traveling south on Main avenue.

Impact of the crash pushed the Tigges car into a third vehicle driven by Mrs. Willard (Bernice) Erickson of Thief River Falls, which had stopped approximately a car length behind the Tigges car. The crash pushed the Tigges car more than 100 feet south on Main avenue, where it came to rest facing east and straddling the center line.

The Erickson car rolled back-

Concert Slated Here Tuesday at City Auditorium

Christian Concerts, Inc., of West Seattle, Wash., is sending an orchestral and choral group to Thief River Falls for an appearance in the city auditorium Tuesday at 8 p.m.

This group is composed of 36-member orchestra and a choral group of 18 singers recruited from colleges and high schools in the Pacific northwest. The director, Marvin Honore, began traveling with gospel teams in the United States and Canada in 1948.

Honore later studied at the Chicago music college and became chairman of the board and business manager of the Chicago Negro Opera Guild. He later appeared in an opera with the National Guild at Metropolitan opera house and Carnegie Hall. He was officially invited to set up the Vancouver Opera association in Vancouver, B.C., now one of the leading opera companies in the Pacific northwest.

The past two summers he has toured the U.S. and Canada directing Christian choral and brass ensemble groups, having appeared at the World's Fair in the summer of 1964. He now devotes full time to Christian Concerts, Inc. The group was invited to appear at the New York World's Fair July 13-15.

Concerts consist of festival-type sacred classics; a dramatic presentation of Carmen Dragon's "I Am an American"; orchestral and vocal arrangements of well-known gospel songs and hymns in a blending of voices, instruments and the spoken word with a changing panorama of lighting.

Soo Line Ships LO'L Turkeys in First New Cars

The first two of the Soo Line's 10 new refrigerator cars moved Land O'Lakes turkeys out of here to eastern markets this week, Vern Erickson, general agent reports. One piggy back load has also been shipped, he states.

In previous years the Soo Line has depended on refrigerator cars made available through a surplus pool by other roads, but few could be rented on this basis during the rush period. Erickson is hopeful that with the 10 refrigerator cars, plus the piggy back equipment, the company will be able to provide adequate service.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hunt and Mrs. S. E. Hunt of Newberg, Ore., spent Sunday with the Jerry Mickley family at their cottage on Lake Eunice.

Fun and Frolic Fills Crazy Day Here Wednesday

Crazy, man! Thief River Falls retailers — relatively subdued for the past year—will revert to their natural habits again when Crazy Day in Thief River Falls is held Wednesday. Crazy costuming, pixie parade for the kids, sidewalk sales, odd-ball auction, batty bargains and kangaroo court will be some of the features of the fun-filled day from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Opening the day will be the kiddie parade at 9 a.m. Entrants are requested to report to the city parking lot south of the post office at 8:30 a.m. Cash prizes are offered to the winners. The parade will follow a route east on Second street to Horace avenue, north on Horace to Third street, west on Third to Main avenue and south on Main to Second street, according to Erwin Ferber, parade chairman.

Free movies for the children will begin at 10 a.m. at Falls Theater and the program of Westerns and cartoons will continue until 5 p.m. Housewives will be allowed to comb the bargain tables with both hands if they take advantage of this "sitter service" and avoid the problems of tag-along youngsters in Crazy Day crowds.

To further encourage merchants to dress suitably for the occasion, a kangaroo court has been devised for the day and will be presided over by The Horrible James Dale, known locally as the "hanging" judge. This phase of activity should be hilarious.

The crazy auction will be held at 5 p.m. on LaBree avenue between second and Third streets. Many items will be auctioned at ridiculous prices.

Sidewalk sales will again be a major feature of the event, with the bizarre bazaar in session all day. It will be a day to remember—don't forget Crazy Day in Thief River Falls Wednesday.

Wednesday's attraction will be a display and demonstration of small arms by the Thief River Falls national guard unit at 7:30 p. m. at Riverside park below the armory. The demonstration will simulate a combat situation with blank ammunition being fired.

Thursday's main Aquacade event will be the street water fight between teams from local organizations to be held at 9 p. m. on Second street between Main and Knight avenues. The clinic will open at 9 a. m. Wednesday in the lobby of the rehabilitation unit of Northwestern hospital according to Dr. H. P. Wendt, Thief River Falls health officer.

The hydro-jet gun blows a fine spray of vaccine under the skin surface in a fast and painless manner, Dr. Wendt said. No needle is used in the injection and there is no fever reaction to it.

School Board To Hire Assistant To Superintendent

Approval of a motion to hire an administrative assistant for the Thief River Falls school system was given Wednesday evening by the Thief River Falls board of education. The board met in special session at the school.

The motion and approval followed discussion of the Public Law 8910 passed by the U.S. Congress relating to school aids. It was felt by the board, which gave unanimous approval, that an administrative assistant could coordinate state and federal programs into the local system, handle the purchasing for the district and supervise accounting and preliminary budget items.

A contract was also awarded to Solheim & Overum Furniture company of Thief River Falls for carpeting of the school library at Lincoln which is now being remodeled. The local firm was low among two bidders at a price of $14.95 per square yard.

Discussion was held on plans for the area vocational-technical school in addition to the National Education Act (Public law 8910). Supt. M. R. Hankerson was authorized to secure an appraisal of the block located south of the Great Northern tracks between Knight and Duluth avenues.

A change order in remodeling plans for the Lincoln school was also approved to provide a small office for the administrative assistant.

Peterson-Gustafson Speak Marriage Vows

Miss Carmen Adell Pederson, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Pederson of rural Thief River Falls and the late Ingvard Pederson was united in marriage to Larry Gustafson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustafson of Viking, on Saturday, June 12, in the Zion Lutheran church in this city. The Rev. Milton Wilson performed the double ring ceremony with 250 guests in attendance. Mrs. Walter Larson, provided the nuptial music and played the "Wedding March" by Lohengrin as the processional. Bryant Ujseth, former vocal teacher of the bride, sang "The Greatest of These Is Love" and "The Lord's Prayer". Lighted candelabra and baskets of white gladioli, pink mums and greens formed the background for the ceremony while white candles and bows marked the pews. A festoon of ivy across the aisle was cut as the parents entered the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dennis Pederson, was attired in a floorlength gown fashioned with a lace empire bodice styled with a scalloped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The skirt swept back to form a chapel length train, was enhanced in front by lace panels and in back by a large organza bow. The chapel length veil was held by an open pillbox headpiece. Fashioned by Erma Hammer, matching lace encircled the headpiece adorned with sequins and the double circular veil. To complete her attire, she wore white lace gloves, pearl earrings and carried an all green cascade bridal bouquet of lemon leaves arranged to resemble roses, ribbon grass, ivy and green velvet ribbons.

Erma Hammer, Minneapolis, attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmatron was Mrs. Gary Krogstad, Stephen, the former Norella Solum of Thief River Falls. They wore identical floor-length gowns of pink and white whipped creme styled with a pale pink chiffon overskirt, sleeveless bodices and scalloped necklines. They wore matching open pillbox headpieces encircled with pale pink flowers and veiling, white shoes and long white gloves and crystal earrings, their gifts from the bride. Each carried an arm bouquet of white mums, foliage and green velvet ribbons.

The groom chose his brother-in-law, William Brinkman, Crookston, as best man and his cousin, Dwight Tangquist, Thief River Falls, as groomsman. Ushers were Paul Tangquist, Viking, cousin of the groom and Phillip Torgerson, Thief River Falls, cousin of the bride. The men of the wedding party wore black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

HEARING AIDS AND X-RAY MACHINES
Q. I recently obtained a position in a doctor's office. I use a hearing aid and at various times during the day the aid seems to "go dead." This never happens at home. Can you explain?
A. The trouble may be due to small amounts of radiation given off by an x-ray or diathermy machine used in the office. Transistors are especially sensitive to this type of radiation. Consult the hearing aid manufacturer. The difficulty might be overcome by shielding the transistors, or perhaps a different type of hearing aid should be used.
Note to Mrs. N.A.: Circumcision of the male is performed for religious and/or hygienic reasons. It is not likely that the solution to your particular problem can be found in surgery.
EYELID MOTION AND CLICKING SOUNDS
Q. Occasionally, when I close my left eye, I notice a clicking sound. Does this suggest eye trouble and is treatment necessary?
A. When one of the eyelids does not fit snugly against the eyeball, a bubble of air may form between the upper lid and the globe. As the eyelid closes, the bubble is expelled with a "clicking sound." No treatment is indicated.

Moving is no fun. And if you ever try to move a whole store of furniture, you'll know what we mean. Our backs are lame—and, in moving, we did damage some furniture, with scratches, nicks and bruises. So, we're crazy to sell this stuff for so little money. But, we don't want it around. We are ignoring profits, selling many items below our wholesale cost — sacrificing everything on the page. 2-Week Day Camp For Handicapped Completed Friday

Third annual day camp for handicapped children at Thief River Falls was concluded on Friday, according to Orall Johnson, camp director. A total of 16 youngsters participated in the camp which was sponsored by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc. (MISCCA).

Camp M.O.E. south east of Thief River Falls was used for the camp and provided an ideal setting for nature study and solitude, Johnson said. Campers had a good opportunity to enjoy the out-of-doors.

Various recreational programs were planned each day so that all youngsters in the camping program could participate. Modification of games and activities was made to compensate for the varied disabilities of the youngsters.

Activities enjoyed most by campers were swimming sessions, guided tours and an airplane flight to Grand Forks. Tours were taken of the airport and the Land O'Lakes turkey processing plant.

In addition to many games of softball, croquet and working on craft projects, the youngsters spent one night on a camp-out. While camping out, a short-wave radio was set up and the children were given the opportunity of listening to ham operators in the area.

Cook-outs and song fests provided additional entertainment during the two-week camp. Arrangements for the plane flight were made through the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

"We members of the camp staff and the MISCCA would like to thank the generous people of the community for the support, courtesies and cooperation in making this camp possible for these deserving youngsters of our community who might otherwise not have had such a camping experience," Johnson concluded.

Wednesday's case was that of Helmer Hinden, rt. 5, TRF, driving after suspension of license, 30 days in jail, license plates and title card ordered impounded.

ward into the driveway entering Len's Tire service and the Sullivan vehicle crossed the east curb, part of a vacant lot and went through a light barricade before stopping facing east. None of the occupants of any of the cars were thrown from the vehicles.

Jerome Ramstad was pronounced dead at the scene of the crash by Dr. R. G. Anderson who was summoned from the hospital only a block away. Miss Tigges and Terry Ramstad were rushed to the hospital by ambulance as were Sullivan and occupants of the Erickson vehicle. The latter included Mrs. Erickson, Mrs. Marie Veven, who sustained a bruised knee and elbow and cut forehead, and Pamela Erickson, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erickson and neice of Mrs. Willard Erickson.

Mrs. Arthur Moe told the Times that the Ramstad children had been with Miss Tigges on a day's outing and were returning to the Moe farm when the accident happened. Miss Tigges has been employed by Marshall county welfare department since Aug. 1, 1963.

Funeral services for Jerome Ramstrad were held today at 10:30 a.m. from Our Savior's Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. Marius Hankenstad officiating. Green Funeral home of this city was in charge of arrangements.

Mary Kay Lorbiecki

Greenbush Girl Is Queen Candidate

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(Editor's Note: This is the sixth in a series of interview features with candidates for the Miss Aquacade contest to be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. The Miss America Preliminary pageant will be one of the features of the 11th annual Jaycee Aquacade.)

Music and drama have been the main interests for Mary Katherine Lorbiecki during her high school days, and she has been active in both interests. She has been in a number of plays, sings and plays the flute and piccolo.

Mary Kay, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lorbiecki of Greenbush and a 1965 graduate. She is five feet, four and one-half inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has red-brown hair, green eyes and a 34-23-36 figure. She will be sponsored by Ace Hardware of Greenbush and her talent number will be a vocal solo entitled "Fine and Dandy".

Attesting to her ability in both speech and music, Mary Kay was a member of the Greenbush high school debate team which competed in the state contest and she has been first-chair flutist in the school band for six years. Several times she has competed in the high school state area music festival in Thief River Falls.

She was also a member of the school chorus, co-editor of the school paper, on the debate team for five years and a cheerleader for three years. This year she graduated as an honor student in her class.

In addition to debate work, she has been in four one-act plays, two class plays and several skits and pantomimes.

Youngest in a family of six children, Mary Kay has two brothers and three married sisters. They include Joan Lorbiecki McCarthy; Lawrence J. Lorbiecki, D.D.S.; R. J. Lorbiecki, D.D.S.; Beradine Lorbiecki Bausch; and Barbara Lorbiecki Horak.

When Mary Kay can find the time in her busy schedule, she enjoys reading—particularly Russian novels. She plans to attend the college of St. Catherine this fall

GREENBUSH will be represented in the Miss America Preliminary pageant in Thief River Falls Saturday night by Miss Mary Kay Lorbiecki, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lorbiecki. Mary Kay's main interests in high school were drama and music, and her participation was strong in both fields. Her talent number at the Saturday pageant in the Lincoln high school gymnasium will be a vocal solo, "Fine and Dandy".

Area Girl Scouts At Encampment In South Dakota

Descendants of the last warriors of the great plains, the Sioux Indians, will host an encampment of 60 Girl Scouts at Rosebud, S.D., July 25-31. Area girls attending the encampment are: Nancy Flynn and Barbara Bacon, Thief River Falls; Linda Berglund, Darlene Kohl and Virginia Wheeler, Fosston; and Mary Stanghelle, Warren.

Selected as outstanding Senior Girl Scouts, these girls have received extensive training in outdoor living and human relations during the past year while meeting with the area scouts planning to attend roundup. Living and working as a patrol, each girl is an alternate candidate for roundup, trained to replace a roundup camper if one of the campers is unable to attend at the last moment.

The town of Rosebud, population of 500, is where the Brule Sioux agency is located. It rests on hills leading into Crazy Horse canyon and Ghost Hawk park. The area is becoming a prime tourist retreat.

On the encampment site, the girls will see wild game such as deer, elk and buffalo. They will be able to visit Indian villages, hold discussion with "Crow Dog", a native Indian lore consultant and observe the "Spotted Tail Youth Group", Indian dancers. The girls will have the opportunity to take nature hikes, swim in the spring-fed natural pool, take a trip to a South Dakota cattle ranch and cover riding trails on horseback.

The girls will exchange pollatches (small, handmade souvenir gifts) during a ceremony with the other Girl Scouts from this region. The encampment will be divided into two troops with girls living and working in patrol units with three patrols in a troop. They will sleep in two-man tents, cook over charcoal stoves and build or lash their own tables for eating facilities. Melas will include steak, barbecued chicken and rainbow trout amandine.

John Hogquist, 75 Retired Grain Inspector, Dies

Funeral services for John Hogquist, 75, a retired grain inspector who died Wednesday morning, were held Saturday at 2 p.m. in Sinding's Funeral chapel. The Rev. Lawrence Winter officiated and interment was made at St. Pauli cemetery.

John Hogquist, the son of the late Hans and Sara Hogquist, was born Dec. 27, 1889 in Clay county. In 1891 he moved with his parents to Red Lake County where he attended school. Since 1925 he had been a resident of Thief River Falls. From 1935, until his retirement in 1945, due to ill health, he was employed as grain inspector. Prior to that time he worked as a farm and general laborer. For the past few years, he had been a resident of the Valley home.

Mr. Hogquist never married.

He is survived by a cousin, Mrs. Clarence Bang of Hawley.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

July 9, 1965

Pursuant to advertisement and notice of Special Hearing on matter of Dissolution of Non-Operating School Districts in Pennington County the Board met in Special Session in the Meeting Room in the Courthouse at 1:30 P.M., July 9, 1965.

Members present: Hanson, Anderson, Lindberg and Tasa. Members absent: Olson.

Meeting called to order by Chairman Lindberg. Notice of meeting read and persons present advised that schools would be called in order by number of the District.

Chairman called for consideration of District 1514. A copy of a petition that had been circulated but not presented in time to accomodate the Law requiring the action before the 1st day of July was read expressing the desire of the District to be attached to District 627 of Oklee.

Chairman then called for consideration of District 1545. The District was represented by Commissioner Tasa and made reference to Petition that had been filed but not soon enough to allow the Board to act before July 1st. The Petition called for attachment to Common School District No. 1553 an operating neighbor district.

The Chairman then called for consideration of District No. 1549. School Administrator Dr. Brown and Auditor Rodekuhr advised the Board of the results of an election held in the District and the advise to them by the District 1549 Board that the election called for attachment to Goodridge District 561 by a very narrow margin.

The Chairman then called for consideration of District 1550. The District had previously voted to go to Oklee No. 627 but had turned down the assumption of debt. The persons present were advised that the Law now applicable did not require a vote and that the assumption of debt was automatic. Several persons present indicated that the District still wished to be attached to the Oklee 627 District, but a problem existed in the Northeast corner of the District where children were presently attending the Thief River Falls School and wished to continue. The McMahon family was to be contacted and asked to appear at the July 12th Board meeting to clarify the matter.

The Chairman then called for consideration of District No. 1556. The Clerk of the District was present and indicated the majority wished to go to Goodridge District No. 561. A small area south of the Red Lake river in sections 10 and 11 desired to go to Oklee.

The Chairman then called for consideration of District No. 1557. No one appeared in behalf of the District but School Administrator Dr. Brown indicated that his visits in the District revealed the desire to go to Oklee. After discussion the thought was expressed that the District should be split on the river and that south of the river should be attached to the Oklee school and that to the north to go to the Goodridge District.

Having completed the matters to come before the Board the meeting was adjourned with the advice to those present that formal action on the matters presented would be undertaken at the regular meeting of the Board to be held July 12, 1965, upon motion by Hanson seconded by Tasa and declared carried.

Merle A. Lindberg, Chairman
Pennington County Board.

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio, Clerk of the Board.

Polaris Company At Roseau Plans Manitoba Plant

Stockholders of Polaris Industries of Roseau learned at a July 19 meeting that a branch plant, Polaris Industries of Canada, Limited, is virtually assured at Beausejour, Man. Only wrap-up assurance on the part of Beausejour businessmen remains before the plant will be an accomplished fact, Polaris President Allen Hetteen told the annual meeting gathering.

All of the stock of the new company will be owned by Polaris Industires of Roseau. Adequate financing has been assured from Canadian sources with the Beausejour businessmen raising $50,000 to loan to Polaris on a five-year basis. A building with 8,600 feet of floor space has been made available to Polaris and there is assurance of adequate manpower.

The Canadian plant is expected to provide more work for the Hetteen said.

The Canadian plant is expected to provide more work for the Roseau plant in that lowered costs of Sno-Travelers in Canada is expected to create a bigger market. Subassembly will be done in Roseau and the finishing work for the Canadian Travelers will be done at Beausejour.

"We anticipate 1,200 units there this year," Hetteen said, indicating that a large number of firm orders have already been received. Polaris plans occupancy of the new plant on August 1 and hopes to start assembly of units started in Roseau by the end of August.

Cites Need for Weed Control on Diverted Acres

Because of the serious weed condition in Minnesota this year Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington County ASC committee, reminds farm operators participating in the 1965 feed grain and wheat programs of penalties involved for inadequate weed control on diverted acres.

Specifically, the lack of adequate weed control on diverted acres will result in a reduction in the diversion payment, and may result in the loss of all program payments for 1965.

For further information, please contact the county ASCS office. The Pennington county ASCS office is located in the courthouse in Thief River Falls.

Public Display Set July 28 by National Guard

Preparations are now being made by the Thief River Falls national guard unit for the display which will be presented as a Jaycee Aquacade event Wednesday, July 28, at 7:30 p. m. in Riverside park near the local armory. A program similar to last year, with a considerable amount of blank ammunition and explosives to be used, will be presented.

Capt. Richard Edlund, commander of the local unit, will explain tactics and give commands over the public address system to approximately 30 men simulating a platoon in Defense. Since a considerable amount of loose fill has been hauled into the park this year, it is anticipated that foxholes will be dug to simulate actual battle conditions.

First Lt. Warren Larson will command the aggressor forces which will operate across the river from Riverside park. Weapons to be used include 30 caliber machine guns and the 81 millimeter mortar. Trucks, jeeps and other vehicles which are assigned to the local guard unit will be used in the display.

Weapons and vehicles will be on display following the demonstration, as will other equipment which has been issued to the local unit. The entire program will be presented without charge and the public is encouraged to witness the display and demonstration.

Local Scouts and Scouters To Camp At Philmont Ranch

Lake Agassiz Council, Boy Scouts of America announced today that 23 older Scouts, Explorers, and adult leaders will leave Grand Forks by train on August 11 at 11:17 p. m. for rugged camping experiences at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico. Included will be Tom Jones, Doug Knutson and Keith Craik of Thief River Falls.

The Philmont Ranch, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this year, is the national camping area for the scout movement. It comprises 137,000 acres of rugged western country, on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo Range of the great Rocky Mountain chain.

Quentin Jones of Thief River Falls, who is on the camping and activities committee of the Lake Agassiz council, is leader of the contingent. He is a veteran of 27 years in scouting. Assisting him as leader on the trip is C. M. Knutson of Thief River Falls.

The Philmont Scout Ranch was the gift in 1938 and 1941 of Waite Phillips. The grant included land, a residence, ranch buildings, livestock and operation ranch equipment. To help develop and maintain the Philmont Ranch he also presented to the Boy Scouts as an endowment the Philtower Building, a 23-story modern office building in Tulsa, Okla.

Philmont is rich in wild game. It has deer, elk coyote, antelope, mountain lion, buffalo, wild turkey and bear. Its hills and canyons teem with bird life and streams abound with game fish. There is a wilderness of trees, flowers and grasses, and the timeless record of the rocks is a lesson in geology.

See Decline in Nonfat Dry Milk Growth Rate

Nonfat dry milk industry in this country has grown by leaps and bounds during the past 25 years, but an agricultural economist at the University of Minnesota expects the growth rate to decline considerably in coming years.

During the period from 1935-63, the industry increased production by more than 11 times—the largest growth rate of any major manufacturing milk industry.

Minnesota, which leads all states in dry milk production, produced from 20 to 30 per cent of the national nonfat dry milk output over the 28-year period. The combined production of Minnesota and neighboring Wisconsin, second highest in dry milk production, accounted for about half of the annual national output during the past two decades.

Jerome W. Hammond, research associate in agricultural economics at the University, explains that the rapid growth of the nonfat dry milk industry has been due largely to government programs.

World War II dairy programs were designed to stimulate production of nonfat dry milk for military and lend-lease purposes. Subsidy payments to farmers encouraged whole milk deliveries to dairy plants rather than cream deliveries.

"The past rapid growth of the industry has paralleled the shift from farm-separated cream to whole milk deliveries," Hammond says. "And with the shift now virtually complete, the average annual growth rate of 6.6 per cent can no longer be expected."

The researcher suggests that a growth rate of 1.3 per cent per year might be a more realistic prediction.

Marketing of nonfat dry milk differs markedly from that of other manufactured dairy products, he explains. A larger proportion of total nonfat dry milk production than of any other product is purchased by the government for price support activity.

The annual percentage of government-purchased dry milk from 1954-63 ranged from 40 to 62 per cent, compared with 9-26 per cent for butter and 0-30 per cent for cheese.

Government purchases of nonfat dry milk for price support are disposed of under various other pro-relief and school lunch use. These programs, Hammond says, are a rather permanent part of the demand for nonfat dry milk.

He adds that if nonfat dry milk in excess of commercial sales fails to fulfill these needs, then market purchases for some government programs would very likely be made. For example, congressional bills were recently introduced to allow USDA to purchase products for Food-for-Peace on the basis of need rather than disposal.

The baking industry, traditionally the largest outlet for nonfat dry milk, has decreased in purchases from 60 per cent of the total domestic commercial sales in 1947 to 30 per cent in 1964.

Growth of other commercial markets, such as the meat-processing and confectionary industries and the dairy industry which uses nonfat dry milk in ice cream, cottage cheese and ice cream mix, has been reasonably encouraging in recent years, Hammond explains.

The market for nonfat dry milk packaged for home use, however, has shown both the greatest absolute growth and the greatest relative growth in all commercial sales.

Hammond predicts that packaging for home use will become the leading commercial outlet of nonfat dry milk in the near future. And he adds that new uses and improved modifications of powder for existing uses will no doubt tend to stimulate additional demand.

Fair in Marshall County Attracts Estimated 18,000

Marshall county's most successful free gate fair to date came to a close July 18 after a three-day and night run which saw attendance climb to an estimated 18,000 people while receipts from fair operations soared to an estimated $8,000.

The fair was aided by ideal weather throughout its run, which also contributed to a large increase in exhibits in the various departments when a new record of $4,293 in premiums was paid.

Most successful of the grandstand events was the second annual tractor pulling contest held Saturday afternoon. This event drew some 2,200 people, the largest crowd together at the grandstand since the statehood centennial program was held in 1958. Other events which drew large crowds were the horse show and talent show, Grand Ole Opry and the Browning Family.

Admission receipts from the $4,000 while car parking at 25 cents per car brought in $550. Space rentals for commercial, industrial and local concessions and percentages from the William D. Stanley shows totaled about $3,400, the largest amount ever received from a carnival appearing at the Marshall county fair, William Schaefer, treasurer, reported.

"The firmest line that can be drawn upon the smoothest paper has still jagged edges if seen through a microscope. This does not matter until important deductions are made on the supposition that there are no jagged edges." —Samuel Butler

Did We Order This?

"...How you view Congress, at roughly mid-point in the session, as it speedily enacts President Johnson's domestic program is naturally going to depend on your assessment of his policies.

"But whatever anyone's views, an underlying question is whether last fall's election actually was a popular mandate for all this hectic Capitol Hill activity....

"A persuasive argument can be made that the mandate Mr. Johnson received in November was, if anything, for the status quo as against Goldwater policies that seemed like abrupt departures from it. In any case, the campaign provided scant discussion of the Administration's legislative plans, still less of their formidable costs; the voters were given little basis for judging those plans and costs. Many of them, indeed, professed a general impression that the President as a candidate should be fairly conservative in matters of Federal spending and expansion.

"...it might be earmarked that when certain proposals hang around Congress long enough, the time comes when they are finally passed in part through sheer inertia or boredom. Measures like sweeping aid to education and social-security medicare certainly fall into that category of old and weary legislative ideas.

"...we doubt very much that public opinion is particularly aroused in favor of such bills...we would guess that public opinion in general is more apathetic than anything else about the whole range of the Johnson Administration's domestic policy.

"Not the least cause for concern is that the Government's cost estimates are with the tidal waves to come as the programs continue and grow. So it may sound mildly reassuring to hear the President announce the expectation of a $1 billion reduction in the Federal deficit this fiscal year but it tells practically nothing about the cost of Government now or in the immediate or farther future. The Government has yet to give an honest accounting of even the probable costs of the Great Society.

Back to Conservatism

Some interesting questions are asked in a letter which we recently received from J. F. O'Donnell of St. Michael: He and others are concerned about an injunction granted by the court to Robert Forsythe, former state Republican party chairman, preventing organization of a group of conservatives from using the word "Republican" in the name of a new organization.

"While this matter is still dragging through the courts without any definite decision as to whether this group has the right to use the word 'Republican', several organizations using this word have been active nationally," O'Donnell writes. He notes that these are liberal groups and that it is "painfully obvious" that it is only when conservatives use the word Republican that party leaders object.

"Do they think for a moment that the 27 million people who voted Republican last fall were liberals" he asks. "Isn't one major left-wing party enough? And, if the Republican party isn't a conservative organization, then what is its reason for existing?"

These very pointed questions are deserving of some definite answers. We imagine the leaders of the party would answer all of them on the basis of political success or failure.

For instance, question number one might be answered as follows "No, we do not believe that the 27 million people voting Republican last fall were liberals. However, 27 million people voting as conservatives or simply party faithful were not enough to gain party victory. Therefore—in order to win—we must gear our programs to that which is popular with the voters, offering what they seem to want rather than what the party believes to be best for them." (This is known as compromise and is second only to openly admitting defeat.)

The second question would be answered by saying "The Republican party is not a left-wing party, or even a liberal party. Times have changed and we must adapt our policies to the change. Pure conservatism is passe; what once was considered liberalism is no longer liberal; we must follow the trend."

The third question can scarcely be answered other than by saying, "Our democratic process is dependent upon a two-party system."

In our opinion the last question is the most important, but it is based on the other two. If two parties share the same views on all phases of government policy, there is absolutely no reason for having two parties. The "me, too" policy which the Republican party has been using recently is a sickening one. The only really conservatism the party shows is waiting to see what happens to programs developed by the DFL, then supporting them if they are successful or condemning them if they are not.

Victory is perhaps essential to political life, but standards should not be sacrificed to victory. The Republican party must have a return to conservatism—not because it is popular or because it will mean political success but because it is necessary and it is right. History has shown that liberalism, federalism, socialism, anarchy and tyranny follow close upon one another. Active conservatism is the only deterrent.

County Fair Records Toppled During 1965

Record premium payment, increased entries in nearly all divisions, an estimated 10 per cent increase in attendance, near-perfect weather all four days and a bright financial picture were features of the 64th Annual Pennington county fair concluded Sunday in Thief River Falls. Jon Metusalem, secretary of the sponsoring Pennington County Fair association, Inc., termed the fair ". . . the most successful in many, many recent years."

By far the most successful grandstand program was the Venita Rich talent revue Saturday evening when admission collections totaled 1,146, according to Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer. Tractor pulling contests on Friday night and Saturday afternoon resulted in combined admissions of $1,005, the auto thrill show Thursday evening brought $742.50, horse show Sunday afternoon produced $268 and hypnotist Ed Baron Sunday night produced $214. Total grandstand receipts were $3,375.50.

Premium payment in open class competition totaled $2,631.05 and in 4-H competition totaled $2,008 for a record premium disbursement of $4,639.05, Hallstrom said. Figures for income from auto parking on the grounds and the local organization's percentage from carnival operations were not yet available, but auto parking was estimated at 10 per cent above a year ago.

Open class premium disbursements were divided as follows: Cattle, $1,031; sheep, $222; swine, $781; agriculture, $138.50; culinary, $158.05; handiwork, $123.30; flowers, $102.70; art, $34.50; and senior citizens, $40.10.

For the first time in many years the fair was able to operate all four days without rain dampening a single grandstand performance. Total attendance was estimated at 16,500 by the fair secretary. So large was the Saturday night crowd that auto parking was extended to the area north of the entrance gates and east of the midway—the first time this area has been used for parking in the memory of fair officials.

Torgerson Oil Co. Is Sold Last Week

Erling A. Torgerson, president of the Torgerson Oil company of this city, announced this week that the corporation's service station and bulk plant have been sold to the Anderson Bros. of Karlstad where they now operate a Phillips 66 station. Associated with Torgerson in the corporation are George Mackenroth and Duane Liden.

The Karlstad company is made up of four brothers, two of whom will move to Thief River Falls to take over the local operation. They are Adolph and Francis Anderson and their brothers who will remain in Karlstad are Roy and Elmer.

The Torgerson Oil company came into being here in 1937 when Erling Torgerson acquired the business operated by William Korstad. Prior to that time Torgerson had been engaged in business in Oklee. Under Torgerson's management the business expanded steadily and he organized as a corporation in 1961, taking into partnership with him George Mackenroth as secretary and the manager and Duane Liden as vice president.

Transfer of the property will be effective as of July 31, 1965. Erling Torgerson and George Mackenroth have not announced their plans for the future but Duane Liden probably will continue his service with the new company.

Involved in the transfer are the service station property on Third St. at Horace Ave. and the bulk station located on trunk highway 59 southeast of the city, along with station equipment.

Peace Corps Test Offered Saturday

Peace Corp placement test will be given at the Thief River Falls post office at 9 a.m. Saturday, August 14. The test, which is not passed or failed and for which preparation cannot be made, measures general aptitude and ability to learn a language. It is used by the Peace Corps as a tool in the matching of volunters and jobs.

A Peace Corps application must be filled out and brought to the exam unless previously submitted. Applicants should plan on about one and a half hours at the testing center unless they wish to take the Spanish or French language achievement test which requires an additional hour.

Dinner guests at the Pete Sorter home Sunday were Mrs. Walter Peterson and Margaret of Minneapolis.

18 School Patrol Members from TRF At Legionville

School may be out for the summer but for 18 Thief River Falls school patrol members it's back to the classroom starting August 1, for a week of intensive training in the proper method of controlling traffic at school crossings and servicing school buses. Training sessions are held at Legionville, the American Legion's nationally known school patrol safety training center located on North Long Lake near Brainerd.

For the school patrol members attending, their week-long session will not be all classroom instruction. Afternoons and evenings are devoted to recreation with supervised sports activities, swimming and water safety programs, handcrafts, conservation, etc. Americanism and good citizenship are emphasized during the week. Flag raising and retreat ceremonies are held daily and table grace is said at all meals.

School patrol members attending the August 1-7 session sponsored by Ecklund-Holmstrom Post 117 and its auxiliary are:

Gregory Donarski, Jonathan Folkedahl, Michael Johnson, Thomas Jorgenson, Jeffrey Larson, Neil Nelson, Dale Schantzen, Lee Sorenson, Robert Swenson, Debra Boyer, Kathryn Hillyer, Rebecca Lee, Evelyn Nelson, Linda M. Olson, Shirley Senverson, Rebecca Sisler, and Shelley Worner. Also attending will be Brad Adolphson, sponsored by the Minnesota police and Peace Officers association school patrol scholarship program.

This year the Thief River Falls Police department was awarded one of the 40 scholarships given yearly by the association enabling the local school patrol to send another of its deserving members to the Legionville Training camp.

Upon completion of the training session each patrolman will receive a certificate of graduation.

Minnesota Laws Available Here

Copies of the 1965 Minnesota Legislative session laws have been circulated to newspapers throughout the state and a limited number is available for distribution at the Times office. The session laws are provided free to interested persons and contain the complete context of legislation enacted during the past legislative session.

Anti-Poverty Plan Set by City Council

Thief River Falls officially enlisted in President Johnson's War on Poverty Tuesday night when the city council, at an adjourned meeting, voted to participate in the Neighborhood Youth Corps program. The program is designed to employ potential school dropouts from poverty-stricken families in projects within city organizations.

Mayor Orin J. Green, chairman of the local Neighborhood Youth Corps group, explained the program to the council, stating that potential school dropouts between the ages of 16 and 21 whose family income in less than $3,000 per year would be guaranteed a wage of $1.25 per hour, of which the employing organization would pay 10 per cent, the balance coming from federal tax money.

Organizations employing youth may include the city of Thief River Falls, city schools, Northwestern hospital, local rest homes, the Thief River golf club and others. Youth employed under the program would work a maxium of 32 hours per week during the summer and 15 hours per week during the school year. Tasks performed will generally be unskilled in nature. City Clerk William E. Fahey empasized that no one who is presently employed will be replaced by Youth corps workers.

Mayor Green asked that the city be named as the sponsoring agent for the project. Such a motion was made by Alderman Robert Carlson and was passed unanimously. Fahey will apply for the necessary funds, and employment will begin if and when the funds are granted.

The local Neighborhood Youth Corps organization is composed of five members, each representing an organization involved. They include Mayor Green, city of Thief River Falls; Marshall Hankerson, city schools and four-county governing board; C. W. Rodekuhr, Pennington county; Ronald Moders, county welfare board; and Merle Lindberg, four county governing board. Selection of youth to participate in the program will be made within the school, which will also render counseling service to them.

Also discussed at the meting was construction of the new city library. Question arose as to whether steel or hardwood construction of supporting beams would provide the greater fire safety. Richard Mabey, secretary of the Carnegie public library board, favored wood construction, stating that wood may char but would not weaken under intense heat as much as steel.

Mabey was instructed to write a letter of inquiry to the Hammel, Green and Abrahamson architectural firm of St. Paul as to whether or not wood beams could be made to conform with section 4.204 of the municipal code, which specifies fireproof construction for public buildings.

Richard Contos, president of the Thief River Falls, Jaycees, requested the council's permission to conduct a rabies vaccination clinic for pets on two evenings during the week of August 26. The vaccine would be adinistered free of charge by licensed veterinarians. Alderman Carlson made a motion to grant permission and to commend the Jaycees on their undertaking, and council permission was granted.

70th Anniversary Scheduled Aug. 8

St. Paul Lutheran church located one mile north of Hazel will observe its 70th anniversary Sunday, August 8, with a morning service at 11 a.m., and a noon dinner followed by a social hour and program in the afternoon.

Guest speaker will be Olaf Torstveit, former area resident who is now a school instructor in Moorhead. Everyone is welcome to attend the event, according to Rev. Lawrence Winter, host pastor.

4-H'ers in Pennington County may soon be having a part in space research. They have ben asked to contribute to the nation's files. Three counties in Minnesota will be taking part.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard space flight center in Greenbelt, Md., has a real ned for fireflies. NASA scientists at Goddard use certain chemicals in the firefly's tail lamp for the development of a life detection instrument to be used for research in the earth's upper atmosphere. These chemicals cannot be made by synthetic means and the commercial supply of the insects is limited.

When faced with this shortage, the Goddard space flight center initiated a firefly collection program through the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The program in Minnesota is being conducted in cooperation with the University of Minnesota agricultural extension service, St. Paul, and the 4-H clubs in three Minnesota counties.

Pennington county has a good population of fireflies in roadside ditches, according to Paul Stelmaschuk, county agent.

Fireflies inhabit grassy wet areas and are most active during warm and moist seasons. 4-H'ers picking up fireflies must freeze them in a dep freeze or freezer part of their refrigerator. Don't kill them first and never unthaw the fireflies. Freeze newly-collected fireflies in a separate jar, about the size of baby food containers, and a day later pour the frozen fireflies together.

Appropriately called "Firefly", the life detection instrument under development at the Goddard space flight center will be used aboard ballons, sounding rockets and possibly orbiting spacecraft to help determine just how far out from the earth life exists.

Aside from contributing to man's knowledge of the terrestrial biosphere (the area around the earth which contains life), the data collected with this instrument has a They will help in the determination of how best to protect planetary-bound spacecraft from contamination by earthly organisms as these spacecraft pass through the terrestrial biosphere.

Diverted Acres Not To Be Grazed

Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office has notified growers that all producers in the county who have signed up in the 1965 feed grain and-or the 1965 wheat programs that the acreage diverted under the above-captioned programs cannot be used for grazing until after Oct. 1, 1965. Harvesting the acreage for hay is not permissible during the entire calendar year of 1965.

Diverted acreages are going to be inspected in the immediate future and in the event that hay has been harvested from the acreage the farm will be considered as out of compliance with the program regulations. Also, if livestock are grazing the area, the farm will also be considered in violation. Producers will not receive any program payments if either of the above conditions is discovered on their farms.

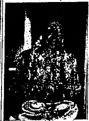
Carrie Struble Honored On Her 90th Birthday



Mrs. Carrie Struble was honored on her 90th birthday on Thursday, July 15, at the Loyal Johnson home at Middle River at an open house which carried over into the week end as relatives and friends continued to arrive to offer their felicitations.

The surprise event had been arranged by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Johnson and family of Middle River; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Struble and family of Jamestown, N. D. and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leftwich and family of Washington, D.C. All were present for the occasion with the exception of Wm. Leftwich and sons, Billy and Jack.

Friends and relatives, from near and far, began arriving at 2 p.m. to enjoy a social hour, birthday cake and other refreshments. Centering the serving table was a large birthday cake, topped with a large 90. Mrs. Bernice Leftwich, cut and served the cake while Miss Charlotte Struble and Mrs. Mary Sandberg, poured. A granddaughter, Miss Susan Leftwich, served the punch.

As Mrs. Struble circulated among her guests, she was wearing an orchid lei, which had been flown from Hawaii as a gift from friends of the Leftwichs in the East.

Mrs. Struble has made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Johnson since 1941. Prior to that she had kept house for her son, Howard, near Jamestown, N. D. from the time of her husband's death in 1939 until her son was married in 1941.

She was born in southern Wisconsin June 15, 1875. While living in Chicago in 1897 she was called to La Moure county in North Dakota by her brother and ailing wife to help care for their four small children, ranging in age from 6 weeks to 8 years. While living there she met and later married Charles Struble on April 10, 1900. The four Struble children, Lois, Howard, Keith and Bernice, were all born in La Moure county. A cerebral hemorrhage caused Keith's death at the age of 19.

The Struble family lived for a while near Anoka and later moved to the Mavie area where they farmed from 1917 until 1926. Living near the school house, Mrs. Struble had the honor of boarding the school teachers. Three of these teachers, Mrs. Clifford Roller, the former Lillian Hinicki and Mrs. Al Arneberg, the former Rose Oski, both of St. Paul and Mrs. S. G. Tharaldson, Holt, the former Clara Larson, were present with their husbands for her birthday observance.

Va. Newspaper Article Features Lincoln Graduate

In a recent article from the Virginian-Pilot and the Portsmouth Star, a former Thief River Falls woman, Leola Dyrud, and her husband, Lt. Phillip Furman, were the subject of a feature article entitled Lt. and Mrs. Phillip Furman "Togetherness Is a Diploma", written by Shirley Winters, a staff writer.

She writes, "It has been a long-distance marriage for the past year for Mrs. Phillip J. Furman and her doctor-husband, Lt. Furman of the U. S. Naval Hospital.

"Graduation from the University of Chicago and a firm grip on a newly earned masters degree means the blonde from Minnesota now can settle down to a more domestic routine. Not that it will be all dusting and dishes from now on. Almost as soon as she returned to Portsmouth, Va., in June, Mrs. Furman went to work as counselor for the Norfolk Child Family Service.

"It was the realization of a long-time ambition. I have wanted to become a social service worker ever since I realized there were social problems," Mrs. Furman said explaining the drive that inspired her to continue towards her goal.

"Actually, we thought we had things pretty well worked out. The Navy had indicated that my husband would be stationed at Great Lakes Naval Hospital after he was drafted. I had one year of graduate work behind me, and I planned to get the other year at the University of Chicago after our marriage in 1963. But no sooner had we married that his orders were received for the Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, Va.," Mrs. Furman said.

The Furmans met in 1961 when Leola Dyrud worked in an adoption service at a Minnesota hospital and her husband-to-be was a summer medical student at that hospital. After their marriage and assignment to Portsmouth, Mrs. Furman remained there for the first few months. She returned to the University of Chicago in the fall of 1964.

"If Phillip hadn't been so understanding and so eager for me to get my degree I probably wouldn't have been able to continue. He either called or wrote me every day," she recalled.

Indications are that Leola Furman will be an ideal Navy wife. She is eager to become acquainted with her new surroundings and to visit historical spots while they are stationed at Portsmouth."

Mrs. Furman is a 1957 graduate of Lincoln high school and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dyrud of rural Thief River Falls.

For heir life detection instrument, the Goddard scientists borrowed the same chemistry which the firefly insect uses to light his tail lantern. Simply stated, the firefly produces his glow by converting chemical energy into light. He does this by combining adenosine triphosphate (better known as ATP) with some of the chemicals in his tail lantern.

Since ATP is essential to all life as it is known on earth, where there is ATP there is most likely earth-like life.

Goddard's "Firefly" instrument contains a mixture of all of the contents of the insect's glow system with the exception of ATP. Thus, when the instrument encounters a live microorganism in the upper atmosphere, the ATP contained therein will complete the circuit and a glow will be produced.

In the flight version of the instrument, the light will be sensed and amplified by a sensitive photoelectronic system. It will then be radioed back to earth as an electronic signal to indicate the presence and amount of life.

The top 4-H'ers turning in the most fireflies to the extension office will receive medals and the top club will get a certificate from NASA.

The firefly season is expected to be over by August 15 to 30. 4-H'ers then report to the county office that they have a collection of frozen fireflies and arrangements will be made to pick them up.

Vice President

Speaking in behalf of the organization I, Erling Torgerson, wish to extend to our successors our best wishes for their success and express the hope that they may be accorded the same opportunities for service that our patrons have so generously bestowed upon us. They are well qualified to continue the service that we have established and I am hopeful that our patrons will give them reasonable opportunities to prove themselves in our community as they have in their own community where they have a good record of successful operation to their credit.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to my associates in the business, George Mackenroth and Duane Liden for their years of faithful service. Mr. Mackenroth has been an important part of the organization since 1940, with time out for three years of war service. Mr. Liden served in the armed forces before joining us in 1946. Both of them have made important contributions to the success of the operation.

And, finally, my thanks to the customers whose patronage has made the operation successful. Every business has its shortcomings. Dependable service is the objective of all well managed operations, but under the best of management there are times when service has some shortcomings. Our service has not been perfect and I want to express my personal appreciation to the friends and customers who thruout the years have given us their loyal support. Thank you one and all for your consideration over a period of 28 years of service in the community.

Culkins Reviews ACP Role in Conservation

This is the first of a series of 12 articles which will be released from the Pennington County ASCS office for public information. These releases are composed by the office manager, Patrick W. Culkins.

Each release will be confined to one program, and will dwell upon the need, purpose, accomplishments and the goal of that program. It is our hope that the public in general will digest these releases and then determine whether or not farm programs are a necessity, if they benefit the overall economy in the county, and will be instrumental in the progress of the area.

Our first article will deal with the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP). This program came into being in the year of 1936 and was adopted by Congress after they recognized the fact ath our farmers were in reality speedily depleting the productivity of our nation's soil.

Congress fully understood that if this depletion of our top soil continued over a period of years our farm production would decrease to a point that would jeopardize the food supply of our entire nation and in turn would necessitate the importation of food and fiber from other countries. Congress also recognized the fact that if our top soil was permitted to wash or blow away the time was not too distant when our own people would be confronted with a shortage of food and fiber which could not be produced in the United States.

As a result of a deep study by our lawmakers, they adopted the Soil Conservation & Domestic Act in 1936. Under this act the Congress appropriated $500 million which could be used to establish conservation practices on our land to prevent the washing or blowing away of our top soil which produced our nation's food and fiber.

Participation in this program has been great over the entire nation, and as of today our country has approximately one-third of its soil seeded to legumes and grasses, thus helping to prevent the wasting of that soil. In Pennington county about 65 per cent of our farmers cooperate in this program. Our nation's soil belongs to all the people of the nation. The farmer who tills the soil is in reality only the custodian of it. When he leaves this earth he is not going to take it with him, but will leave it for the production of food and fiber for those who come after him.

Therefore it is the thinking of the writer that all of our people should be interested in preserving this soil for future generations, even though it may cost approximately $1.20 per capita in income taxes.

1965 ACP funds allocated to our county have been drastically reduced due to a reduction in the federal appropriation for the nation from $500 million to $250 million. A thought for today, are you in favor of spending $1.20 annually to insure an ample supply of food for your children of tomorrow?

History Society Booth at Fair Well Attended

Pennington County Historical society again presented a well-attended display at the Pennington County fair held last week. The many memberships sold at the fair bear out the increasing interest in our local historical society, stated Joel Rosengren, society president.

"A register of visitors was kept and while not all bothered to sign it is interesting to note the names and addresses, the far and wide geographical listings and the former residents who had many questions to ask, and comments to make," the chairman added. "Some brought additional items for the museum and many had comments on the pictures of the past that were on display, helping to complete the listings as to dates and names of those pictured."

Mrs. Christina Lund demonstrated use of her spinning wheel again, and this year had procured linen from Sweden to spin linen thread. Saturday featured "Pioneer Day" and the several ladies attending the booth were dressed in old-time clothing. Henry Clausen presented remarks on the early day life and living of the settlers, relating their many problems. The Furuseth family provided music. Free coffee and cookies were served to visitors 65 years of age and older on Satuuday. Sheldon Buck of Thief River Falls sang.

President Rosengren and his fellow officers of the society extend their thanks to all the individuals and the many organizations which helped make the fair display such a success. "It is hard to enumerate the many favors received, and the many that helped make it a success, especially the fair board for the favorable arrangements of and old on Saturday. Sheldon Buck of Thief River Falls sang.

The society featured a guessing contest on a jar of peas, the actual count being 14,707½. Norman Anderson of Goodridge was first with a guest of 14,700 and won a three-year membership. Mrs. Oscar Anderson, Thief River Falls, was second with 14,000, winning a two-year membership. Alton Skallet of rt. 4 was third with count of 15,220 and won the one-year membership.

UND Choral Union To Stage Concert

Paul Knowles, a noted tenor who has performed throughout the United States, will be one of the soloists singing with the University of North Dakota choral union when it presents Mozart's "Glory, Praise and Power" August, Saturday the UND university center.

Knowles is assistant professor of music at the University of Minnesota. Mrs. Lowell (Marjorie) Swenson of Thief River Falls will also be a soloist. Among the 70 members of the chorus is Jim Anderson of Thief River Falls.

SAFETY project for the Star 4-H club has been the attachment of slow-moving vehicle (SMV) signs to farm equipment and tractors operated by families of club members. Shown with the sign for the back of a baler are Marie Parnow, vice president; LaVonne Holen president, and Robert Parnow, treasurer. Silverton 4-H is another Pennington county club emphasizing the SMV signs as a part of its club safety project.

Farm Credit Is Necessary Says Arthur Hansen

Arthur Hansen, state director for the Farmers Home administration said today that farm family agriculture in America could be swiftly and irrevocable harmed by lack of adequate credit.

Credit is the indispensable key to the future success of farm families, Hansen told county leaders of the Farmers Home administration meeting in Detroit Lakes on July 27-28. Hansen pointed out that only with adequate available credit can marginal farmers escape extinction. Credit is also needed to help young farmers get a foothold on the land.

Tens of thousands of farms come on the market every year as older farmers retire, Hansen said, and unless liberal farm ownership credit is made available to the developed farms, too many of these farms will fall into the hands of speculators and corporations.

Today's agriculture, Hansen said, is a highly-mechanized, high-cost, highly competitive operation and even a modest family size farm requires increasing amounts of operating credit.

"The small rural lender, the local banker is not in a position to supply all the credit needs of farmers even if he wanted to," Hansen said. "That's why the Farmers Home administration serves an indispensable service to farm family agriculture and I think we have done a tremendous job for farm families over the years."

Because of the unbroken success of the Farmers Home administration in helping farm family agriculture over the past 30 years, Hansen said, the agency's credit services have been expanded to help serve all non-farm people in rural areas.

The rural housing program and the community water systems loan program are prime examples, Hansen said, of the services now available to rural people and rural communities from the Farmers Home administration.

This administration, Hanson said, is fully committed to the strengthening of farm family agriculture and the revitalization for rural America. Farmers Home administration has been charged with a major responsibility in achieving this objective.

Quraterly Excise Tax Returns Are Due on August 2

Deadline for business taxpayers, required to file quarterly federal excise tax returns for a period ending June 30, 1965, is August 2, according to George O. Lethert, district director of Internal Revenue.

"For many taxpayers, this will be the last return required," Lethart said, "because the excise tax reduction act of 1965 is a comprehensive overhaul of the federal excise tax structure."

The act eliminated immediately the 10 per cent retailers' excise tax on such items as toilet articles, wallets and pocketbooks, jewelry and furs. In addition, manufacturers' excise taxes on many other items are also eliminated or reduced immediately, with later reductions scheduled through January of 1969.

The tax will remain unchanged for three general categories of items: alcohol and tobacco taxes, user taxes and other taxes relating to expenditure programs such as those for highways; and regulatory and similar taxes, according to Lethert.

Birch Appointed To Agriculture Department Post

Commissioner Russel G. Schwandt has appointed Garland E. Birch to the position of field representative for the division of economic practices, Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

Birch will be headquartered in Fergus Falls and serve the dairy industry in the Northwestern Minnesota area. He will be working directly with wholesalers and retailers of selected dairy products and will be primarily concerned with the enforcement of the Minnesota dairy unfair trade practices act as it relates to selected dairy products. This act regulates the selling and distribution of selected dairy products.

SADDLE class reserve championship in the 4-H club horse competition at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls last week was won by Linda Aaseby of the New Solum 4-H club.

The grand champion ram shown above was joined in the winner's circle by the champion ewe which also came from the Hoff Brothers flock. Both were registered animals.

COMPARING entries in the 4-H classes at the Pennington county fair last week were Susan Dagen, 16, left, bread baking champion, and Lynnell Sande, 15, who exhibited the champion dress. Both are members of the City View 4-H club.

The Library Corner

by Virginia Gjernes

Surprise! And congratulations to the population of Pennington county! Your Carnegie Public Library has a new service to offer you... individually...or 'group-ly'!!

The surprise is FILM SERVICE. Anyone living within the county line may take advantage of the service.

Naturally, there are rules and regulations involved (as there always are). They are simple, easy to follow and actually in regard to the proper care of the borrowed film. More information is available at your library...just ask and you will receive answers to all your questsion! Individuals, clubs, organizations, churches, etc., all are eligible...so long as the film is shown within the county!

Now, isn't that a nice surprise? (Program chairmen please read and relax, for now, at least, some of your problems can be solved right at your public library.)

Relaxation is sometimes a problem, too! Everybody knows they want to read...sometimes they're not sure what it is they want! Here, again, your library comes into the picture. You'll always find a book or two or three you want but then you remember you'll be going on vacation. Well, take them along! Simply tell the librarian helping you with your selections you'll be going out of town and possibly will be unable to return them at the regular due-date. That's perfectly all right... for your library offers "vacation specials" too! You'll not be fined for those "over-due" books-providing you remember to tell the librarian you'll be out of town!

Here's a list of only a few you might want to take along..."Rudolf Diesel—Pioneer of the Age of Power" by W. Robert Nitske and Charles Morrow Wilson. You've heard about the Diesel engine... now read about its invention! Read about the man responsible for it.

John Updike is a favorite of many, so his "Assorted Prose" is on almost everybody's list of "to be read soon". You'll enjoy the essays, the autobiographical first-person acounts and the book reviews...in fact, you'll enjoy the whole Updike volume, especially if you're wanting something just a bit different from the usual run of non-fiction.

Please...you must not forget John Gunther's "Procession". There are some 50 profiles of history-making characters of our era included in it.

Clyde Beatty, the famed wild animal trainer, is gone, but his book "Facing the Big Cats" is interesting, entertaining and enlightening...even if you plan on facing nothing more dangerous than a Labrador puppy.

Oh, and for those summer get-togethers with the neighbors, and or the family, take home the new "Games, Anyone?" Robert Thomsen's witty collection is for adults... some sophisticated, all fun, some for solitary and some for parties.

Charles Beardsley has written "Guam-Past and Present" for those curious about the U.S. most distant possession and newest territory. Informative easy-to-read material will prove interesting to all who take it home.

"The Road to the White House", the sloyr of the 1964 election by the staff of "The New York Times" and edited by Harold Faber is interesting for those who think politically.

Fiction-wise, the shelves are full of the newest, the best, the most talked about and the most popular. Fiction readers need never "diet" for the latest are always out in front and the shelves are crowded to the brim.

Others you might want to take home from the non-fiction shelf are "The Great Experiment" by Weaver; "War Against Want" by Senator George S. McGroven; "Rebel Voices" edited by Joyce L. Kornbluh; Guests of the Sheik" by Fernea...this is an invitation to visit a harem! Coming of Age in America" by Friedenberg (Author of The Vanishing Adolescent") is an excellent volume...expecially for all parents!

So...there you are! Your public library is just full of surprises... come in and see for yourself.

If you want to know more about the film service, call, write or come in and ask.

Thursday at 9 p. m. there will be a re-run of the street water fight which has proved popular with Aquacade crowds in two previous years. The Rotary club team, defending champions, will be among teams competing again this year in the water-logged competition. Water fight chairman is James Wilson.

Concluding activities for the week-long Aquacade will be staged on Sunday at Tindolph park beginning at 1:30 p. m. A water sports show will be conducted free for the public and the Thief River Falls Retriever club will present a demonstration on obedience and retrieving abilities of members' dogs. This is an added feature which should be of interest to a number of people.

At dusk a concert will be played by the Thief River Falls Municipal-Legion band under the direction of James Solsten, followed by a free fireworks display. Several thousand people watched the fireworks display last year. All aerial displays will be used again this year and clearly visible from the park area. Sunday events chairman is Ken Corriveau.

Treasure Hunt

Clues were given beginning Sunday for the Aquacade Treasure Hunt with the person solving the riddle and finding the hidden wood capsule winning a $200 Bulova Accutron watch contributed by Falls Jewelry. Clues are given daily at Aquacade events. Should the capsule not be found by Sunday afternoon, additional clues will be given on the public address system at Tindolph Park.

"This is a busy week for the Jaycees as we reach the climax of weeks of planning for the Aquacade," stated Dr. Donald Goodrich, general chairman. "Our free events, such as the parade and fireworks display, are costly to our chapter, and we are relying heavily on booster button sales to meet the expenses incurred in presenting them for the public. Cooperation by the public has been excellent in previous years, and we anticipate a successful event again in 1965."

IN THE VIKING HUDDLE

By Coach
Norm Van Brocklin

I'm not going to tell you how to watch a football game. But if you're a Viking fan and will be in Bemidji's stadium Saturday night for the Purple-White game, I can give you a few tips on what we coaches will be looking for—and you can do the same, if you're interested in spotting who the new Vikings might be.

We look for speed, of course. The first day in camp, we clocked everyone at 50 yards in full gear, and we'll repeat it at least once during the camp period. It's an important asset in just about every sport, except maybe golf, where you see it only among the 19th-holers.

Not everyone's a 9.6 sprinter, of course. And there are times when I think we tend to over-estimate the value of speed, but if a player has it on top of everything else, there's no question that he has an advantage.

Quickness is even more important, not only among backs and ends, but in the line. If you take your eyes off the ball for one series and focus on an offensive lineman, you'll see the importance of delivering the first blow and then staying with it.

Because of the small size of the Bemidji Stadium, you'll get an unusually good opportunity to look for what we call "pop". Or listen for it.

As you know, we like hard-hitting, agressive players on our squad. In fact, give us eleven hitters out there and we'll take on the finesse boys anytime. We've had that kind of player on the Vikings, and any new man hoping to make our team will have to show the same kind of willingness to hit.

Later on, in camp, other factors—such as techniques—come to the fore. But if you want to do some early guessing on the new men, the surest guidelines are speed, quickness, "pop", and desire.

There's one thing you can look for on Saturday night which doesn't mean a thing: that will be the secret plays which the rival coaches, sportswriter Jim Kloubuchar and sportscaster Frank Buetel, are being permitted to send in. I think I can safely guarantee that it will be the first and last time you'll see them all season.

In closing, we should make mention of the ticket situation for the game. I know that many fans drive in on the spur of the moment to Bemidji on Saturday. Tickets ($2.00) will be on sale all day until 6 o'clock at the athletic department of the state college and at various downtown spots. From 6 o'clock on, you can pick them up at the stadium.

Game time is 8:30, following a 45-minute band show and pre-game program.

Charles Nelson New Agent for Marshall County

Charles A. Nelson, Hawley, has been named county agricultural agent in Marshall county beginning August 1. His appointment was approved jointly by the Marshall County extension committe and the University of Minnesota at a court house in Warren last week.

Since July, 1963, Nelson has been a technical salesman for the agricultural chemical division of Shell Oil company, located at New York City and Columbus, Ohio.

He was a horticultural assistant in potato breeding at North Dakota State university from 1961 to 1963 while doing graduate work there, and was an assistant extension agent from 1960-61 at Cavalier, N.D.

Nelson is originally from Clay county where he was reared on a grain and livestock farm. He attended North Dakota State university where he received his B.S. degree in agriculture in 1959 and his M.S. degree in agricultural in 1963.

Prior to his college work he was a 4-H member for eight years and was an F.F.A. member. He was a member of the general livestock judging teams from Clay county at the state fair and at the Red River Valley Winter shows in Crookston.

RLF Area Family Members Arrested For Area Thefts

Tony Delage and two sons, residents of Polk county near Red Lake Falls, were recently arrested by Polk County Sheriff Paul Caouette and charged with theft of property in Red Lake Falls and Crookston. Delage is currently free on $5,000 bail; his two sons are still in jail.

Children playing at the Delage home discovered a box of watches and diamonds and reported the matter to their parents, who called the sheriff. Red Lake Falls Police Chief Henry Thode went to the farm accompanied by Roy Wilcox and John Kuiper, who had been robbed previously. Officers discovered a large amount of loot, including unopened boxes of merchandise.

Two stills were found on the premises, the source, it is believed, of sales of liquor to teenagers. The watches and jewelry were taken from Rock's Jewelry store in Crookston several weeks ago. A television dealer from Perham identified a set stolen from his property.

Sheriff Gerald Huse of Red Lake county will accompany Wilcox and Kuiper to Crookston where they will identify their stolen property.

Farm Safety Week Emphasizes Ways To Cut Accidents

"Safe and Alive in '65" is the theme of National Farm Safety Week, July 25-31. Special emphasis this year is to prevent accidents involving slow-moving vehicles, chemicals, electricity and recreation, says Glenn Prickett, recently retired farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Co-sponsors for the 22nd annual rural safety campaign are the National Safety council and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Silverton and Star 4-H clubs are emphasizing use of reflective emblems for slow moving vehicles.

The Slow Moving Vehicle emblem (SMV) is a 14-inch high triangle with a fluorescent orange center and reflective red border, to be mounted in the rear of farm wagons, tractors, construction machinery and highway maintenance equipment. Vehicles designed to travel 25 miles per hour or less are urged to use the SMV emblem, which can be seen and identified at 500 feet under practically all driving conditions during day and night and at dusk.

Speeds at 30 miles an hour or slower cause one-third of all highway accidents, says Prickett. Nearly half of all daytime accidents are either rear-end collisions or same-direction side swipes. Very slow speeds have the greatest effect on the number of accidents.

During the day, a driver traveling at a speed of 20 miles per hour on main rural highways is about 100 times more likely to become involved in an accident than a driver traveling at a speed of 65 miles per hour.

Research at Ohio State university found that nine out of 10 collisions between motor vehicles and slow-moving vehicles were during daylight hours of good roads free of rain, snow, or ice hazards. The study showed that farm tractors and machinery are involved in 75 per cent of all slow-moving vehicle accidents and that in two-thirds of the accidents the vehicle was hit from the rear.

Include Bureau Name in Writing State Department

Persons writing the conservation department were asked today to include in the address the name of the division or bureau of the department to which their letter should be directed.

In addition, the post office department has requested that the department's zip code number, 55101, be included in the address of all mail sent to the conservation department. The sender should also include his own zip code number in the return address.

The department is organized into five divisions and six bureaus. Names of the divisions are game and fish, lands and minerals, waters, forestry, and state parks.

The bureaus are information, legal, boat and water safety, engineering, business management, and comprehensive planning.

Announce Seasons On Snipe, Rails And Gallinules

Ted Shields, state game and fish director, has announced that Minnesota will have a 50-day season this fall on woodcock, snipe, rails and gallinules beginning September 18 and ending November 6. The number of hunting days and bag limits permitted under federal regulation conforms generally with last year.

Although woodcock and snipe are hunted lightly in Minnesota, with about 8,000 of each species shot annually, Shields said they are very sporty birds. Few rails and gallinules are taken because they live in almost impenetrable swampland and are hard to flush.

Flight patterns of both locally raised and northern woodcock and snipe are greatly influenced by weather. Since these birds probe for food with their long bills in mud and soft ground, they are forced to migrate south when the weather turns cold and the ground freezes. After the first week in November, most of them have left the state.

Population surveys by the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, in cooperation with the states, show that the woodcock, snipe, rail and gallinule populations are about the same as in 1964.

Bag limits will be five daily and 10 in possession for woodcock, eight daily and 16 in possession for snipe and 15 per day in the aggregate, with 30 in possession in the aggregate for rails and gallinules. Shooting hours for all species will be sunrise to sunset.

Marsh Restoration In Red Lake Plan

Long term benefits to the Chippewa Indians are expected from a new Corps of Engineers marsh restoration project at the outlet of lower Red Lake, it was announced today.

The U.S. Army engineer district, St. Paul, expects to award a contract by October 1, on the project which will restore two marshes of 1,200 an 2,100 acres along the Red Lake river just below the lower Red Lake outlet. The project provides for raising marsh water levels through the release of water by gravity from lower Red Lake.

Water control structures will be installed for each of the two new marshes. Three new sections of dikes totalling about 7,000 feet in length will be constructed and six miles of existing dikes along the river channel will be improved.

The marshes were originally drained by the Crops of Engineers as part of a flood control and water supply project completed in 1951. That project involved improving the outlet of lower Red Lake and the enlargement and straightening of the river channel.

All lands involved are within the boundaries of the Red Lake Indian reservation. The crops will finance the new project and the Bureau of Indian Affairs is responsible for liaison and planning with the Red Lake tribal council. The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife is responsible for the initial planning and technical guidance in developing habitat for wildlife on the project.

Redevelopment of this land, which is essentially waste land at present, will primarily enhance the propagation of migratory waterfowl and furbearers. The Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife estimates that 2,000 to 3,000 wild ducks could be produced by the shallow marshes each year and believes the marshes would also furnish excellent habitat for migrating waterfowl.

It is also hoped that wild rice can be established in the shallow marshes. If successful, a substantial crop of wild rice can be harvested by the Red Lake Chippewa Indians each year.

The Red Lake Indian reservation, using Accelerated Public Works funds under the direction of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, has nearly completed another large marsh restoration project on the Clearwater River within the reservation restoring some 7,000 acres of duck-producing marshes.

From this project, the Chippewas expect to benefit by selling waterfowl permits to non-Indians, by guiding these hunters and by receipts from the harvest of furbearers and wild rice.

Information concerning awarding of contracts for the new marsh project will be released by the U. S. Army Engineer District, St. Paul.

Duel of Heavyweights

Saturday afternoon contests were marred slightly by soft spots which developed on the track but which added to the interest of the contest. Weather was perfect for both the Friday night and Saturday pulls.

In the Class D competition for tractors weighing 8,500 to 10,500 pounds, Ralph Nowacki of Argyle pulled through the 200-foot course with his John Deere 4010. This was the same tractor used the night previous in a lighter class but with dual wheels and other weight added to increase tractor weight nearly a ton. Second place went to Merle A. Dagen of Thief River Falls in the pull-off. Dagen drove a Case 930. Dead weight for the final was 9,030 pounds.

For tractors in the 10,500 to 14,500 pound class, dead weight of 12,190 pounds was used for the pull-off between Bert Rivard of Oslo, Mehrkens Farms of Thief River Falls and Bill Rupprecht of Thief River Falls. Rivard gained first place with a pull of 195 feet, 3¾ inches with his Minneapolis Moline G1000 while second place went to Mehrkens Farms with a John Deere 4010. Rupprecht's entry was a John Deere 4020.

Richard Jorde, driving Jorde Brothers John Deere 5010, won the class for tractors weighing 14,500 to 17,500 pounds. He pulled 15,800 pounds of dead weight plus 10 men and added weight men a distance of 196 feet, 6¼ inches. The Rivard tractor, challenging in this weight class, pulled 167 feet, 10 inches.

Two Brothers Are Killed in Crash Near Crookston

Two brothers, Wesley Nelson, 22, and Allen Nelson, 16, were killed early July 18 when the car in which they were riding left Highway 75 after apparently missing a curve two miles south of Crookston. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nelson of Crookston.

Three other persons, including the driver of the car, were hospitalized following the accident, which ocurred at 12:40 a.m. Sunday.

The Nelson family moved to Crookston from Badger this spring. Nelson is the section foreman between Badger and Holt, living in Greenbush during the week and spending weekends in Crookston.

The Nelson brothers were born in Erskine. Wesley had recently been released from military service and Allen was a student at Central high school in Crookston. They are survived by their parents and three brothers, Ordean, Roger and Courtney, all of Crookston. They were preceded in death by two brothers.

Business Activity Up In Reserve District

Business activity in the Ninth Federal Reserve district improved moderately during the first half of 1965 from year-earlier levels, the Federal Reserve bank of Minneapolis reported today. The Ninth district includes all of Minnesota, Montana, North and South Dakota, and northwestern Wisconsin and upper Michigan.

In its monthly review the bank said that nonagricultural employment during April and May totaled about 2.5 per cent above comparative year-earlier figures. Industrial output, as measured by the use of electrical power, registered substantial gains (about seven per cent) over the same period in 1964.

Others showing gains above the year earlier included a longer work week, less unemployment, and an eight per cent cumulative advance in bank debits for the first five months.

The bank also said that district building permit valuations, which averaged about 28 per cent less than the year earlier during the first four months of the year, staged a comback in May and construction activity improved further during the early summer period.

Personal incomes in the district averaged about 4½ per cent higher from the same period in 1964; in the nation the gain was six per cent.

Agricultural income in the district lagged somewhat because of the relatively poor crop out-turn in 1964 and, until recently, lower price trends for farm products. Total district net farm income, for example, in May was substantially less than in May 1964; cumulatively from the first of the year the decline averaged nearly 3½ per cent.

District banks experienced an unusually heavy expansion in outstanding loans during the first five months of 1965. Total loans increased $190 million, about double the normal growth for the period. Most of the above-average loan expansion took place in the early part of the year; beginning in mid-April the rise followed the seasonal pattern.

Summer Good Time To Lose Weight Nutrtionists Say

If bulges under clothes indicate the wearer needs to lose a few pounds, there's no better time than summer. That's the opinion of University of Minnesota extension nutritionists, who suggest that this is the season for weight watchers to include more fresh fruits and vegetables in their diets, since these foods are at their peak of flavor, yet low in calories.

In any weight control program the university nutritionists stress the importance of planning a well-balanced diet around the four food groups milk and dairy foods; meat; vegetables and fruits; breads and cereals. But from these food groups select the foods lowest in calories but high in nutritive value.

Here are some low-carlorie foods the university nutritionists suggest usin from each of the important food groups:

Choose two per cent milk at 125 calories per cup or buttermilk or skim milk at 90 calories per cup rather than whole milk at 165 calories. Avoid a chocolate milk shake or whipped cream desserts which may boost calories as high as 300 to more than 500.

Broil meat and trim off all fat to lower the calorie count. Remember that a hamburger patty made of lean ground round contains 185 calories compared with 245 calories for a patty of regular ground beef.

Eat extra servings of fruits and vegetables, since they provide bulk in the diet—as well as important vitamins and minerals—but few calories. A minimum of four servings of fruits and vegetables daily is recommended for the average person. Half-cup servings of green snap beans, asparagus, cabbage, summer squash provide 13-20 calories as compared with peas and corn at 55-85 calories.

Any of these fruits will give you a count of only 30-50 calories: a half cup of strawberries, raspberries, grapes, blueberries or cherries; a plum; a peach; a half cantaloupe. So if you eat fruit for dessert and use very little sugar (1 teaspoon equals 15 calories) or none at all, you'll be on the way to winning your battle of the bulge.

Select breads and cereals which provide needed nutrients like iron and the B vitamins with the least number of calories—for example, a slice of bread (55-60 calories) rather than a sweet roll (135 calories). Go easy on the butter and jam which may add another 155 calories.

Aquacade Activity

With a membership of approximately 50 young men, the Thief River Falls Jaycees have taken a rather large bite in sponsoring the 11th Annual Jaycee Aquacade which is in progress this week. Events have been held and will be held daily this week, Sunday through Sunday, with the major events yet to be produced.

We would like to join in urging public participation in this annual event, both as an encouragement to the young men in the community and for personal enjoyment. Many of the events are free to the public, including the National Guard display, water fight, parade, Sunday water show events and fireworks display Sunday evening at Tindolph park. Admission will be charged for the teenage dance Friday evening and the Miss Aquacade pageant Saturday evening. An entry fee will be charged competitors in the Jaycee International Trap shoot Sunday but spectators are welcome without charge.

This year's pageant promises to be an excellent attraction. In addition to the eight girls from five communities competing for the Miss Aquacade title, a feature attraction will be the appearance of Barbara Hasselberg, 1964 Miss Minnesota. Her Tahitian dances made a hit with the national television audience watching the Miss America pageant in Atlantic City this year when Barbara was named a finalist in Miss America competition. This writer has seen her perform several times and will vouch for the quality of the performance.

Considerable interest is being evidenced in a new event this year—the first annual Jaycee International Trap shoot. The contest offers three divisions of competition for Jaycees, experienced shooters and novices. Publicity has been given the shoot throughout Minnesota, North Dakota and Manitoba, and should attract a number of shooters with all levels of experience.

A fireworks display Sunday night will climax the event. This program last year was one of the most popular and by far the best attended of any of he Aquacade programs. It is also presented free with proceeds from booster button sales providing the financing. The Aquacade in its entirety is a tribute to the local Jaycee motto of "Leadership Training Through Community Development.".

A Wise Move

Unanimous action by the Thief River Falls board of education Wednesday evening will result in the addition of an administrative assistant to the local school staff. A job description is now being prepared in accordance with the expressed desires of the local school board.

Addition of the administrative assistant should be received by the district as a wise move on the part of the board of education. Increasing implementation of state and federal funds in school programs has resulted in expanded educational opportunities in districts which have made full use of funds and other aids available. It is expected that supervision of these programs would be a primary responsibility of the new administrator.

Another major responsibility of the new office would be handling the purchasing department of the school. An individual able to devote sufficient time to this task could well save the district a considerable amount of money in the buying of books and other school supplies. Last year, for instance, the district expended approximately $100,000 for such supplies—no small amount of funds for which to supervise distribution.

It is also expected that the persons selected for this job will work in the preliminary budget and perhaps supervise the non-certified personnel and accounting department. The board will seek an individual who has a superintendent's certificate and practical experience in the fields of work

Freedom from some of these time-consuming tasks, which require constant watching, and research for maximum benefit to the local district, will permit Supt. M. R. Hankerson to devote more time to practical school administration. Board members feel, and we believe they are right, that the scope of activities which the superintendent has been expected to supervise has outgrown the capabilities of any one man. A division of duties at this point would enable all phases of the school program to be covered more thoroughly and effectively.

A Doubt Is Raised

George Thiss, Republican state chairman, is asking questions about an insurance investigation currently being conducted in Minnesota. Thiss said that Minnesota residents are interested in "...the offer to sell two Minnesota insurance firms, American Allied and United State Mutual, plus the Phalen Park State bank of St. Paul for the incredible sum of one dollar."

There is no doubt that Thiss is attempting to make political hay out of an unfortunate situation in which one of the state's elected officials now finds himself. The official is Alexander M. (Sandy) Keith, lieutenant governor of the state.

Until recently Keith was a vice president and director of United States Mutual. Keith has said he was a stockholder in the company and that he was paid a $500 per month retainer as legal counsel for the firm.

The two insurance companies were termed legitimate and absolutely financially solvent on April 13 by Cyrus E. Magnuson, insurance commissioner. Now, only three months later, they are said to be worth only one dollar with a bank thrown in for good measure. In December of 1964, American Allied was declared solvent by the Minnesota Department of Insurance. Now it is stated that the company has a deficit of more than a million dollars.

Thiss asks these questions: "Where did all this money go in six months time Under the terms of the sale, what percentage of claims against the company are going to be paid? How many of Minnesota's citizens have claims. Why was the phalen Park State bank included in the one dollar sale? As legal counsel and stockholder, did he (Keith) represent the insurance company before state agencies such as the insurance commission? If he did, when and in what capacity?"

One can't blame Thiss for attempting to make political hay. As a newly-elected state chairman, he has inherited a hungry flock to feed.

If Keith would like to clear himself of any implications in the situation, he would do well to defend himself. His reaction to Thiss' questions is that it is nobody's business but his why he resigned as vice president of United States Mutual. This can hardly be regarded as a logical explanation.

As with persons taking the Fifth Amendment when appearing at government security hearings, a lack of defense testimony leaves a heavy suspicion of guilt. We can not say whether or not the lieutenant governor is guilty of any willful wrong doing; perhaps he is not. Until he provides an adequote defense and satisfactorily clears himself by answering the implicating questions asked, the suspicion will remain.

Our legal system is designed to assume a man innocent until proved guilty. Political life circumvents the law, however, and a man assumed guilty by the voters is as much out of luck as a man proved guilty by the courts. We would like to see what type of defense Keith has to offer.

Fact or Fiction?

Once upon a time there were two men who lived on farms across the road from each other. One of these men labored from early to late to plant and tend his crops, care for his livestock, improve his buildings and repair his machinery. His wife took part-time employment in the nearby town to supplement the family income and provide for the education of their children.

The other man preferred to rise at his convenience, spent many of his days in the nearby town playing cards, talking on the street corner or relaxing in an air-conditioned bar. His crops—seeded later than his neighbors—were infested with weeds. He had no livestock, for they were too much work and his buildings were in too poor repair to keep them. His wife joined him in town or went her own way, letting the housework slide and neglecting her children.

By virtue of his effort, enterprise and initiative, the first man harvested a good crop; his livestock and their products brought top prices and his farmstead had a neat orderly appearance. Because of his indolence and carelessness, the second man harvested little crop and his buildings deteriorated.

Then along came a being called Equalizer. He looked upon the second man and said, "Your children are undernourished and underclothed; I will provide you with sustenance for yourself and for them. You are poverty-stricken because you have little income; I will give you more money. Your house is in poor condition; I will build you a new one."

He looked upon the first man and said "You have more income than you require to provide your family with necessities; I will take the remainder from you. Your land and buildings and machinery are of great value; I will exact payment in relation to their value. Your production has created surplusses; next year I shall restrict the acreage you may plant. I shall take much of what you have and give it to your neighbor who is less fortunate than you."

Other neighbors heard what the being called Equalizer had to say, and they reasoned thus: "Why should we labor when the returns of our labor are taken from us? Why should we imvrove our land and buildings, when they will be improved for us? Why should we not do as we please, forsaking our labors, when the being called Equalizer will care for our wants and educate our children? Let us then pursue the course of leisure and pleasure."

Now the country in which this parable took place was called the United States of America and the being called equalizer was the federal government. And the people grew lazy and dependent upon the Equalizer, and he lost his power to sustain them and they disappeard from the face of the earth.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"There are certain queer times and occasions in this strange mixed affair we call life when a man takes this whole universe for a vast practical joke, though the wit thereof he but dimly discerns, and more than suspects that the joke is at nobody's expense but his own." —Herman Melville

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A man telephoned his doctor excitedly. "Quick!" he insisted. "My wife has appendicitis!"

"Now, now," retorted the doctor. "I took your wife's appendix out five years ago. I never heard of anyone having a second appendix."

"Maybe not, Doc," replied the anxious husband. "But ever hear of a man having a second wife?"

Your Minnesota Hostess

Remember when placing a refrigerator with an Eskimo was considered the ultimate in salesmanship? Somebody recently sold one to an authentic Eskimo at Point Barrow, Alaska! The Alaskan likes to keep beer handy, but he can't store it outside where Point Barrow Winter temperatures reach 65 degrees below zero. His new refrigerator keeps his beer just right year around.

Beer Afloat
Now the world's largest passenger liner, The Queen Elizabeth, has the world's largest beer kegs afloat! Recently installed in the ocean liner: nine stainless steel tanks, each with a capacity of 360 gallons of beer, in temperature-controlled rooms. Doesn't that sound cool and refreshing on a warm day like this?

Beer Slaw
The perfect accompaniment to your outdoor barbecue feast:
½ cup beer
1 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. celery seed
2 tsp. minced onions
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. Tabasco
4 cups shredded cabbage
1 shredded green pepper
Gradually stir beer into mayonnaise, blending well. Add onion and seasonings above, then add mayonnaise mixture to cabbage and green pepper. Toss lightly; chill till serving . . . Write "Minnesota Hostess," 333 WCCO Bldg., Minneapolis 55402, for my free recipe book.

IT'S A PLEASURE: THUS FAR THIS SUMMER, I'VE HAD 24 INVITATIONS TO PARTICIPATE IN MINNESOTA FESTIVALS, COUNTY FAIRS AND CIVIC CELEBRATIONS! THIS IS MY 8TH YEAR OF APPEARANCES IN BEHALF OF THE MINNESOTA BREWERS, WHO CONSIDER MY VISIT THEIR GIFT TO YOUR COMMUNITY.

WHY THURSDAY NITE?

Is Thursday evening a good night for shopping? We think it is and so do our customers. A committee spent a great deal of time and study before the majority of the stores decided on changing their store hours from Friday to Thursday nights.

Let's just talk about just one of the reasons. Nine months out of the year the schools in our trade area schedule most of their extra curricular activities on Friday nights. They need your support and attendance. You can not support them and patronize our stores at the same time. We both need your support.

We are aware there has been some criticism because of the change in shopping nights. Those of you that were here remember that there was criticism when the stores started to stay open on Friday night instead of Saturday night. There was criticism when the banks changed from Saturday morning to Friday night openings. Think about this: Changes are GOOD for any community and any GOOD COMMUNITY must be willing to make changes. We think we live and work in a GOOD community and urge your cooperation and support.

Sincerely:
Jackpot Thursday

Barbara Johnson Seeks Queen Title

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

(This is the seventh in a series of interview feature stories on candidates for the Miss Aquacade title at the Miss America Preliminary pageant to be held Saturday in the Lincoln high school gymnasium as part of the 11th annual Jaycee Aquacade.)

Most diminutive of the eight candidates seeking the Miss Aquacade title this weekend is Barbara Marie Johnson. Size didn't make any any difference during her high school career, however, since her list of activities is almost as long as she is tall.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Fosston and a 1965 graduate of Fosston high school. This 18-year-old bundle of energy is five feet two inches tall, weighs 110 pounds, has brown hair, blue eyes and a 34-21-35 figure. Her talent number will be a vocal folk song number with her own ukelele accompaniment.

Among her high school activities, Barbara lists Girls Athletic association, French club, business manager of the annual staff, cheerleader, band member and membership in the National Honor society. She was an American Legion auxiliary selection to attend Girls' State when she was a Junior and also served as a "big sister" to the American Field service exchange student.

In addition to the sports for which she led cheers at her alma mater, Barbara personally enjoys golfing, bowling and tennis. This fall she plans to attend Moorhead State college and to major in psychology.

Barbara has that look of honest innocense that makes it appear she would feel at home going fishing with a game warden. This may be natural, too, for her father is a warden for the Minnesota Department of Conservation.

A member of a folk-singing group in her home town, Barbara has sung at Parent-Teacher association meetings, Rotary club meetings and other sessions in the area. She has a 13-year-old sister.

BARBARA Johnson, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson of Fosston, will be the most diminutive of eight candidates competing for the Miss Aquacade title Saturday night. A petite five feet, two inches in height, Barbara is competing for several valuable prizes in the contest. Her hobbies include golf, tennis and bowling and her talent number will be a vocal folk number with ukelele accompaniment.

State Fair Entry Deadlines Listed

Closing dates for entries in the Minnesota state fair's 17 competitive departments were announced this week by Fred S. Lammers, president of the state agricultural society. The fair will be held from Saturday, August 28, through Labor Day, September 6.

Separate premium books for many departments have replaced the "general" premium list of previous years. Therefore, persons desiring to enter livestock or products of their fields and orchards, kitchens, sewing rooms, workshops or studios are requested to specify their area of interest when requesting a premium list. The booklets are available from Minnesota State Fair, St. Paul 55108, or by calling 645-2781.

The livestock premium booklet includes cattle, swine, sheep, poultry, rabbits and mink classes. Other booklets are available for Future Farmers of America, 4-H Club, home activities, fine arts, horse show, education, space rentals and agriculture - horticulture-bee culture.

Closing dates remaining are August 5 for poultry; August 9 for dairy and beef cattle; August 11, sheep and swine; August 16, agriculture and horticulture; August 17, fine arts; August 18, bee culture; August 21, home activities.

Record premiums totaling $284,341.35 are offered this year, approximately $12,000 more than the previous peak offering of 1965.

Otter Tail Power Has Success With Area Line Crews

Decision by Otter Tail Power company's management to establish three-man area line crews has been a successful one, according to word received from Russell Becken, superintendent of transmission and distribution for the company.

Approximately one year has passed since Otter Tail began a long-range program of de-centralizing most of its large electrical construction crews by establishing area line crews at strategic locations throughout its service area. During that time, 10 of these units have been set up, and their operating efficiencies have met all expectations, Becken said.

The company will continue this de-centralizing program and it is expected that an additional 25 area crews will be established over a period of the next four years. When the program is completed, it is estimated that the company will have approximately 35 of the three-man work units in operation.

As each unit is established, it is furnished with a new heavy-duty line truck, equipped with hydraulically-operated boom, winch, digger and aerial basket combination. This highly mobile and versatile equipment assures good electrical service on a day-to-day basis and provides maximum protection against prolonged power outages. All men on the crews are well-qualified linemen.

In the event of storms or other emergencies, several area line crews can be speedily dispatched by means of the company's two-way radio system, bringing many men and equipment to any trouble scene.

Warroad Girl Is Critically Hurt In Train Crash

Joanne Cass, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cass of rural Warroad, was rushed to a Winnipeg hospital in critical condition Monday night after a train had hit her automobile broadside in the driver's door and carried it over 2,000 feet down the track.

The accident happened at 5:47 p.m. four miles north of Warroad at the approach to her parent's farm. Investigating officers reported that the girl was driving a new unfamiliar vehicle. Tire marks indicate that rear wheels were spinning for a distance of 19.5 feet up to the tracks, indicating that she may have accidentally stepped on the accelerator instead of the break.

The coupler on the front of the engine struck the vehicle in the driver's door and carried it 2,447 feet north on the track.

Miss Cass was reportedly suffering from a fractured pelvis, fractured ribs, facial fractures, a fractured skull, severe scalp lacerations and multiple cuts and bruises. Her condition was listed as critical.

The exchangees are Fumiko Hasegawa, Japan; Malbhog Boruah, India; Eduardo J. Vasquez G., Venezuela; Francis R. Calvel, France Billy S. H. Chen, Republic of China; and Christian Haueter, Switzerland.

They will arrive in the Twin Cities August 6 and spend the weekend resting, picnicking, attending a Twins ballgame and touring the Twin Cities. Exchangees will be assigned to their host counties during the orientation session August 9 on the University of Minnesota's St. Paul Campus.

They will be living and working with families in 12 counties from August 10 to October 16 to gain a better understanding of family relations, farming and community life in this state, according to Stanley Meinen, assistant state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota.

Corporation Is Begun at Warroad

Officers include Ed Arnold, president; A. "Hank" Henderson, vice president; Marv Braaten, treasurer; and Hal Bakke, secretary. Directors are Bert Flaaten, Bob Trask and Joe Biskup.

Debenture stock will be sold at five per cent interest to raise local money, and $10 memberships will be sold. Anyone interested is asked to contact one of the officers or directors.

It is expected that one of the first efforts of the corporation will be to raise money for construction of a building to house Christian Bros., Inc., manufacturers of hockey sticks.

PACKING the course surface during the first tractor pulling contest at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls Saturday afternoon was this weighted skid drawn by the Steiger tractor manufactured southwest of St. Hilaire. Several soft spots developed in the track as the contest was being held Saturday, making it necessary to pack the track to give all contestants a nearly equal chance in the competition. Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee, the contest Friday night and Saturday afternoon drew more than 1,000 paid spectators and created considerable interest.

IMPISH impunity was added to the tractor pulling contest Friday and Saturday at the Pennington county fair by this pair of bungling buffoons. Driving their power equipment—including a garden tractor, antique Allis-Chalmers with elongated exhaust pipe, and a Bog Buggy manufactured by Carl Eig of Goodridge—Evonne Olson and Leonard Furuseth entertained during any possible lulls in the programs.

Farm Chemicals Are Safety Week Subject

While the record of deaths caused by agricultural chemicals is actually "quite good," a University of Minnesota extension entomologist stressed recently that more must be done to emphasize the need for pesticide safety.

Speaking at the 11th Annual Farm Safety Week "kick-off" luncheon Wednesday, John Lofgren said that the number of accidental deaths due to chemical pesticides is about the same as those due to the accidental swallowing of aspirin.

He added that about 65 per cent of these fatalities involve children under 10 years of age, and that most of the poisons are old-type chemicals, ant balls, roach sprays and other chemicals used in and around the home, such as solvents, detergents and polishes.

The luncheon, which marks the official beginning of Farm Safety Week activities in the state, was held in the St. Paul campus student center for representatives of organizations interested in promoting safety and in preventing farm and home accidents.

While the national theme for Farm Safety Week, July 25-31, is "Safe and Alive in '65," emphasis in Minnesota is on safety with agricultural chemicals.

Lofgren told the group that there are three basic assumptions or foundation stones on which to build an effective program for pesticide safety.

The first, he said, is that agricultural chemicals are essential to modern society. In order to provide an adequate supply of high quality food supplies for our population, it is necessary to control weeds and plant pests in the fields.

The second assumption is that there are potential hazards involved in the use of these chemicals. The five areas of potential hazard, according to Lofgren, are to the user, treated crops and animals, area fish and wildlife, consumers and soil and water resources.

The third basic assumption for a pesticide safety program is that these chemical tools which are both necessary and hazardous, can be used safely if we are aware of their potential danger and the correct way to handle them.

Lofgren told the luncheon guests that the safe use of pesticides merely involves preventing the chemical from gaining entry into the body. Among a number of ways this can be done, he said, include wearing rubber gloves when handling chemicals, or wearing a respirator mask when exposed to dangerous fumes or gases.

However, the entomologist sounded a final word of caution on the use of such safeguards. He said that there is always the inherent danger of becoming unnecessarily careless when we think we are protected.

For example, if the filters in a face respirator mask are not cleaned or replaced at the proper time intervals, they can emit fumes which, because they are in almost direct contact with the face, can be even more dangerous than when no mask is worn at all.

Farm Safety Week is sponsored in Minnesota by the agricultural extension service and the farm section of the Minnesota Safety council.

Plumber Exams Given Sept. 13-14 By Health Board

KITTEN UP A TREE

Puffy has a problem. She's much better at climbing trees than she is at getting down again. Usually someone has to get a ladder and bring poor Puffy back to earth.

People share Puffy's problem. Their fears are forever driving them to do what they can't undo. They run away from reality only to wish they hadn't. We have even coined the idiom "up a tree" to denote the dilemma of a situation from which we cannot free ourselves.

With people, it takes more than a ladder to solve the problem.

Through the centuries men have found Faith an answer to fear. Our churches cultivate courageous Christians. For with confidence in God comes confidence in ourselves.

The man who knows he's never alone doesn't run away.

Economic [illegible]urvey Results Reveal City-Rural Data

City families in Minnesota and other North Central states spend less and save more than average city families in the nation as a whole. For current annual living expenses in 1960-61 city families in the North Central states spent an average of $5,269 compared with $5,390 for the U.S. urban population.

Annual incomes of city families in the region rose about 46 per cent after taxes between 1950 and 1960 to an average of $5,934. But families increased their spending for current consumption by only 38 per cent; hence they were able to save more, to allot more for gifts and contributions as well as personal insurance.

Minnesota and other North Central urban families spent an average of $277 for gifts and contributions, put $330 into various types of life insurance and retirement funds, paid $777 in income and other personal taxes and showed savings of $326. The average savings of families in the United States amounted to $177. In addition, to liquid assets, ownership of property (such as houses and durable goods) is considered savings.

These figures, as reported by Mary Ryan, extension consumer marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota, are from a survey conducted jointly by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Labor Statistics to obtain information on incomes and outlays of urban and rural families. Cities of 2,500 and over were classified as urban in the study.

Housing took the largest share of the income of city dwellers in this area—29.6 per cent or $1,558. The category of housing includes shelter, utilities, furnishings and other household operating expenses.

Food and beverage ranked second in the amount spent. About a fourth of the expenditures of the average urban family went for food and beverages—a decline from 30.7 per cent in 1950. For the first time, spending by urban families for home ownership, improvement and maintenance exceeded those for rent.

The relative importance of food and shelter (including utilities) in family spending showed a decline as incomes rose. Food and shelter accounted for three-fifths of the total expenditures of families with incomes below $2,000, and slightly more than a third for those with incomes above $10,000.

Building Permits For TRF In June Totaled $52,250

Nine permits, having a valuation of $52,250, were issued in Thief River Falls during June for new buildings and repairs and alterations. According to the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, this was an increase from $37,832 for seven permits issued in June, 1964.

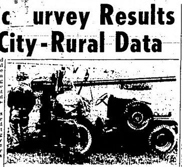
The cumulative total for the first six months of 1965 shows that 30 permits valued at $270,350 were issued compared with 25 permits valued at $131,132 last year.

For Minnesota the June valuation increased from $46,068,171 in 1964 to $54,607,611 in 1965. The cumulative total for the first six months of this year was $242,860,282 compared with $258,149,621 recorded during 1964.

Throughout the Ninth district, the total valuation of building permits issued during June in 296 permit-issuing centers was $77,350,581 for 6,696 permits. In June, 1964, there were 5,544 permits issued with a valuation of $62,222,827. The report also stated that the cumulative total for the year showed a decrease from $332,508,034 for 22,970 permits in 1964 to $326,037,204 for 22,453 permits in 1965.

CORRECTION

An error ocurred in the news story regarding the tractor pulling contest at the Pennington county fair. In Class E for tractors weighing 10,500 to 14,500 pounds, second place was awarded to William Rupprecht of Thief River Falls with a 1964 John Dere 402. The Mehrkens Farms tractor, a John Deere 4010, placed third rather than second as was stated in the story.



ANTI-TANK weapon employed by U.S. infantry units is the 105 mm. recoilless rifle mounted on a Jeep. The usual crew asigned to the weapon is four, but it can be manned by two if necessary. The lack of recoil is attained by using rocket-like projectiles, with the force of the powder charge released at the breech. Therefore, an equal amount of force is released in both directions. Armor-piercing ammo is used against tanks. This weapon was fired with .30 blank cartridges during the Aquacade national guard demonstration Wednesday night.

ASCS Election Is To Be Held Aug. 9

Pennington County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee for next year will be elected by farmer-chosen delegates to a county convention August 9 at 9 p.m. at the meeting room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, according to Winton Knutson, chairman, ASC county comittee.

The convention will be open to the public, and any person interested in observing the voting procedure may attend. However, only farmer-delegates to the convention may participate in the election process. Election is by secret ballot and plurality vote. Delegates to the county convention will be elected in their respective community elections Monday, August 2, 1965.

ASC county and community committeemen are in charge of the local administration of such farm-action programs as the Agricultural Conservation Program, feed grain program, voluntary wheat program, acreage allotments and marketing quotas, national wool program, sugar program, commodity price-support loans and storage facility loans.

Funds disbursed under the Pennington committee's supervision last year amounted to $1,596,034. About 85 per cent of the farmers in the county took part in one or more of the programs administered by the committee. Of the total disbursements, price-support loans on the 1964 crops—directed toward increasing market returns above what farmers would receive on an unsupported market—totaled $779,611; ACP cost-sharing assistance—representing about half the practice cost—was responsible for a total conservation investment of about $64,322 on local farms.

A qualified candidate for service on the ASC county committee, the chairman explained, is one who is a resident eligible to vote in one of the community elections in the county, and who meets other eligibility requirements. Eligibility to vote or hold office as a committeeman is not restricted by reason of race, color, creed or national origin. Other details as to qualifications and candidates are available in the ASCS county office.

Any questions on eligibility to hold office as an ASC county committeeman will be decided by the incumbent county committee subject to appeal to the state committee; the convention would proceed however, on the basis of the county committee decision.

Knutson urged all ASC farmer-delegates to be sure to attend the county convention. These farmers were automatically chosen as convention delegates when they were elected recently by their farmer-neighbors to serve as ASC community committeemen for the coming year. Changes have been made in election details, which make this year's conventions more important than ever, Knutson said.

Mrs. Bella Gunderson and daughter Anna, of Brainerd visited Wednesday afternoon at the Anna M. Erickson home in this city.

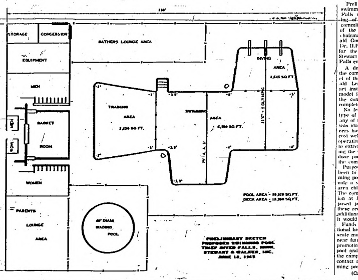
Swimming Pool Plans Revealed



Preliminary plans for a new swimming pool for Thief River Falls were approved at a meeting of the local swimming pool committee held recently. Members of the committee are Roy Lee, chairman, James Winjum, Dr. Donald Goodrich, James Wilson and Dr. H.P. Wendt. Preliminary plans for the pool were prepared by Stewart and Walker, Thief River Falls engineering firm.

A decision was also made by the committee to have a scale model of the pool constructed by Donald Lerud, Lincoln high school art instructor, and to display the model in several public places in the community as soon as it is completed.

No feasible plans for an indoor type of pool has been received by any of the committee members, it was stated at the meeting. Engineers have estimated that it would cost well over $50,000 annually for operation of the indoor pool due to extremely cold temperatures during the winter. Possibility of an indoor pool has been ruled out by the committee.

Purpose of the committee has been to plan to promote a swimming pool of adequate size to provide a safe and healthy place for area children and adults to swim. The committee expressed the opinion at its meeting that the proposed pool would not only meet these requirements, but would add additional days of swimming since it would be heated.

Funds for printing an informational brochure and paying for the scale model will be solicited in the near future. Persons interested in promoting the construction of the pool and in assisting in financing the campaign, have been invited to contact any member of the swimming pool committee.

LATE WALKERS

Q. Our little girl, who is 20 months old, has not yet learned to walk without help. Could this mean that she is mentally retarded?

A. Although gross motor development (sitting, standing, walking) is the easiest skill to assess, it is least reliable in evaluating intelligence. Most normal children walk independently by 12 to 17 months of age but many normal youngsters walk considerably sooner or later. While it is true that many mentally retarded children are late in learning to walk, exceptions are frequent. It would be advisable, of course, to have your youngster examined by a pediatrician.

MENSTRUATION AT LATE AGE

Q. I am 56 and still menstruating. Is this normal?

A. Accurate information about the normal menopause is not too easy to find. The oldest woman to have given birth in the modern era was alleged to be 63. If true, ovulation and normal menstruation may continue into the sixth decade of life. However, a woman who is still "menstruating" at age 56 should have a complete examination by a physician. Many cases of "late" menstruation turn out to be medical problems which need correction.

First Baptist church, Foley, Ala., was the scene Saturday, June 19, of the marriage of Miss Bettie Jo Snell, daughter of Mrs. Gussie Snell of Foley, Ala., and Donald Paul Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armstrong of Thief River Falls. The Rev. Bryant W. Scott performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 50 close relatives and friends. Organist Mrs. Hopewell accompanied Barbara McAlily as she sung "The Lord's Prayer".

Marshall County 4-H Reviews Fair Facts

Dr. Wallace Lamb and William Schafer, members of the Marshall county fair board, attended the Marshall county 4-H Federation meeting and addressed the group of 75 leaders last Monday. Schafer reported that the fair had enjoyed one of its most successful years. He asked that the 4-H group give and record their ideas on matters which could be improved to make the fair better. Dr. Lamb mentioned that on 4-H night one of the amplifiers burned out a tube but he was able to make the public address system perform. He also asked the 4-H group to make constructive criticisms.

Federation president Orval Wittman divided the group into six business sessions after which each reported findings to the group.

Some of these were:

Livestock barns were full this year and there is a need for more space. Suggested that a separate poultry shed or building be built.

The wash rack for the animals needs to be improved to avoid the mud holes which form around the area and consequently get the animals dirty again as they are led from the area.

Hay quality was considered poor and improved quality hay is needed for next year.

Suggested that faucet on Southwest corner of 4-H exhibit building be removed so people do not use as a drinking fountain and cause a large mud puddle.

The fair board should issue passes or tickets to 4-H'ers eligible for free admittance to 4-H night program—particularly those in the 4-H livestock parade.

Provide board walk to stage for dress review girls to avoid mud.

Request higher premiums on 4-H livestock.

Allow 4-H'ers to enter open class.

Other helps that have been brought to the attention of the extension offices are:

Need for low bleachers in the livestock judging area to help make judging more educational.

Need for cattle dividers in the large livestock barn to avoid cattle crossing halters and stealing feed from others.

Need for new and separate poultry building, with additional horse and cattle accomodations being put in the poultry area.

Suggest the fair board purchase straw and store at end of combining season when it is in good supply to avoid straw shortage.

The 4-H Federation also looked into 4-H affairs and had these suggestions:

Install hot water and showers in 4-H dorms; enlarge the 4-H food stand; restrict numbers of people in 4-H demonstration kitchen; have foods, flowers and booths judged the evening of entry day; require that shop and other constructed articles be identified if made from a kit or made from dimension material at home; be sure that all judges know requirements; have an exhibit class for those under 4-H age; and check plumbing in 4-H buildings for leaks.

The entire Federation agreed that it was a fine fair and that criticisms were to be taken only as being helpful to try to improve the fair even more.

Diving events were also conducted and a demonstration was given by Floyd Ball and Harry Pluth of the Thief River Falls Retriever club. They demonstrated use of their black Labrador retrivers in recovering game birds by sight, scent and hand signal.

Treasure Hunt

Eugene Votava of Thief River Falls solved the riddle of the Jaycee treasure hunt and found the wooden capsul containing a certificate redeemable for a $200 Bulova Accutron watch. The capsule was hidden in the city (Floyd B. Olson) park located between Second and Third streets and Knight and Duluth avenues. He was presented with his watch at the Saturday evening pageant.

Fireworks

Concluding the 1965 Aquacade was a free fireworks display held at Tindolph park with another large crowd in attendance.

Swimming Pool Plans Announced By Committee

Thief River Falls city council voted earlier to place a bond issue for a swimming pool on the ballot for the November election. Committee members are anxious to present the proposal to the public for consideration well in advance of the election so that voters will be well informed on the question. No cost estimate was made public by the committee.

BROTHERHOOD Week, proclaimed statewide for August 1-7 by Governor Karl F. Rolvaag and locally by Mayor Orin J. Green, will be observed in Thief River Falls as in other Minnesota communities with a Brotherhood Button drive. Mayor Green is pictured above receiving the first button to be sold here from Steven Furuseth, youth leader of Redeemer Lutheran church. Also show are Rev. Dennis W. Rodin (left), pastor of the Redeemer church; Kaye Dorn, youth leader of St. Bernard's church; and Rev. Keough Patnode, pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic church. Rev. James Ditzler is also a leader in the movement A door-to-door button sale will be conducted Tuesday evening by the youth of both churches. Buttons will be sold for 50 cents each The youngsters will gather for a rally at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the city auditorium and proceed from there with their sale. Proceeds of the sale will be used to support the Minnesota Task Force which supports anti-segregation movements throughout the nation, particularly in the deep South.

PRIMARY weapon in the "final protective line," a maximum output of firepower designed to stop an enemy force, is the air-cooled .30 caliber machine gun. The one pictured above was manned by these two members of the Thief River Falls National guard unit at its demonstration Wednesday evening in Riverside park. A variety of infantry weapons was fired with blank ammunition in a simulated battle. Two machines guns were used in the demonstration. When the order came to "pull the plug" or fire the "FPL," the weapons were fired with blank ammunition in a simulated battle. Two ma- pulsed.

Economic Survey Results Reveal Rural-City Data

manded an increasing proporation of family spending at the higher income levels. In the North Central region, spending for the purchase and upkeep of clothing increased from five per cent of current consumption expenses in the lower income group to 13 per cent among those with higher incomes. But taking the average of all incomes classes, expenditures for clothing dropped from 11.5 in 1950 to 10.2 in 1960.

Automobile purchase and operation took the third largest slice of the family income. Automobile ownership was greater among the North Central Region families than for the U.S. as a whole. It was also considerably greater for farm than for urban residents.

Cost of buying and operating cars accounted for an average of 15 per cent of current living expenses of city families with incomes above $4,000. Only one out of every six families with incomes under $2,000 owned an automobile, but the proportion of car-owning families rose with income. About 96 per cent of families with incomes over $7,500 had cars. The increasing prevalence of two-car families with the spread of suburban living and the more intensive use of automobiles for recreational and other transportation also contributed to the uptrend in automobile expenditures. Urban families spent more than rural families on public transportation, however.

Medical care and personal care each acounted for a larger share of family spending in 1960-61 than in 1950. About three-tenths of the total medical expense in 1960-61 covered hospitalization and other forms of health insurance or health service plans, reported by about four out of five urban families in the North Central region. The rapid growth in medical care plans paid for wholly or partially by employers undoubtedly has helped hold down direct medical outlays by urban consumers, Miss Ryan said.

Like food, medical care takes a decreasing proportion of total expenditures for medical care.

Compared with city families, Minnesota rural families spent an average of almost $1,500 less for current expenses. Their after-tax income was $4,678 compared with $5,904 for urban families. As in the city, families on the farm spent the largest share of their income for housing. Food and beverages ranked second and purchases and maintenance of automobiles third. In dividing their consumer dollar, farm families used a smaller share for housing and food than city residents and a larger part for clothing transportation and medical care.

Farm and urban families are more alike in their use of income than they have ever been, Miss Ryan says.

Wildlife Habitat May Be Expanded

Minnesota Conservation Commissioner Wayne Olson today announced a four-point program for expanding wildlife habitat development activities, with increased emphasis on programs to assist such development on private lands.

He said the program recognizes that much of the game available to hunters is produced and taken on private lands. The new program is in addition to present wetlands acquisition and development activities carried on by the conservation department's game and fish division.

Olson outlined the four major points of the program as follows:

1. Game managers will begin immediately to work with the agricultural extension service to set up county meetings open to the public for the purpose of informing landowners of various types of assistance available and to demonstrate wildlife management techniques. All interested landowners attending these meetings may sign up for technical assistance. Game managers will then contact them and assist them in making plans for wildlife improvements on their lands.

2. The division of game and fish will intensify its cooperative work with other agencies, especially the federal agricultural agencies, to provide for wildlife habitat in their many land use programs.

3. The game and fish division will prepare a plan and request funds from the 1967 legislature to assist landowners to improve and develop wildlife habitat.

4. The division will revise and re-submit to the 1967 Legislature a program whereby game and fish funds will be available to the counties on a matching basis for developing local habitat improvement projects on both public and private lands.

Olson said that past and present activities of the game and fish Division have made a start in providing assistance to private landowners in cooperative projects of mutual benefit.

During the past several years, the division has been actively engaged in programs to improve hunting through habitat development. One of the most effective efforts has been that of cooperation with other agencies, such as the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which have extensive responsibilities in developing land management programs. The division also has been acquiring and developing wildlife lands to protect game habitat.

Until now, the division has been able to give only modest assistance to private landowners for developing and improving their own lands for wildlife.

For the past 10 years the division has developed a cooperative working relationship with the state ASCS committee and, as a result, certain wildlife improvement practices are available to private landholders on a cost-sharing basis through the ACP program. In addition, modifications have been made in the diverted acres program which provide greater benefits to wildlife at little or no additional cost.

Agreements have been reached with 77 soil and water conservation districts which provide a basis for cooperative programs of mutual benefit. The primary result of these agreements has been the initiation of a program of wildlife habitat development on private lands. The division also has maintained a wildlife cover program whereby trees are distributed to farmers for establishing cover-plots.

The relatively new small watershed protection and flood prevention act (P.L. 566) has made wildlife technical assistance available to private landowners who live in a project area. This program has focused the attention of many landowners on the availability of technical and financial assistance for wildlife improvements on watershed projects.

This year the division of game and fish, in cooperation with the state department of education and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, developed a mallard rearing program whereby Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.) can receive wild mallard stock for raising and releasing in suitable habitat.

This program is expected to teach F.F.A. members the value of wildlife habitat as well as an appreciation for wildlife conservation.

The division also has recently prepared a manual relating to raising and releasing of Canada geese. This manual, toegther with a similar one for mallards, is available to private landowners and F.F.A. members who are interested in establishing local flocks.

Game and fish survey reports of lakes and marshes throughout the state have been available to the general public. These surveys include topographic maps, covertype maps, analysis of vegetable cover and management recomendations. A number of bulletins and pamphlets provide information of value to private landowners wishing to improve wildlife habitat on their property.

State game managers have held a number of "open houses" on developed wildlife areas to demonstrate habitat development measures. Meetings also have been held with agencies such as the extension service and soil conservation service, to inform them of wild life management programs, to demonstrate management techniques and to inform them of technical assistance available.

In summary, Commissioner Olson said, "Past accomplishments are impressive, especially in the acquisition and development of public lands. By increasing our efforts on private land at this time we can meet more of the needs for maintaining and improving wildlife in Minnesota."

TRF Midgets Win League Tourney To End Season

Thief River Falls Midgets, climaxing a winning 12 to 2 season, won a single elimination playoff tournament for the Northwest Border league in East Grand Forks Thursday, according to coach Roger Solheim. The Midgets include players in the 13 through 15 age group.

John Looker pitched a one-hitter in the seven-inning championship game as the Thief River Falls club defeated East Grand Forks 3-1. The locals scored in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings to avenge two earlier defeats by East Grand Forks, both of which came on unearned runs. Looker had pitched a no-hitter against Crookston during the regular season.

Wayne Liden and Gary LaValley combined pitching duties in the first game of the four-team tourney, with LaValley getting credit for the victory in an 11-4 win over Crookston. Liden's triple with the bases loaded in the third inning was the big blow for Thief River Falls. East Grand Forks whipped Red Lake Falls 8-3 to gain the finals.

Many of the Eagles Midget team which won the Northwest Border league title will play with the VFW Midgets Fergus Falls today at Fergus Falls for the regional championship and an opportunity to compete in state tournament play at Mankato. Due to a difference in age qualifications, several of the Eagles Midgets team members will be ineligible to compete at Fergus Falls today.

Wardens Arrest 1,565 Violators January to July

Minnesota game wardens apprehended 1,565 game law violators during the first six months of 1965, the state game and fish division reported this week.

Fishing law violations accounted for 1,076 arrests and there were 214 arrests made for violations of shelter and darkhouse regulations. Fishing with more than one line (397 arrests) and fishing without a license (211 arrests) were the two most numerous fishing violations noted by game wardens.

Some other common infractions observed were fishing during a closed season, possession of illegally taken fish, illegal spearing and transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle.

There were 35 big game violations and 26 small game arrests during the period. Five persons were apprehended for making fraudulent bounty claims.

STRINGERS of walleyes like the one above are not a real common sight anywhere in Minnesota's lake country. What makes this stringer of particular interest is that two local boys, Mark Mattson (left) and John Hellquist, caught the fish in the Red Lake river Saturday afternoon. Using spinners and live minnows, the boys caught 10 fish, the largest weighing four and one-half pounds and four pounds. They also lost a larger walleye which they had alongside the boat but which escaped because they had no landing net.

YOU NEVER KNOW what your catch might be when you drop a line into the Red Lake river in Thief River Falls. Fourteen-year-old John Newland of Seaford, N.Y., caught this seven-pound catfish Thursday at about 4:30 p.m. just below the dam by the city power plant. John, who is staying with his grandfather, John G. Newland of Thief River Falls, was using worms for bait and also caught a walleye and small bullhead. Robert Farmes, area game manager for the Minnesota conservation department, identified the big fish as a catfish because of its forked tail. Bullheads commonly caught in the river here have blunt tails.

CONSERVATION News & Notes

by Bob Farmes
Area Game Manager
Division of Game & Fish—Minn. Conserevation Dep't.

In planning the acquisition program for our wildlife Management Areas, we must first of all determine which areas have high enough wildlife values to make purchase worthwhile. We give first consideration to those areas that actually produce wildlife, although first rate hunting areas are also sought. They provide habitat primarily for ducks and pheasants although the larger ones are important to deer. In Kittson, Roseau and Marshall counties moose occupy a number of them.

Our prairie grouse, the sharptail and prairie chicken, are important species on a number of areas in this part of the state. It is good to know that we should be able to maintain a small prairie chicken population in Minnesota now on our Wildlife Management Areas alone, even if all other habitat is gone.

Usually the larger areas are the ones that provide the best hunting and they may also be very good game producers. The smaller tracts are primarily production areas.

These lands are open to trapping as well as hunting and many of them produce a good fur harvest. They also provide habitat for numerous non-game birds and animals.

After determining that an area does have significant wildlife value, consideration is given to the possibility of its losing this value through destruction such as drainage or other land use practices. This is not always an easy determination and much choice game habitat that was considered secure 20 years ago is now gone. Thus those areas that are apt to be lost because of haitbat destruction have the highest priority rating for acquisition.

When it has been decided by the game manager that the area in question has enough value for wildlife to bring it into state ownership, a "Project Proposal" for acquisition is submitted by the area game manager to regional and state headquarters. A project proposal contains a map of the area drawn from aerial photographs and information on acreages of the major cover types, estimated cost of acquisition, ownership, development possibilities and the wildlife value among other things.

After approval by regional and state headquarters, then negotiations with the private land owner or owners can begin. The purchase offered is based on an appraisal by the area game manager which is made by using recent sales of similar land in the vicinity for comparision and by considering price paid by the owner, improvements made to the land, type of soil, distance to town, accessibility and a number of other factors.

Since the start of this program in 1951, game managers in the Section of Game have purchased or optioned for purchase over 152,000 acres over the state at an average cost of about $31 per acre.

Twin Lakes Development

A major phase of the development program at the Twin Lakes Wildlife Management area was completed last week with the installation of a water control structure and pipe under state highway 11 so that high water flows from the lakes may be diverted into a 1200-acre sedge meadow (known locally as Twistal Swamp) of little value to wildlife in its natural state. It is anticipated that this will not only provide considerably more waterfowl habitat but also alleviate some of the flooding problem on the area and adjacent lands which will benefit both wildlife and farm lands.

Plans and specifications for the work were prepared by conservation department engineers after consulting with section of game personnel. These plans were then submitted to the highway department for approval since a state highway was involved. Bids for the work were received and the contract was awarded to Roy Benson and Sons of Stephen.

Other work recently completed at Twin Lakes was the construction of a short dike across Twistol Swamp and improvement of the access to the proposed water control structure at the outlet of the lakes. This work was done by the O.K. Machine Company of Roseau.

Twin Lakes WMA is located two miles east of Karlstad on either side of state highway 11. It is one of the larger wildlife areas managed by game managers of the Section of Game; containing over 8,000 acres. Each of the two lakes is about 250 acres in size with considerable adjoining marsh land. It is an excellent wildlife area and provides very good hunting; especially for ducks and deer. Moose are also present on the area.

It is planned that future development will improve the area for grouse and geese.

Three-Day Teal Season Announced For Minnesota

Commissioner of Conservation Wayne H. Olson announced today that the experimental teal season in Minnesota this fall will open at noon, September 11, and close at sunset on September 13. Shooting hours will be from sunrise to sunset except on the opening day. The bag limit will be four teal daily and eight in possession. Blue winged, green-winged and cinnamon teal may be take.

Although the federal season framework would allow up to nine days, Olson said that the heavy demand for special teal permits makes it necessary to reduce the season length to avoid an excessive kill on locally-raised teal. He explained that teal in Minnesota's most abundant resident breeding duck.

Olson said about 55,000 of the state's duck hunters applied for teal permits prior to the July 15 deadline. Last year there were 130,000 duck hunters during the regular season."

The experimental teal season was established by the U.S. Department of the Interior in the Mississippi and Central flyways to determine if an increased kill of teal can be accomplished without seriously affecting other species. Normally, teal begin their migration southward before the regular season opens and thus fewer are taken.

The public hunting grounds on all state wildlife management areas, except for parts of the Thief Lake and Roseau projects, will be opened to teal hunting. Four crews are presently in the field trapping effect of the special season on teal can be determined.

Each teal hunter will need a special permit in addition to a small game hunting license, on firearms safety certificate and federal duck stamp. The special permits will be mailed about the middle of August to all persons who sent in their applications to the conservation department prior to the July 15 deadline.

State and federal wardens will be strict in their enforcement of the regulations during the early season. No leniency will be shown to persons who "accidentally" shoot any species other than teal, Olson said.

He urged teal hunters to make a special effort to review and study before the season. The success of this and future seasons will depend largely on the skill of hunters in identifying teal, he said.

Softball League Race Tightens; Who's in Second?

Things really tightened up in the Thief River Falls softball league as a result of games played during the past week. The VFW team continues its hold on first place by a scant game while four teams are tied for second and the last place team beat the league-leaders last week.

Tied for second place in the league with identical records of four wins and four losses are Hartz, Bea's, Bridgemans' and Schmidt's. Hamm's has a record of three wins and five losses but edged the VFW 3-2 Wednesday to be given consideration as a tough team to beat.

In last week's games, the resurging Bea's Food Market team whipped Schmidt's 4-1, Bridgeman's upset Hartz 7-4, Hamm's beat the VFW 3-2 and Bea's smacked Hamm's 12-2.

Games this week will have Hartz playing Hamm's on Monday, Bridgeman's meeting Schmidt's on Tuesday and the VFW competing against Bea's on Wednesday.

Bridgeman's and Hamm's each have three men on the list of the league's top 10 hitters (15 or more at bats). Jerry Erickson's husky .450 average leads the league. Batting leaders include the following:

State 'Dairy Belt'

Minnesota's 30-county "dairy belt" has experienced a sharp increase in total annual milk production during the past 20 years, while production figures in other areas of the state either have dropped or risen only slightly.

In a report recently, K. H. Thomas and M. K. Christiansen, University of Minnesota extension economists, points out that dramatic shifts in the location of Minnesota's dairy industry from 1944-64 have resulted in concentration of milk production in the belt area which runs diagonally from southeast to northwest.

This area, with 69 per-cent of the dairy cows in the state, is currently accounting for 72 per-cent o the total annual milk production.

During the 20-year period studied cow numbers in the belt area dropped 15 per-cent from over one million in 1944 to about 870,00 in 1964. But in the same peroid, production increased 51 per-cent with production per cow rising from 5,141 to 9,137 pounds.

The state as a whole experienced a 27 per-cent drop in dairy cow number, and a 31 per-cent increase in milk produced. Production per cow in the state climbed from 4,850 to 8,670 pounds.

Nationwide figures show a 37 per-cent drop in cow numbers for the 20-year period an eight per-cent increase in milk produced and a production per cow increase of from 4,572 to 7,889 pounds.

In the northeast and Red River Valley regions of the state, total milk production dropped 11 and 17 per-cent, respectively. The economists explain that these sizable reductions were caused mainly by a large and persistent decline in cow numbers coupled with a smaller than average increase in production per cow.

They expect further reductions in the total production in these areas in years ahead, and a continued concentration of milk production in the state's dairy blet.

The southwestern area experienced a sharp reduction in cow number during the 10-year period from 1944-54 when total production dropped 12 per-cent. But since then, cow numbers have declined at a relatively slow rate, production per cow has increased sharply and total production has increased 21 per-cent.

The economists expect these production increases to continue since the types of dairy units developing in the area are quite competitive under present conditions.

What's the first thing to do when ants invade your home? Get to the heart of the problem and that means finding their nests.

The carpenter ants tunnel out nesting galleries in wood and leave tracings of course sawdust. Somen ants nest behind moldings and others nest outside the house and enter rough cracks and openings in the foundation. Use a paint brush to apply insecticides such as two-per-cent chlordane. A word of caution, however: Be sure to keep children and pets away from the treated materials.

State 4-H Market Livestock Show

A state 4-H market livestock show will be held September 27-29 on the Minnesota state fair grounds. The show is a successor to the annual 4-H Junior Livestock show in South St. Paul. The show will support the production of quality market livestock by 4-H'ers in tune with today's market needs and consumer demands. The Minnesota Livestock Breeder's association will sponsor the event.

Special awards will be given to 4-H members who are recognized during the show for their achievements. Cash awards will range from $200 to $300 for breed champions. Blue and red ribbon winners will receive cash awards based on animal species and the live animal placing.

Special awards are planned for carcass quality in addition to those provided for live animal placing. Size of the show is expected to remain the same, excluding the quota on lamb trios and increasing the quota on swine.

A new show arena along with additional animal washing facilities is now under construction for seating the 1,500 people expected to attend.

An assembly emphasizing meat animal evaluation has been planned for Monday, September 27. Later in the week at South St. Paul a program will focus on the marketing and processing of livestock. Concluding the judging of exhibits on Tuesday afternoon, September 28, the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a banquet providing an opportunity for businessman supporting the show to dine with 4-H members and extension workers.

Plans have begun for the market show to be incorporated with the state fair in 1966.

Side Line Observations

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

By Bill Dahlquist

Those who speak for the Republican party are far from agreement as to party policy in the coming campaign. All elections are important and it would not be proper to say that next years election will not be important. But let me put it this way—as it appears now, it will be important mainly as an indiction of what may follow in the succeeding elections.

It is those suceeding elections that will make next year's election so important in terms of both the party and the nation. About all we can expect from next year's election is some indication as to what might be ahead of us in term of a trend.

The party lost last year's election for the same reason that it probably will lose next year's election. The leaders were not, and probably will not be, ready for the responsibilities of victory. A victorious Republican party, assuming that it will merit victory, will inherit a mess that will require outstanding leadership, supported by party unity. There is little likihood that the party will develop the leadership that will be required for unity in a period of one year.

Party leaders now are haggling too much over names. Conservative and liberal are both good, respectable words, and there is a time and a place for both of them. They are not necessarily opposed to each other.

Russell Kirk, in his book "The Conservative Mind", refers to the writings of that great champion of liberty, Edmund Burke, and commenting on Burke's political phylosophy, Kirk said:

"Liberty, Burke knew, had risen in consequence of an elaborate and delicate process, and its perpetuation depended upon retaining those habits of thought and action which guided the savage in his slow and weary ascent to the state of civil social man.

"All his life, Burke's chief concern had been for justice and liberty, which must stand or fall together—liberty under law, a definite liberty, the limits of which were determined by prescription.

"He had defended the liberties of Englishmen against their king, and the liberties of Americans against King and Parliament, and the liberties of Hindus against Europeans. He had defended those liberties not because they were innovations, discovered in the Age of Reaton, but because they were ancient prerogatives, guaranteed by immemorial usage.

"Burke was liberal because he was conservative. And this cast of mind Tom Paine was wholly unable to appreciate."

Nor are there many Republicans today who can appreciate the fact that conservatism and liberalism have much in common.

There is not room in the Republican party for radicals or reactionaries, but there is plenty of room within the party for both conservatives and liberals. As edmund Burke stated, the two are closely related.

Party leaders whose chief concern is the best interests of the nation itself, should strive for harmony of these groups within the party. Maybe such an objective can be achieved in the next election, but I doubt it. The present leadership is prone to seek selfish ends and I am afraid that at least one more defeat is going to be necessary to achieve that desired harmony that must be based on broad understanding.

The most we can reasonably hope for is that the next election will be conducted in such a way that a victory for good government can be won two years later.

There seems to be a steadily increasing doubt as to the merit of the "spending ourselves rich" idea, and that is a healthy sign. There unquestionably have been many sincere doubters who have been reluctant about disagreeing with the powerful Lyndon Johnson administration. But now, more and more, the doubters are becoming vocal, and critics are becoming bolder. That is a healtyy sign.

The following clipping from the Economic Letter published by the First National City Bank of New York, is an effective example of ministration financial policies by leading banks of the country. Writing on "Poverty and the Farm Program" it states:

"Cutting taxes has become popular. Congress took only a month to whoop through legislation sweeping away $4.7 billion of excise taxes. Among those repealed were levies on diamonds, mink coats, pool tables, pinball machines, and admissions to horse races and dog tracks.

"Yet, while these 'luxury' taxes are being repealed, the Administration is pressing Congress for passage of a new farm bill that would, among other things, impose higher taxes on the processing of wheat and a new tax on rice, thereby boosting the price of bread by 1 to 2 cents a loaf and of rice by 4 to 6 cents a pound. This would result from raising the processing tax on domestic wheat—first imposed in 1964—from 75 cents a bushel to $1.25. A new rice-processing tax would be imposed amounting to about $2.50 per hundredweight.

"These actions form a striking contrast. Bread is a daily necessity, particularly among the poor. Taxes on bread and rice are especially regressive because these foods form a much larger portion of the budgets of poor families than of higher-income people. The imposition of a heavier "bread tax" is especially incongruous at a time when the Administration is trying to step up its "war on poverty."

"The public has been slow to grasp the full import of the proposed farm bill, but protesting voices are now beginning to be heard. Agricultural programs have become so complicated and divorced from reality that only the affected farm groups can understand them. The new bill would not only add to hardships of poor people but drive the farm economy further out of contact with normal market forces."

The following observations by Art Suel, editor of the New Prague Times, merit a few serious thoughts:

"Recently enacted federal legislation makes it illegal to discriminate between men and women in filling a wide range of jobs or to have any indication of sex on employment forms.

"Early reports, which we hope may later prove to be erroneous, indicate that it may be a federal offense to advertise "Men wanted for Construction Work", or "Waitresses wanted". If this thing is carried to a consisteno conclusion, the next step might be to require all females reaching the age of 18 years to register for military selective service,—with no indication of sex on the registration card."

Joining the Clan

By action taken in special session Tuesday evening, the Thief River Falls city council has joined the expanding clan of organizations in the United States which is seeking federal funds (public tax money) under the so-called poverty program. We can hardly regard this as a great piece of heartily welcomed news.

We know of no symbol adopted by the clan, but it would well be an open hand extended palm upward. Its slogan would most fitting be: "We don't believe in it but everyone else is getting handouts so we might as well get our share too."

It is understood that the Neighborhood Youth Corps would be organized in this community with potential school dropouts enlisted to do menial labor for compensation of $1.25 per hour. We don't know how the group plans to determine potential dropouts, but it logically seems that referrals would be made through the local school's counselling and guidance office.

With the offer of $1.25 per hour and a 15-hour work week during school, we can imagine the temptation will be great for all students to schedule a conference with the counselor to discuss the possibilities of dropping out of school. The $3,000 income figure for the families of eligible youths will automatically discourage many such possibilities, but the opportunity is there for those who qualify—whether they have any intention of leaving school or not.

It is also understood that youngsters enlisted in the program will be available for hire at 10 per cent of the wage offered—although this available labor force is not to jeopardize existing employees. If a group has work to be done and the choice of hiring open market labor or similar unskilled workers at 12½ cents per hour, which is it likely to hire? Free-lance workers who depend on odd jobs for a meager living should begin now to become better acquainted with their county welfare office—it may not be long before the county dole will be there main sustenance.

We will concede that there are several projects which could be undertaken by the city for improvement and beautification. We do contend, however, that these tasks are the responsibility of the city and should be performed by it. The city does not need the federal government to administer this city's grass cutting, light bulb washing, curb painting, weed trimming or similar jobs.

Income taxes paid by this community to the federal government for the anti-poverty program would go a long way in getting the job done at home—without the cost of a top-heavy administration at state and federal levels which taps the till for a goodly portion of the total allocation to aid the poor.

We do not believe the poverty program is a "self-help" program. It is rather a "help yourself" give-away program. It is just as likely to be ineffective, costly and unnecessary here in Thief River Falls as any of the many other places we read about each day.

The city council undoubtedly acted in good faith in adopting the program, believing the city would benefit, for that is the council's function. In doing so, however, it has added a little more impetus to the spreading of federalism that is a real danger to the nation today. We are sorry to see the council take the action it did.

Perhaps councilmen would like to explain their action for public review. Our side has been presented. We invite the council to show the other side of the coin.

A Full Education

Seasons of the year run their course swiftly. No one knows that better than our tens of millions of youngsters, for the summer vacation is already over half gone and the beginning of the next school year approaches swiftly.

Many, perhaps most, will return to school with a feeling of regret. Summer vacation, with all its sports and many-sided attractions, is fun. It's only human nature to wish it could continue forever. But for all of the labor-saving progress that has been made, we still live in a world in which work and knowledge are essentials. And the advances of science and technology have vastly increased the kind and amount of education that is needed if the young person is to have a successful and rewarding career as an adult. Little room is left for the uneducated and the half-educated. Those who lack at least a high school education face a tough road ahead. And college training is of necessity demanded by more and more employers.

Nowadays, stress is laid on physics, mathematics, the chemical arts and other of the sciences. But the boy or girl who learns only a trade or profession is but half a person. The finished student must have at least a fair working knowledge of literature, the other fine arts and economics. It is in this last classification that the schools, in too many instances, seem to have failed.

Too many graduates leave the halls of ivy with an insufficient understanding of this country's economic system and the system of representative government it supports, which together have protected the individual's liberty and made this nation great and powerful. Lack of understanding of the political and economic heritage by which we live is a most serious weakness in a world torn by conflicting and angry ideologies.

Let the student return to school with a will. And let his school properly prepare him for a constructive place in the world he will enter as a adult.

Adopted Capitalism

One asolutely basic tenet of communism has been that all production shall be rigidly controlled by orders from the top. That goes for the kind, quality and quantity of all goods. The desires of consumers are not to be considered—it's a take-it-or-leave-it proposition.

Following that principle in the communist nations, plan after plan has been promulgated and attempted. And plan after plan has failed, wholly or in part, for a variety of reasons. Big quantities of unwanted goods have been produced, only to find few buyers. A huge demand for other goods has gone unfulfilled. On top of that, production has suffered from an almost total lack of the incentives which would stimulate management and labor alike.

So the past story runs. Of late, however, some changes have occurred. News has come out of Russia of experiments which are based on capitalist production and consumption principles. The Russians, for example, have been taking another and seemingly respectful look at such formerly-reviled institutions as the profit motive.

This, moreover, seems to be taking place in other countries of the communist bloc. A recent U.S. News World Report article tells of what is taking place in Czechoslovakia and Hungary, under the title "Something New in East Europe: The Customer Is Right."

The article states: "Profit incentives, competition, catering to customers' demands borrowing for plant expansion—all these concepts are being introduced into the economic life of the two countries. Under capitalism, all this would be old hat. But under socialism, it is a startling—even though still quite a cautious—innovation."

Moreover, the article goes on, now some 150 industrial plants in Czechoslovakia are experimenting with the profit motive and "Managers are being given freedom to obey the law of supply and demand." A clothing manufacturing center in Prague is cited as an example. It used to be that the goods were produced without regard to the taste of consumers. There were heavy financial losses because of lack of sales. Now the whole emphasis is on better quality clothes that will sell well. In the first six months of operation under the new system, says U.S News, profits rose 90 per cent.

So it goes in other industrial areas. Workers and managers are enthusiastic over the profit incentives. And on the farms, too, incentives are being introduced in an effort to spur food production—always a problem within the communist empire.

Just how much capitalistic medicine will eventually be introduced into communist economies is as yet an unanswered question. But the Red nations certainly seem to be finding that there is something sadly wrong with strict Marxian economics. And they seem to be agreeing with the west, and particularly the United States, can provide some of the needed answers.

To the "Old Country"

It has been reported by the Norwegian Information service that in country's Washington embassy that 2,620 Americans moved to Norway for permanent residence in 1963 while only 2,271 Norwegians immigrated to the United States.

No reason was advanced for the change in residence—either for the allure of the "old country" or the "land of opportunity" reputation of the United States. We will assume that Norwegians immigrating to the United States are hopeful of receiving medical treatment which was denied them under socialized medicine while Americans emigrating to Norway were planning to stock up on Swede stories to relay to fellow countrymen here who have been the brunt of Norwegian jokes currently popular.

Interesting Opinions . . .

"No longer do we talk about whether federal agencies can be halted before they get too far into the city hall or the board of education offices. Now the talk is whether or not it is possible even to preserve the city hall or these offices...or whether city and school board officials will have to merge their offices with others already in the federal building."

Langen Seeks GAO Probe of Actions by Post Office

Congressman Odin Langen has requested an accounting by the general accounting office of the actions of the U.S. postal department in its curtailment of service to rural areas of the United States.

The Minnesota congressman called for this investigation in view of the many complaints that have reached his office. "There has been no one who has expressed any favor or approval of the changes in service," he said.

Langen has been meeting with post office officials in Washington in an attempt to find out their reasoning in the recent switch to star route mail service throughout much of the country, as well as the closing of many mail terminals all over the U. S. and the removal of mail from Soo Line trains in Langen's district.

"A drastic reduction in needed mail service to rural America has been misrepresented as 'improved service and savings' by the post office department," charged Langen. "The public is entitled to know the truth.

"The department has stated that his change would result in a reduced cost of operation and provide better service, but statistics supplied this office do not leave any proof that either of these purposes has been or is being accomplished."

The congressman's request to the GAO officials said in part: 'It (the investigation) should include some accounting of the additional cost that would be required on maintaining the same delivery and dispatch service that was provided to many rural communities throughout the nation prior to the July 1 change to the star route system."

Langen emphasized that these people are not asking for any improvement in service but only want mail dispatches and deliveries to be on the same basis as before the change was made.

Langen, who earlier charged the post office department with deliberatly reducing mail service to sparsely populated areas in an arbitrary and an compromising manner, again pointed out such reduction of service threatens not only the economic well-being of the communities involved, but also threatens the very foundations of our nation's strength.

"It is hoped," Langen added, "that a GAO investigation of this matter would be as successful as the last one I called for." A year ago, Langen's inquiries led to a GAO investigation of the post office department's printing of stamped envelopes. This investigation led to a $6-million saving to the U.S. taxpayer.

"Bureaucracy's war on rural America must be stopped," Langen warned. "It just doesn't make sense to deliberately try to eliminate the very unit of our society that must be maintained if the nation is to continue as the world's example of greatness through personal initiative."

Langen's letter to the GAO also contained a request for an accounting of the number of summer youth placement personnel that have been placed on the payroll and the total cost of the program in Minnesota. There has been much discussion in legislative circles lately regarding patronage distribution of "youth opportunity program" summer jobs.

July Not So Hot Report Indicates

BY Jim Wills
Times Reporter

Through most of July, 1965, Thief River Falls and northern Minnesota were spared the excessive heat that usually accompanies July. Most days were comfortably warm but no oppressively hot. Highs generally ranged in the 70's and low 80's. Lows were mostly in the 50's and 60's and occasionally reached the 40's. The July 4 week-end was especially pleasant, with the weather clear and cool.

A violent electrical storm broke loose at 5 a. m. July 12, and by 8:40 a. m. 2.90 inches of rain had fallen at the airport weather station. By the time the storm blew over, the figure rose to 3.60.

Slightly over a week later, the area experienced a brief spell of hot, sticky weather. On July 22, the hottest day of the month, the mercury rose to 87 degrees, which would not have been unbearable were it not for the extremely high humidity. The airport reported that the relative humidity reached 95 per cent on that date, which means that the air contained 95 per cent of the amount of moisture it could have held at the existing temperature.

The weather soon cooled off considerably, however; three days later the high recorded was only 79 degrees. At no time during the month did the temperature reach the 90-degree mark—a rare phenomenon even in this cool climate. It had only happened twice in the previous 10 years; the high recorded during July of 1956 was only 81 and the peak temperature for July of 1962 was 84.

From the standpoint of statistics, July was a nearly normal month. The mean temperature was 66.7 degrees, or .6 degree below the July norm of 67.3. The total precipitation figure of 4.74 inches shaded the average for July by .41 inch. High for the month was 87 recorded on July 22; low was 43 on the 10th. The following is a list of daily high and low temperature and precipitation figures recorded by North Central Airlines personnel at the municipal airport.

PCA Here Loans Over $4 Million

"Production Credit association of Thief River Falls reached a new high in loan volume on July 30," stated Hyrom 'Jack' Sorenson, general manager. More than $4,000,000 has been loaned to farmers in Pennington, Red Lake, Roseau, East Marshall, Lake of the Woods and North Beltrami counties, the area served by the local P.C.A.

Sorenson attributes the rapid growth to the increasing demand for low-cost financing of farm operations. Farmers use loans from their Production Credit association to purchase labor-saving equipment acquire better livestock, improve their farms, provide funds for college and vocational training for their children as well as to pay current farm operating expenses. P.C.A. of Thief River Falls has its main office here and a full-time branch office at Roseau.

ASC To Sell 51 Grain Bins In Pennington

21 St. Hilaire Bins, 30 In TRF Offered For Public Auction

On August 12, commencing at 10 a.m. in St. Hilaire and 1:30 p.m. in Thief River Falls, 51 commodity credit corporation grain bins will be offered at public auction, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county ASC Committee.

The offering consists of six wooden and 15 steel bins in St. Hilaire, and 30 wooden bins in Thief River Falls, Knutson indicated. Bins may be inspected on August 11 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at both sites, and also on the date of sale.

The auction is to take place at the St. Hilaire binsite in the northwest section of St. Hilaire, and at the Thief River Falls binsite in the southeast section of Thief River Falls.

Several reasons have developed which prompted sales of the bins, Knutson commented. The main reason, he indicated, was the acceptance of the feed grain program which substantially reduced government holdings of feed grains; and as a result, enabled the department to offer for sale these and other bins situated in the 14 bin site states. The reductioon in feed grain stocks, coupled with the increased on-farm storage and storage space in county warehouses, will undoubtedly allow the government to continue sales of CCC bins, Knutson stated.

Sale of these bins will reduce and give farmers and others in the community an opportunity to purchase additional storage space at a minimum of expense, Knutson added.

According to county ASCS officials, there are certain types of out the state which may be partially financed by a farm storage facility loan. It was indicated that prospective purchasers should, prior to the sale, contact their local county offices for particulars regarding this matter. All purchases which are not partially financed by a farm storage facility loan must be paid by cash on the day of the sale.

Sullivan Charged with Criminal Negligence

COLLISION on the east side of the First street bridge Saturday night resulted in the total loss of the two vehicles pictured above. The crash occured when the car at right, driven by Joseph Taylor of Thief River Falls, was struck by the other vehicle, driven by Keith Maidment, also of Thief River Falls, which had failed to stop for the stop sign at the corner of Pennington avenue and First street. There were no serious injuries.

Many Cases Tried This Week in Municipal Court

Robert Joseph Sullivan, 16, Thief River Falls, waived preliminary hearing this morning in Thief River Falls municipal court on a charge of criminal negligence in the death of Jerome Ramstad, age 9. He was bound over to district court on $2,500 bond and was released upon posting bond.

Sullivan was the driver of a car which struck a car in which the Ramstad youth was a passenger in Thief River Falls on July 22. Ramstad was pronounced dead at the accident scene. The crash occurred at the intersection of Main avenue and First street. Miss Alverna Tigges of Warren, driver of the car in which the Ramstad boy was riding, died Friday at Northwestern hospital of injuries received in the accident.

Appearing in Pennington county juvenile court Tuesday, Sullivan was referred to County Attorney C. L. Charlson for prosecution as an adult. He was arraigned in Thief River Falls municipal court this morning. Criminal negligence is a felony charge.

This morning's court case was one of 26 cases tried in municipal court on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Among these were several charges brought by the sheriff's department, resulting from careless driving and ensuing events at St. Hilaire Monday night.

The sheriff's office reported that those charged in court were driving in a careless manner on St. Hilaire streets, attempted to escape after being stopped and engaged in an altercation with the arresting officer. Charges filed included the following:

Larry Wayne Peterson, St. Hilaire, careless driving, $100 fine, and driving after suspension of his driver's license, $100 fine; Sharon Peterson, St. Hilaire, permit unlicensed person to drive, $50 fine with license plates and title card impounded, and obstruct a peace officer making a lawful arrest, $50 fine; and Buddy Cameron, Red Lake Falls, assault a peace officer in performance of his duty, 60 days in the county jail, in custody.

For County Convention

Changes Are Made In ASC Election

Several changes in the election of county committees will be initiated at the Pennington county convention held for that purpose this year, according to Winton Knutson, chairman of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. The convention will be held August 9 in the meeting room in the courthouse, Thief River Falls.

Changes are designed to give more continuity and stability to operating policies ASCS county offices and to improve administration of farm programs by local committees. They are part of a continuing process to make more effective use of farmer-committees in local administration of programs, to increase their importance and status and to attract outstanding farm leaders to serve in these positions.

One change in the convention elections—effective this year is that all regular members of the various community committees within the county (instead of the chairmen only) will elect the county committeemen at the convention. Oher changes are that the county committeemen will be elected for three-year staggered terms (instead of for one year, and the service of each county committeeman will be limited to three consecutive terms (previously there has been no limitation).

In the 1965 county convention, one county committee member will be elected for a one-year term, one member for a two-year term,

Bostwick Store Name Replaces Familiar S&L

One of four S L stores in Minnesota, North Dakota and Iowa to be extensively revamped in merchandise to facilitate an upgraded merchandising program through greater emphasis on name brand goods is the S & L store in Thief River Falls, according to C. R. Waldera, store manager.

Waldera said that the primary reason for the merger of S & L and Bostwick's is to "keep the quality up"—a slogan used extensively by the Bostwick company years ago. New additions to the Bostwick group are in Minot and Jamestown, N. D., and Sioux City, Ia., as well as Thief River Falls.

The original Bostwick store was founded in Janesville, Wis., 109 years ago by J. M. Bostwick. It was a family owned company until 1936 and was purchased in 1945 by S & L Stores of Minneapolis.

"Because of the massive out-pouring of national advertising," Waldera said, "today's consumer has developed highly selective tastes in fashions and home furnishings. It is the intent of Bostwick's to keep pace with the accelerating tastes of this segment of the buying public, while still maintaining a complete stock of staple bread-and-butter goods."

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Medchill of Plummer entertained at dinner Sunday evening at the Dine-a-Mite cafe in observance of their third wedding anniversary. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peterson of this city.

Flying Saucer? Mysterious Light Seen Last Night

Five Thief River Falls youths spent an interesting couple of hours late last night watching a mysterious moving light in the air south of the city on the airport road. The report recalls memories of the "flying saucer" stories which were heard frequently a few years ago.

Wayne Bjerken first noticed the phenomenon about 11 p.m. and about one-half mile north of the municipal airport. He said it looked like a street light and that it would go out and then come back on again. When it moved, he said, the light would change from yellow to white and would become flat or saucer-shaped.

Bjerken returned to Thief River Falls after watching the light which he said at one time was directly overhead at an estimated 1,000 feet. He returned with his two brothers, Richard and Larry, and with Bob Olson and Dale Ottelie watched the strange light until nearly 2 a.m. Wayne's mother, Mrs. Ernie Bjerken, also saw the wierd glow. Attempts were also made to take pictures of it.

Several members of the grain marketing board of the Pennington county chapter of the National Farmers organization attended a meeting held last week at the Gardner hotel in Moorhead. Moderate Weather Aids Crop Growth

Moderately warm weather with fair to partly cloudy skies has prevailed in the Thief River Falls area during the past week. Little change is in the forecast, with fair skies predicted today and partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers expected tonight and tomorrow over 30 to 50 per cent of the state. Highs today will be in the 80's; lows tonight will range from 52 to 65.

Late weather has benefitted crops in northern Minnesota, according to the Soo Line crop report released July 28. The area's crops are about a week behind crops in the upper midwest in general, but all grain has headed and stands and color are excellent. Early flax is in bloom and late flax five inches high. The second hay crop is almost ready to cut. Pastures are in good shape. In spite of lateness, a better-than-average crop is expected.

North Central Airlines has recorded the following temperature and precipitation readings during the past week at the municipal airport: 78 and 51 on Wednesday; 80 and 50 on Thursday; 75 and a trace 57 on Friday; 78, 54 and .12 inch on Saturday; 74 and 57 on Sunday; 82 and 54 on Monday; 82 and 55 on Tuesday; and a low this morning of 54.

and the third member for a three-year term. Thereafter, one member of each county committee will be elected for a term of three-years. Each year, including 1965, the convention will also elect a first and a second alternate committeeman, each for a one-year term.

After the committee members are elected, the delegates vote again to determine which of the regular members are to serve as the chairman and vice-chairman. The conventions will redetermine these positions annually.

A qualified candidate for service on the ASC county committee is one who is a resident eligible to vote in one of the community elections in the county and who meets other eligibility requirements. The chairman stressed the desirability of electing members who are actively engaged in the operation of a farm and who are representative of the type and kind of farming in the county. Other details as to qualifications of candidates are available in the ASCS county office.

Any questions on eligibility to hold office as an ASC county committeeman will be decided by the incumbent county committee subject to appeal to the state committee; the convention would proceed, however, on the basis of the county committee decision.

Programs administered by ACS committees include the Agricultural Conservation program, feed program, acreage allotments and marqueting quotas, price support commodity loans, national wool program and storage facility loans.

On-the-Farm Crop Testing Is Aid For Production

On the farm crop-testing is a must for the alert farmer, states Mervin Milsten, Middle River agriculture instructor. Finding new developments in crop production before adopting them into his own operation is one way of increasing farm income. Tests results of agricultural experiment stations furnish valuable information.

By judging these test findings with personal experience, a farmer can often determine the merits of a new variety or practice. At least he can sift out the most promising, Milsten said. It is often worthwhile to test under individual farming conditions, especially if it means a farmer must commit himself to a major change in operations or invest substantial capital.

Help in setting up an on-farm crop test can be obtained by contacting Milsten at the Middle River school.

Turkey Growers Elect Advisory Board for State

Russel G. Schwandt, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, has announced the election of 15 turkey producers to the advisory board to assist him in the administration of the turkey research and market development act adopted by the 1965 state legislature.

Certified by Commissioner Schwandt as elected to the Board from this area were Willard Mickelson, Frazzee (3 year term); Warren Carlson, Parkers Prairie (2 year term); and Eddie Velo, Rothsay (1 year term).

Area I, for which the above producers were elected, includes most of the northern half of the state. Its boundary line follows the southern borders of Wilkin, Otter Tail, Hubbard, Cass, Itasca, St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties. This area is listed as growing 2,648,000 turkeys.

The election was conducted by mail. Ballots were sent to all turkey growers of record as having grown or causing to be grown in the state of Minnesota 200 or more turkeys marketed for human consumption.

The newly elected advisory board is scheduled to meet with Commissioner Schwandt within 15 days to begin work on formulating an order establishing a program for market research and development. After the initial order is written, a public hearing will be held after which a final order will be submitted to the turkey growers in a referendum.

Duck Production Generally Good

A genrally bright picture of duck production on the Canadian prairies is presented by the end-of-July issue of the Ducks Unlimited "Duckological", prepared by Angus Gavin, general manager.

The report cites cold weather in May, plus torrential rains in late June and early July, as appearing to have been responsible for reduction of mallard and pintail production. It also state that lesser scaup suffered some nest losses due to flooding.

Mallard pairs and lone drakes are still present in unusually large numbers, which Gavin interprets as indication there is still some production to come. The late scaup hatch is now reaching its peak. Nesting is at its best in Alberta, the report states, but most of the production in Manitoba and Saskatchewan has been largely slowed by adverse weather conditions. One exception has been the Saskatchewan river delta in the north, where scaup and ringneck production has been rated good, especially where Ducks Unlimited structures exert control on water levels.

New Rye Variety Reduces Lodging, Has High Yields

Seed for Von Lochow rye—an extremely lodging-resistant variety which yields up to 70 bushels per acre on good land—is available in limited quantities for fall seeding.

Many seed firms affiliated with the Minnesota Approved Seed Processors association have been increasing their seedstocks of Von Lochow rye and it is now available from member plants.

Von Lochow, tested since 1958 by University of Minnesota agronomists, is best known for its stiff straw and high yields.

"Rye normally grows relatively tall, especially on rich, heavy soil," said Harold Roth, Cambridge, association president. "That's why lodging is historically such a problem with the common rye varieties. With Von Lochow, however, the straw is so strong and stiff that lodging is seldom a serious problem."

Von Lochow rye is one of the highest-yielding varieties ever tested in Minnesota. In seven years of university trials, the all-time, all-location average for Von Lochow is 47 bushels per acre. The all-time average yield at the Rosemount experiment station is 45 bushels; at Lamberton, 48; at Morris, 34; and at Grand Rapids, 61 bushels per acre.

"We know that on good land, a good stand of Von Lochow can be expected to yield from 50 to 70 bushels per acre," Roth said. "In last year's university foundation increase trials, for example, Van Lochow yielded nearly 60 bushels per acre at Rosemount and 70 bushels at Waseca.

"Von Lochow rye is slightly better in winter hardiness than Minter wheat," Roth said. "Von Lochow can therefore be expected to perform well wherever winter wheat is grown successfully. However," Roth cautioned, "Minnesota growers wishing a dependably winter hardy variety should use Caribou."

Von Lochow generally heads out about June 2 and is usually ready for harvest by about July 22. Plant height averages 44 inches.

Names of Minnesota Approved Seed Processing Plants are available from county agents or by writing to the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1, Minn.

IN THE VIKING HUDDLE

By Coach Norm Van Brocklin

The way our new boy, Bob Berry, has looked in training camp so far, we could be pretty well set at quarter back, not only for this coming season but for many years to come.

We already have two good ones, of course. We expect Fran Tarkenton to have his best year and become one of the great quarterbacks in the business. Ron Vanderkolen, our No. 2 man, has two years behind him and has improved a lot his year.

Berry has fast hands and gets rid of that ball in a hurry. He has another great attribute—plenty of poise. He doesn't get nervous back there when the pressure is on.

The physical side of quarterbacking is only part of it. It takes time—and plenty of it—to grasp the rest: Things like knowing how to pick apart the complex and varied defenses they throw at you in this league, how to beat a blitz, when to expect a receiver to cut off his pattern due to defensive maneuvers, ec.

This leaves the jury out on any rookie quarterback, but Berry certainly has impressed us so far, and he's an intelligent kid who should be able to learn.

A couple of obvious questions immediatley come up and we're asked them every day: "Do you plan to carry three quarterbacks or will you trade one of them?"

I don't believe in trading any quarterbacks who shows me that he might become a great one. They're too hard to come by, and they're too important to a football team. And, with today's 40-man rosters, there is no urgent need to cut down at this spot, so we are definitely planning to go with three.

"How do you keep all of them happy?"

This of course, is what we have to do. I've never believed in the two-or-three quarterback system, where a coach tries to split time equally among them. One of them has to take charge: In our case, it's Tarkenton.

But it is extremely important to have hood men behind him, to take over in case of injury and to keep he top man on his toes. Any good football player is going to get fidgety sitting on the bench-we don't want them if they don't—so it is a job to keep them happy.

Every man is different, so there's not pat answer as to how you do it—but we're not worrying about it. Vandy and Bob are smart men, and they know what the score is.

STRAIGHT scores of 25 were shot by the five trapshooters on this firing line who competed in the open event in the first annual Jaycee International trap shoot Sunday afternoon at the Thief River Trap club. They are, left to right, Orson Weekley, Deer River; Pat Fischer and Robert Mattson, Thief River Falls; Bud Tibbets, Deer River; and Alan Christenson, Thief River Falls. None of the shooters attained the perfect score of 50 birds, but Weekley won first place in the even with a score of 49.

FIELD and retrieving demonstration presented by Floyd Ball and Harry Pluth of the Thief River Retriever club was a new addition to the Sunday afternoon Aquacade water show. The Black Labrador retriever pictured above is retrieving a dummy thrown in to the river by its owner. In other phases of the demonstration, the dogs retrieved dummies hidden on the other side of the river and also retrieved live pigeons dropped on land.

OPEN class competition among 30 shooters at the Jaycee International Trap shoot Sunday afternoon was Orson Weekley of Deer River, who broke 49 out of 50 clay targets. He received his first place trophy from Marlys Mossestad, Miss Thief River Falls of 1965, who was crowned the preceding evening. A sports enthusiast herself, Miss Mossestad made her first attempt at trap shooting, breaking two out of three birds in a brief practice session.

NEW to the firing line but successful in her first attempt at trapshooting Sunday afternoon was Marlys Mossestad, 1965 Miss Thief River Falls. Marlys fired at three birds from Post 3 at the Thief River Trap club and broke two of them. She was on hand at the club to present trophies to winners of the three events in the first anual Jaycee International trap shoot.

BAREFOOT skiing was one of the feature events during the water sports show Sunday afternoon at Tindolph park as part of the 11th annual Jaycee Aquacade. Joel Fuller performed the feet feat behind the Grundy Aakhus boat piloted by Wendell Olson.

Mrs. A. Dahlstrom Authors Book on St. Hilaire Past

Just published and on sale now to the public is a booklet, "History of St. Hilaire, Minnesota," authored and published by Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom of St. Hilaire.

The work contains factual information pertaining to St. Hilaire, gathered over a period of years by the author from people who settled in the St. Hilaire area in the late 1800's, or from their relatives. It is supplemented with a number of pictures of early days in that village.

The history reveals that fur traders visited the St. Hilaire area as far back as 1655. The area, which includes Pennington and Red Lake counties, became the property of the United States as the result of a treaty made with the Indians at Old Settler's Crossing, near Huot, in 1863.

The author writes: "In 1896, with the coming of the saw mill, St. Hilaire had the potential of becoming one of the foremost cities in Northern Minnesota. The mill, reputedly the largest in the world, was acknowledged to the world's most modern. Hundreds of men were employed there and in a short time the town's population had mushroomed to well over 1,000 people.

"In 1906, after ten years of successful operation, owners of the mill decided to re-locate. They chose Bemidji for their new site and the mill was moved to that place. With this change, St. Hilaire's visions of grandeur vanished and a gradual decline set in. However, the people who remained kept their morale high and made St. Hilaire an attractive town and a good trading center for a large farming area."

Mrs. Dahlstrom has dedicated the history thus: "To the pioneers, who founded St. Hilaire, and to those who came after, this historical booklet is reverently dedicated."

Copies of the history have been placed on sale at Carnegie Public Library in Thief River Falls and L. B. Hartz store in St. Hilaire. Cost is $1 per copy. Mail orders should be addressed to Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom, St. Hilaire, Minn., and include an additional 25 cents for postage and handling.

Home Accidents Claim 481 Lives In State in '64

Home accidents in Minnesota have been increasing. Last year accidents in Minnesota homes took 481 lives — 34 more than in 1963, reports Mrs. Rosella Qualey, district supervisor, extension home economics, University of Minnesota, and chairman of the home safety committee, farm and home safety section of the Minnesota Safety council.

Records from the Minnesota department of health show that the largest number of these deaths occurred in the oldest and youngest age groups — 227 among people 65 and older and 86 among infants and children through age four.

Fall continued to be the number one cause of the fatal accidents. They were responsible for 211 deaths, an increase of 18 over the year before. More than three-fourths of the fatal falls, 169, were from different levels, for example, on the stairs or from step stools. Falls took the biggest toll among older people, particularly those 75 years and over.

More than a hundred Minnesota residents died as a result of fires, explosions and burns. Poisonings ranked third and suffocation fourth as causes.

Mrs. Qualey points out that children as well as adults can take responsibility for removing hazards about the home and yard. Merely picking up toys, garden tools and other objects from the lawn, the floor and stairs would prevent many of the falls that cause death or disabling injuries, she says.

The "Swim of Things"

After being bantered about for some time, the question of whether or not the residents of Thief River Falls would like to have a public swimming pool should soon be resolved. By "soon" we mean the November election, when a vote on a bond issue for proposed pool construction will be held.

The local swimming pool committee has adopted a preliminary plan prepared by a local engineering firm. Members of the committee have also ruled out the possibility of an indoor or year-round pool, due to expense of both construction and operation of an indoor pool. Instead, a heated pool is being planned to extend the length of the season and increase the number of days when the pool could be used.

Between now and the November election there is sure to be considerable discussion—and probably no little discord—regarding the type of pool, the cost, its location and its value or need. Each of these points is worthy of discussion, and each has been given careful consideration by the committee at prior meetings.

It will be the task of the committee—and members are also well aware of this—to present as complete a report as possible to residents of the community. This report should be more than "Other towns have . . and "We think probably it would be best to . . . " It should clearly list the reasons a pool is desirable or necessary, the estimated cost, planned method of financing, size of pool and its location and projected use.

It is certainly true that other area communities have seen fit to build pools in recent years. Among them are Ada, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Roseau and Warren. Communities with smaller populations require smaller pools and as a result spend less money than is proposed here. Conversely, there are fewer people to share the cost of such construction and operation.

The Jaycee community attitude survey taken more than a year ago indicated a decided interest in a swimming pool. The November election will determine whether or not that interest is still there. In the meantime, the committee has a monumental task to get the community 'in the swim of things".

Mistaken Mondale

Just about the time we were starting to believe that Sen. Walter Mondale was a pretty fair thinker in spite of his political ties, we received a long news release from his Washington office. This release indicates his interest in paralleling party lines, thereby ignoring what the "F" stands for in the DFL party.

Senator Mondale was opposing the so-called Dirksen Amendment which the proponent states is needed to preserve the rights of rural minorities. It relates to the question of whether or not both houses of state legislature must be elected on strictly a population basis. The U.S. Supreme Court has decreed that population is the only basis for election in state legislatures, but for some reason or another has not made the same ruling for the U.S. House and Senate.

"The real result of allowing state legislatures to apportion themselves on the basis of factors other than population" Mondale said, "will not be to give special weight to the interest of rural citizens or farmers, but to allow a privileged few to give greater representation to their friends and to the interests which are most accommodating to them."

We suppose we hold a little rural prejudice, but we do not agree with the fledgling senator in this case. We see nothing wrong with having one body of the state's legislature elect its members on a geographic basis. When taxes are being collected and spent, should 50 skid row welfare cases out-vote a heavily-taxed Red River Valley grain and livestock farmer 50 to one? There are many urban area votes for sale, and let us not believe that our former Attorney General is too naive to know it.

Senator Mondale states, "It is simply impossible to represent factors other than population without discriminating against people. Other factors, such as geography or political subdivision, are simply means of manipulating political power to reduce the political equality of some people and to perpetuate incumbents in office."

Again we disagree. It is simply impossible to provide fully equal representation on any basis. Persons under 21 may be affected by government to a large degree but are unable to vote, for instance. And it is highly possible to discriminate against people by not representing other factors than the "one man, one vote" theory.

The senator also said, "I am against giving any type of legislative majority—urban or rural—the right to discriminate against the majority. I want to guarantee every citizen—whether he lives in the city, on a farm, or in a suburb—his right to fair representation."

By creating a legislature elected totally on a population basis, Senator Mondale would be doing exactly what he professed wanting to prevent. He would create a legislature heavily controlled in both the house and senate by the urban areas, with that majority weighted toward the Minneapolis-St. Paul complex. Only by allowing geographic area to be considered as an election factor can this be prevented. We will thus have a legislature with two bodies which can serve as checks upon each other; this is fair representation.

Mark one point against Mr. Mondale on this issue; his words sound good but his theory is wrong. It is apparent his sympathies and loyalities lie with the metropolitan labor element and not the farmers who, although forsaken time and again, for some reason have maintained their loyalty to the DFL at the polls.

Crisis in Rural America

Bob Graham, manager of PKM Electric cooperative in Warren, recently wrote an article in the PKM "News", a monthly publication of the cooperative. While Mr. Graham and this editor do not always see eye-to-eye on certain questions—such as the two per cent interest rate offered by the federal government to rural electric cooperatives—but we agree 100 per cent with his recent article on "Crisis in Rural America". It is as follows:

Involvement of the federal government in the problems of agriculture have been based on the theory that there flows from Rural Society as from a clear, cold spring, a stream of youth infused with high moral and spiritual values that refreshes and purifies the nation as a whole. Thus, although the outward emphasis of federal involvement with the problems of Rural Society have been on the economic level, it should be recognized that all along there has been a feeling that rural living and the family type farm were worth presrving because of the importance of these human values to the nation.

During the past year, however, their has been disturbing and growing evidence of a dramatic shift in federal policy as it applies to Rural Society. We now read and hear that the economic problems of agriculture are insoluble—that is unless 2 million farmers representing in their family, aggregate 10 million people are uprooted from their rural way of life and transplanted over the next generation to our cities where presumably the promised land of economic opportunity abounds for all.

Why this shift in thinking and policy at the federal level? It is because the economists, the planners, the professors, those from whose forge of ideas are shaped the policies of the future, have come up with a new theory. After consulting their computers and slide rules, they have come up with the theory that states the spring is actually a stagnant pool; that it is a myth that the moral and spirinal values of rural living are inherently superior to those of urban life; that in fact, according to their statistics, rural society is in every way inferior to life in the cities. This being the case it would be far better for the federal government to direct its undivided attention to the massive problems of urban living.

To we who believe in rural living, the prospects of this new theory and the resulting shift in policy is both fantastic and frightening. Fantastic, because it represents a repudiation of almost 200 years of American history, of a nation that was founded upon and became great based upon a wedding of land and people. Frightening, because we are divided and few in numbers.

It seems almost ironic that in Viet Nam, in South America, and throughout the undeveloped world, our nation is spending millions of dollars to encourage the leaders of these countries to engage in a program of land reform, to divide up the land held by the wealthy few among the dispossessed, so as to save these countries from communism, while as the same time the very reverse of this process is beginning to take place in our own country.

In such circumstances it would be easy for us to fall prey to despair, to give up. However, I believe we can surmount our problems. The first step is to recognize the reality that we are now alone and must do the job ourselves. Secondly, on all fronts, particularly in the legislative and economic fields, we must become united. Diminished as we are in numbers, nothing less will suffice.

In the past, we have seen the disheartening spectacle of a declining rural population fragmenting its potential strength in the Halls of Congress and in the Market Place through internal bickering and dissension. Instead of settling on a common compromise solution for their economic salvation, farmers split their strength among various farm organizations that are hardly on speaking terms with each other. Meanwhile, the businessmen and those who live in our towns, whose livelihood is totally and utterly dependent upon serving the needs of agriculture, remain indifferent and aloof to its plight.

The time has now arrived when everybody must start bailing the boat, because we all are in the same boat, and nothing but a maximum effort on the part of all occupants will keep it from swamping. In the high winds of social change that today are sweeping across the nation, we must keep steadfast our eye on the compass of our faith that our rural way of life is worth fighting for and worth preserving.

Thank-you, Jaycees

This community owes a vote of thanks to the Jaycees for sponsoring another fine Aquacade event. The Aquacade, with its many events of interest to a variety of tastes has focused much favorable attention on our community and has provided our residents with a high caliber of entertainment.

If any one person is to be singled out for effort in this event, it is Dr. Donald Goodrich, general chairman of the Aquacade. In addition to the many hours of preparation which took him away from his work and his family, he devoted two full days away from his dental practice during the event itself. If he is able to sleep this week, his repose should be accomplished with a great deal of self-satisfaction.

To Dr. Goodrich and his fellow Jaycees, to the Mrs. Jaycees and all others who assisted in staging the 11th Annual Aquacade, go the grateful thanks of the people of Thief River Falls.

"To keep your marriage brimming,
With love in the loving cup,
Whenever you're wrong, admit it;
Whenever you're right, shut up."
—Ogden Nash

SMOKE SCREEN was created by simulated mortar fire from infantrymen of the Thief River Falls national guard unit to hide defensive positions from an advancing enemy during their Aquacade demonstration in Riverside park Wednesday night. A simulated combat situation was portrayed with enemy troops advancing on Thief River Falls from the south. No artillery was available to the local soldiers, so they fortified the north side of the river with small-arms defenses and succeeded in repulsing the agressor. The smoke bombs in this case were projectiles fired from rifle-mounted grenade launchers. Shelling and radio messages were played from a tape recorder and were explained to the audience by Capt. Richad A. Edlund, company commander. All weapons issued to the local unit were fired with blank ammunition, the climax being the "final protective line"—a burst of firepower designed to halt troops which have advanced to within a short distance of defenses.

SIX MEN are assigned to the mortar squad, each carrying one of the components—base, bipod, gun and ammunition—of the 81 mm. mortar. Sighting of the high-trajectory weapon is accomplished by lining the sight with a tall pole, which the third man from right has just inserted in the ground a short distance in front of the gun. Ammunition is generally of the fragmentation type, though the weapon can also fire smoke bombs. This was one of several infantry weapons demonstrated by the Thief River Falls national guard unit Wednesday night in Riverside park.

COMPACT but deadly is the 3.5-inch rocket launcher, an infantry weapon issued to the Thief River Falls national guard unit and demonstrated to a large audience Wednesday evening in Riverside park. Two men man this weapon, a gunner and an ammunition carrier and loader. For obvious reasons, the weapon was not fired, but both launcher and projectile were shown to the crowd. Both armor-piercing and fragmentation projectiles are fired from the weapon.

EVERYONE has his way of being crazy on Crazy Day, and Beatlemania is the way of Jack Edmiston, proprietor of the Rex cafe, who donned a Beatle wig and borrowed a guitar from the Larson music company. He is pictured with his son Lee, and his daughters, Susan and Jo Lynn, beside the lemonade stand they operated on the sidewalk in front of the cafe during Crazy Day last Wednesday.

BY BILL DAHLQUIST

Side Line Observations
Bill Dahlquist

Our Hubert H. Humphrey stated recently that "the struggle for racial equality has only begun." He did give casual recognition of the fact that slavery had been outlawed but he didn't give Abraham Lincoln credit for signing the Emancipation Proclamation. Humphrey, in establishing his own great leadership in the battle for racial equality, obviously did not want to be associated with any riff-raff Republicans.

But just as a matter of keeping the record straight, Abraham Lincoln was not the first white man who recognized the unjustices of slavery and racial discrimination, and the mighty Hubert might familiarize himself with the historical background of the struggle for racial equality before he starts building monuments to himself.

Let's be realistic and adjust ourselves to the obvious facts that exist and will continue to exist throughout the records of many generations, great progress has already been made and will continue to be made for centuries to come. But at the end of each century there will still be Sir Huberts who will rise up in self-glorification and say, at last we have started to make progress in our efforts to put an end to discrimination.

The American Negro is so far advanced over the cousins in Africa who were not subjected to slavery that no comparison is possible by living and cultural standards. Actually our sympathy should be with the cousins who were left in Africa rather than with the descendants of those who were brought to our country as slaves.

Many of us can remember when Negros were not permitted to participate in sports with white players. Now some of our greatest athletes at both the professional and college levels are Negroes, and Hubert Humphrey had nothing to do with that gradual change. Nor did the change come about by the passing of a law.

Time will take care of our race problem in our country in a few centuries, and in a few more centuries the world's race problems will gradually become less important and less difficult. Eventually, if in the meantime we do not destroy ourselves, there will be no race problem, mainly because all races will be closely related.

"If the rascals new the advantages of virtue they would become honest men."

—Benjamin Franklin

Our war in Asia will soon be in full bloom and once again we will be fighting a war that no one will win, and both sides, including our side, will lose.

It now appears that we have a one-man dictatorship in our country. Congress has degenerated into a spineless law making body that shouts its approval of all requests that are made by the dictator. It is a sorry spectacle, and a shameful one.

We, the American people, are responsible for the mess we are in. We asked for it and we are getting what we asked for. With the exception of a few individual members, the Republican party is just as shamefully weak as is the party of the President.

Only a miracle can save us, and that miracle may come in the form of a disaster.

"In this world nothing can be said to be certain, except death and taxes."

Benjamin Franklin.

Are strikes by public employees more contrary to the public interest than are the run-of-the-mill industrial strikes? The Wall Street Journal thinks they are and in support of this position it states:

"There should not be much argument about banning strikes by public employees—be they teacher policemen, firemen or members of any other group. Nobody is required to accept public employment, but when anyone chooses to do so he accepts certain obligation from which employees of nonpublic enterprises are free. One obligation is to stay on the job for plainly failure to do so can be perilous to the community at large."

I'll string along with that approach to the argument and I am quite sure that most of us would agree that policemen and firemen should figure out other ways of settling their differences over disputes about wages and working conditions. At some points in such arguments in general there might be some justification for a taxpayer's strike.

But the thing that aroused the fury of the Journal on this particular occasion was the growing demands among organized teachers for pay increases forced upon the taxpayers by school shutdowns.

Well, as one who missed a year of schooling I suppose I could argue that a one year school shutdown would not necessarily be disastrous. But unfortunately some of my "friends" might use me as as example of the bad effects that might result from a year out of school.

Forunately we have no problem of this kind threatening us in the foreseeable future at the local level. But teachers' strikes are becoming more common throughout the country, especially in the large cities. There have been two such strikes in New York City in the past five years. A New York law provided that a public employee who strikes shall be fired but this law was not invoked against the teachers in New York because the politicians didn't want to offend 48,000 voters.

Maybe a crafty solution to this problem would be to permit only those teachers to vote who paid local real estate taxes. But why argue about that? Teachers, in general, are good people.

David Lawrence, writing for the New York Herald Tribune Service, quotes fromer President Eisenhower as saying that national political conventions are disorderly and undignified, and that they should be reformed. Lawrence agrees with Eisenhower but expresses the opinion that conventions have outlived their usefulness and should be abolished. He states:

"They are undemocratic and unrepresentative. They are controlled by cliques and factions and big city bosses."

We are moving into an era in which our politics will be controlled more and more by big bosses, under the provisions of a Supreme Court ruling that reduces the power of the rural area of the states.

Incidentally, our dearly beloved Hubert is one of the champions of this change that will give greater voting strength in the state legislatures to the large cities.

Our country, and the world, lost a good leader when Adlai Stevenson died suddenly recently. Stevenson never did reach the higher peaks of statesmanship, unfortunately. Maybe he didn't push himself as much as he should have. Perhaps he was too well balanced by a spirit of humility that kept him from reaching the heights he so much deserved. His replacement by noisier leaders was not always in the best interests of the nation and the world he served so well, but which he might have served better if granted the opportunity.

"There's a time to wink as well as to see."

Benjamin Franklin.

by Virginia Gjernes

Whether you read for laughs, for learning, for facts or fiction...your public library is the place to go! Whatever the season...or the reason, visit your library often. And there's no time like the present! Bring your card along, or register for one if you haven't done so... or get a new one if the old one has disappeared!

If it is laughs you're after...try "A Child's Garden of Misinformation", harvested by Art Linkletter and illustrated by Charles Saxon. You'll chuckle, giggle and laugh aloud at some...no, at all of the wacky, hilarious, unexpected bloopers picked at random as the author skittered down the primrose path!

Bill Adler, editor of "The Kennedy Wit", now has "The Churchill Wit" to his list of credits. This small book holds great thoughts and portrays the man—soldier, statesman and author—as a character of engaging wit.

If it is learning you're after take home "The Making of the President, 1964" by Theodore H. White. This narrative history of American politics tells the story of the year of decision which began with the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. It engulfs the Republican Party civil war, tells of the revolution of the American Negro and leads you straight into the battle between President Johnson and Barry Goldwater. This is an engrossing book and one entirely different from the author's Pulitzer Prize-winning history "The Making of the President 1960".

History—the close-at-home-variety is also available at your public library. Read the story of Marshall County's "Historic Old Mill" by Neil Mattson of Warren. If you feel so inclined you may purchase, for the small sum of $1.00, the "History of St. Hilaire" at your library. This new booklet is one compiled by Mrs. Arvid Dahlstrom and is complete with photographs. You may purchase a copy or read one while in the library.

The story complete account of that unique American institution, the Supreme Court, is written by Leo Pfeffer and entitled "This Honorable Court". Faith Baldwin's "Living by Faith" is new on the shelf. Hal Borland's "Countryman: A Summary of Belief" is also available. Remember to take home "Coming of Age in America" by Edgar Z. Friedenberg. This book is based on hundreds of interviews with students enrolled in a variety of high schools and on a battery of psychological tests. Morton White, in his N.Y Review of Books, states "what emerges is a portrait of an educational system that seems determined to root out individuality and discourage excellence." It ought to be read by anyone interested in the education of adolescents.

Young readers will be interested in "Your Career in Journalism" by M. L. Stein. The author, an associate professor of journalism at New York University, was a newspaperman for 17 years.

New fiction available at your public library includes "Let Me Count the Ways" by DeVries; "The Garden of the Tinzi-Continis" by Bassani; "The Sent of Power" by Horan; "The Looking Glass War" by Le Carre; and the 20th annual collection of "Best Detective Stories of the Year" edited by Boucher.

How many of these on the N.Y. Times best-seller lists have you had time to read? Fiction readers take note of: Michener's "The Source"; Kaufman's "Up the Down Staircase"; West's "The Ambassador"; Hailey's "Hotel"; Knebel's "Night of Camp David"; Wouk's "Don't Stop the Carnival"; Moore's "The Green Berets"; the LeCarre volume mentioned above; Caldwell's "A Pilar of Iron" and du Maurier's "Flight of the Falcon".

Non-fiction selections still has "Markings" by Hammarskjold at the top of the list. It is followed by "The Oxford History of the American People" by Morison and "Is Paris Burning?" by Collins and Lapierre. The list continues with "Queen Victoria: Born to Succeed" by Longford and "Journal of a Soul" by Pope John XIII. "My Shadow Ran Fast" by Sands; "Sixpence in Her Shoe" by McGinley; and "The Founding Father" by Whalen.

Just remember...whatever your reason for reading, make your public library your headquarters. The best is right at your finger tips!

THREE CHEERS

Here comes the winner! Can he hold that first place position, or will he fall? In the eyes of these youngsters, victory is the most important thing in the world. Everything hinges on the outcome of this contest!

Enthusiasm is part of successful living, stimulating the imagination, and inspiring the mind. It is contagious, too, and can affect co-workers, friends, families. It is essential to organizations as well as to individuals.

Through the centuries a rich spiritual enthusiasm has been handed down by the Church, one of the greatest institutions on earth. Its members, working together, fired by the enthusiasm of faith, can give you renewed inspiration, and strength.

Why not attend church next Sunday? Become a part of this great fellowship of believers! You, too, can be a winner.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
